

The Quincy Patriot

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1912

FAREWELL TO MR. BLAKE.

The farewell to Deacon W. F. Blake in Memorial church Thursday evening was one of the most touching services ever held in the church. It showed the esteem and love in which Mr. Blake was held in the community, and was more like the breaking up of a loving family than the removal of a church member.

The choir sang two of Mr. Blake's favorite selections and Miss Maud Read read a poem written by Spencer Apollonio for the occasion. Rev. T. W. Davison spoke of the love and affection which all felt for Mr. Blake, and the effect of his life, influence and work in the church. It seemed as if no three however good they might be could fill his place.

Mr. Davison said that many had used the expression since last Sunday "The bottom has fallen out," meaning that the loss was great. But he expressed confidence that there would come a deeper consolation.

Mr. Blake spoke words of encouragement for the future of the church. He takes up his work in Toronto on Monday.

COLONIAL FAMILIES.

The American Society of Colonial Families, including representatives of family associations, historic, social and patriotic societies, will meet in Park Street church, Boston, Oct. 10. There will be a social reception at 5 o'clock and dinner at six.

Topic: Beginnings of New England. Three young people will recite two minute passages from the great historians. Helen Gray: The New World—Egmont; Zula S. Doane: The Puritan Exodus—Fiske; Marjorie L. Gilmore: The Puritan Character—Parkman. There will be twenty minute addresses on The French Influence by Sterling Pomeroy, M. D., president Pomeroy Association and Holland's Participation by William H. van Allen, S. T. D., rector, church of the Advent. Prof. Eustace B. Rice of New England Conservatory of Music and Ernest Sheldon, will furnish music also Miss Ella Chamberlain the whistler. Dean George Hodges, D. D., L. L. D., will preside.

BETHANY BROTHERHOOD.

A meeting of the men of the Bethany church was held in the church Wednesday evening to talk over the project of forming a men's club in the church, similar to the men's clubs in several of the other churches of the city. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott made temporary chairman and Victor E. Miller temporary secretary. Rev. Mr. Willmott gave an interesting talk on Men's clubs pointing out the need of a similar club in this church.

There were 35 men present and after his remarks Mr. Willmott called in turn upon each of those present to express their views. All were in favor of the plan to form a club and it was voted that a committee of three be appointed by the chairman to draw up a set of by laws to be reported at a meeting to be held next Wednesday evening. This same committee will also report a list of permanent officers, who will be elected at this meeting.

NEW GRAND KNIGHT.

The annual meeting of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus was held in Greenleaf Hall, Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and following the elections of officers for the ensuing year there was an enthusiastic discussion of the Columbus eve celebration. The following officers were elected:

Grand Knight—Michael T. Walsh. Deputy Grand Knight—William A. Carey. Chancellor—Marcus P. Mahon. Financial Secretary—Richard A. Cole.

Recording Secretary—John T. Catn. Treasurer—Michael T. Sullivan. Warden—Thomas Griffin. Advocate—John E. Lynch.

Delegate to Boston Chapter for 5 years—John W. Lynch. Delegate to the state convention—Grand Knight elect Walsh and Grand Knight Edward D. Barrett; M. T. Sullivan and E. J. Murphy alternate.

The following were appointed members of the installation committee and will make arrangements to have the officers installed by district deputy Joseph A. Foley in November: Michael T. Walsh, William A. Carey, Marcus P. Mahon, Thomas Griffin.

CONVASCENT.

Rev. John Lillback, pastor of the Finnish Congregational church is out again after a hard siege of illness which kept him confined to the house for several weeks. Mr. Lillback was pretty sick when he started on a so-called vacation. He has been entirely recovered and is now speaking for several nights at various places until he was finally forced to give up and take the advice of his physicians. He was operated upon by Drs. Sheahan and Reynolds. Although able to be out at the present time he shows the signs of his hard siege of illness.

He says that the people of his parish were more than kind to him during his enforced absence from his usual walks and he fully appreciates the many sentiments of good feeling expressed towards him.

Mr. Lillback's parishioners are very glad to see him once more ministering to their spiritual wants.

QUINCY W. T. C. U.

The regular meeting of the W. T. C. U. was held in Protection hall Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. James Matheson presiding. Reports of the officers were read and old and new business discussed.

Two visitors were present, Mrs. George French of North Weymouth and Mrs. Lucy Boyce of Laconia, N. H. Mrs. Boynton told of the flourishing condition of the Laconia W. T. C. U., it having a large membership and active and enthusiastic workers in the cause. It is hoped to make the local union one of which it may be said, the members are working for the good of humanity.

Next week a three days' convention is to be held in Boston. Mrs. Matheson is to attend as a delegate also other members of the union. There will be able and eloquent speakers, money, as of giving the people of Quincy "the best possible."

BRIEFS

Mrs. Albert M. Thompson of Whitwell street is at her home sick with a very severe cold.

The Norfolk County Association of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. is to hold its convention in Dedham on Wednesday, October 9th. The W. R. C. ladies' meeting will be in Greenleaf hall beginning promptly at ten o'clock. Dinner will be served by Corps 104 in Memorial hall at 12 o'clock. There will be an entertainment in Memorial hall in the afternoon to complete the exercises of the day. A large attendance is looked for.

Although the district court building was treated to a sand blast cleaning last week it was necessary to remove the stains of the acid used in cleaning the granite. According to John L. Miller the sand blast will not do the business. Mr. Miller says that he possesses a method of cleaning the granite that he will guarantee will remove the stain, but because it is Miller that offers to do the work the County Commissioners will not hear to him.

Frank A. Tirrell Jr., left Saturday for Bangor, Me., where he will attend the college of law of the University of Maine. Mr. Tirrell is a son of one of Quincy's well known attorneys. He is a graduate of the Quincy High school in the class of 1911. During the past winter he attended the night law school of the Boston Y. M. C. A. being employed during the day at the office of the Granite Cutters' union. His friends wish him success in his chosen profession.

On the first Sunday evening in October the people of Bethany church will commence the Pleasant Sunday evening services. The singing will be led by a chorus of young ladies and the congregational singing will be inspiring. The subjects of the lectures will be of vital interest to all, especially to the young people of the city. All those who are not attending other churches are cordially invited to co-operate with us in making our church a better and brighter place in which to live.

Mrs. William L. Johnson of Chicago who has been on an extended visit to her sister, Mrs. Frank P. Hill, Gothland street, has returned to her home. During her visit she visited many points of interest in and around Quincy, was very much impressed with the beauty and attractions of the place and looks forward to another visit with many anticipations of pleasure, when she will renew pleasant acquaintances made and revisit with renewed interest the places which pleased her so much this summer.

The Young Men's Christian Association is arranging a lecture and entertainment course and plans to offer the people of Quincy one of the finest series of lectures and concerts possible to obtain, comprising the very best talent in the musical and lecture field, with artists of recognized ability and lectures of national reputation. The idea is to present a course of five numbers of such character and merit that it cannot fail to commend itself to all, and at a price within the reach of everyone. The enterprise is not so much with the idea of making money, as of giving the people of Quincy "the best possible."

The weekly whist tournaments at the Granite City club for the winter of 1912 and 1913 opened Wednesday evening with seven and a half tables in play. Twenty-five hands of progressive whist was played at the conclusion of which the Entertainment committee served ice cream, cake, coffee, crackers and cheese. The two best scores were made by H. A. Jones and T. G. Smith. The former's score was 78 per cent and the latter 71 per cent.

A novel method of campaigning has been introduced to the voters of the 14th congressional district and those who are attending rallies are having the opportunity of seeing Col. Henry L. Kincade of Quincy and Mayor Charles Williamson of Brockton, side by side. Both were on the program at an enthusiastic rally held at Dedham, Saturday night by the Bull Moose party and they plan to appear on the same platform in friendly contest until the campaign closes.

Several of the stores in City Square closed at 10 Wednesday in order that their clerks might attend the Brockton fair. Quincy however misses the sights that they formerly witnessed at Brockton fair days, before the automobiles came into general use. In those days hundreds of tally ho parties passed through City Square every day of the fair and on their return at night there was more or less rowdyism. Now the parties take the route through Milton and Randolph, which is much shorter in addition to being better roads.

John Pfaffman of Goff street has entered Harvard college.

Miss Margaret Harding of the class of 1911 of Quincy High is taking a special course at Simmons college.

With the Cafe Chantant, the 18th, a Halloween dance, Nov. 1st and the annual assembly and Twelfth Night revels following soon after it looks as though the social season of the Quincy Women's club would be a lively and enjoyable one.

A meeting of the Parents-Teachers Association of the Coddingdon school will be held in the Assembly hall of the school on Wednesday evening, Oct. 9, at 8 o'clock. An interesting program has been arranged by the committee, and a large attendance is desired.

The Massachusetts branch of the National Congress of Mothers is to meet at Greenleaf, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. Mothers clubs and teachers associations affiliated with the club are urged to send delegates as the Greenleaf branch is making great preparations to entertain its guests.

Mrs. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson, who has been spending the summer at their camp in Maine on Wednesday, returned to her home on Tuesday, Oct. 2, and will be in the Quincy area in September. Rev. and Mrs. Hudson are making their home this winter with Mr. and Mrs. Perry Lawton, of Presidents hill.

Another number recently added to the already attractive program for the Cafe Chantant to be given by the Quincy Women's club, is to be filled by Paul Blackmur and John C. Jones, Jr. Just what they are to do is a secret, but judging from their past successes all are guessing it is something very clever.

After the long summer season with members widely scattered, the Quincy Women's club is to resume meetings on Tuesday at the clubhouse when there will be a reception to new members, also reports of Federation meetings by Mrs. Albert E. Avery, Mrs. Edmund S. Wade and Mrs. John G. Worster, followed by a social hour. Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, president, and club officers will extend greeting and receive club members. An attractive program has been arranged for the season.

An exceptional opportunity is afforded young men to get a technical education in the evening industrial schools which open next Monday evening. It will be the first time that evening industrial education has been undertaken by the public school department and it will be interesting to see how much interest is taken in them, which will be shown by the attendance on the opening evening. If the attendance does not warrant the classes will not be continued. Able instructors have been engaged for all departments taught.

The annual concert and hall of the Quincy Firemen's Relief association will be held in Music hall Friday evening November 15.

One is not in style now a days unless he or she is nursing a good head cold. Those who are not in style in this respect have no desire to be the majority.

It is expected that Dock and Water Front Commissioner Frank F. Crane will make his report on the public dock question, in print at the meeting of the Council Monday evening.

Arrangements for a roll call and banquet were made at a meeting of Quincy Court, M. C. O. F. held Wednesday evening at G. A. R. hall. The twenty-third anniversary of its organization.

Richard Olney 2d who was defeated at the recent primary caucuses for the Democratic congressional nomination from the fourteenth district gave an informal dinner Thursday evening at Thompson's restaurant to the men who worked in Quincy in his interest during the campaign.

Representatives of a well known Boston tea and coffee firm were in town Friday morning looking for a location to open a branch store. They found it impossible however to get location in City Square. It is reported that other firms are seeking locations in Quincy, with the same result.

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of the Bethany Congregational church will deliver the address at the laying of the cornerstone of the Brintree Congregational church, Sunday. The new edifice will be ready for use about Christmas and is built on the site of the church which was destroyed by an early morning fire last winter.

WOLLASTON

The Walther Men's class will meet Sunday at 12:15 in the Wollaston Baptist church. Rev. Joseph Walther will lead the discussion. All men not in other classes are invited. Rev. Christopher R. Eliot of Boston is to address the Y. P. R. U. of the Wollaston Unitarian church at its meeting at seven o'clock, Sunday night.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Wollaston Congregational church held their first business meeting about noon and social this fall in the vestry of the church on Wednesday evening, a good number being present. Following the business meeting, games and singing were enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the social committee, Miss Mary Broughton, chairman.

Dr. B. F. Bowles, of Wollaston has moved his dental office from 327 to 245 Newport avenue over Brooks' drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. James Chester Bates of Wollaston, announce the engagement of their daughter Miss Rubina Madeline, to Mr. Albert David Healey, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Healey of Wollaston.

Miss Marion Moorhouse, the cellist played at the Mr. Herman school, at Northfield, on Monday evening. The audience was very enthusiastic and she received a double encore for her solo number.

Those interested in the Wollaston school are looking forward with pleasure to the concert to be held the latter part of this month in the school hall under the direction of Miss Clara E. G. Thayer. The talent will be made up of the younger musical artists and is held for the purpose of raising money for the purchase of a piano to be used for the younger pupils of the school.

George B. Weston of Providence, R. I. who is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Weston of Newport avenue left this week for Hudson where he has accepted a position with the Apple Rubber Company.

Another very large congregation welcomed Dr. Sneath at the morning service Sunday. In contradistinction to the widely discussed topic "Why Smith does not attend church," Dr. Sneath chose for his subject "What is the reason for that?" The magazines and papers of today seem to feel that the Church is losing its power and discussion is rife along this line. Dr. Sneath is certainly not worrying over the outlook, and probably very few of his hearers were.

He told in a forceful manner that the church is not only losing power, but is in the estimation of religious leaders and historians, on the very verge of the greatest revival of interest ever known.

Next Sunday morning Rev. Carl G. Smith will deliver a series of sermons entitled "The Four Ages of the Republic." These cornerstones are the Home, the Public School, the Church and Sunday. The public is cordially invited to attend these services. All who are free.

Nathan Robinson and family, who two years ago moved to Sharon, Mass. are about to return to Wollaston, where they will receive a hearty welcome from their many friends in the parish. Mr. Robinson served the church as clerk for a number of years. They will live at 66 Taylor street.

Travel talks are always interesting, especially when we know the speaker and the speaker is relating personal experiences. Such a talk will be given by Mrs. Wm. E. Houghton in the Parish Rooms on Tuesday evening, October 8. Its title is "Memorable Days in Other Lands." Admission is ten cents and tickets may be had in advance of many of the Parish boys or at the Rectory. The proceeds are for the Parish House Fund.

Quincy is likely to lose a number of its Greek population in the immediate future. Several of the Greeks employed in City Square have received letters from the Creek Consul that they are wanted at home to defend the flag and are making preparations to respond to the call.

MILTON

The historical pageant to which the residents of Milton and surrounding towns are looking forward to will be given on the Hutchinson Field Saturday. Arrangements were made to have the production given when Milton celebrated her anniversary but the difficulty of the parts and the details of the production required extra time.

A grand stand has been erected which will stand 2000 people and 500 more can be accommodated at each end of it. Music will be furnished by Krane's orchestra. There are five episodes, each taking about 20 minutes with a five minute intermission.

The episodes are as follows: I—"Sons of the Forest, 1630." II—"Peter Thatchers Ordination, 1681." III—"Reception in Governor Belcher's Time, 1720-41." IV—"Departure of Governor Hutchinson, 1774." V—"The Call to Arms, 1775."

New Moon, Oct. 10, 8.41 A.M.

Letter writing is gaining in importance among the people of Quincy.

Those burglars are getting too busy for comfort. When they are finally rounded up they will have a lot to answer for.

Boston will soon gain as big a reputation as a city of playhouses as New York enjoys the distinction of being a city of hotels.

That battlemented fortification in New York harbor Columbus day will be a grim gray line. May its future missions never be more ominously gray than on this occasion.

Would a private business concern date a loan a month back and pay $500 before securing the use of the same in order to avoid trouble in book-keeping?

If any one escaped being tagged Saturday they were lucky to avoid that energetic army of youngsters who worked so diligently in a worthy cause.

RETURNS GRATIFYING.

While reports have not been received from all sources, enough has been learned to satisfy those who are interested in the Day Nursery movement, that the amount realized Tuesday, last Saturday was gratifying in the extreme. Every one connected with the great demonstration that day, should feel a degree of pride at the result of their labors and citizens in general unite in their support of the movement and assisting those who perform the active work of the enterprise.

The young people, boys and girls worked splendidly. They were energetic, persistent and held up every person they met. No one escaped.

They have their reward in aiding a good and worthy cause, which is rapidly gaining in importance and which offers aid in a manner which is much appreciated without making the beneficiary, really under obligation or in the position of accepting charity.

COAL ADVANCED.

The retail price of coal of all varieties advanced fifty cents per ton Tuesday in Quincy in common with Boston and other places in the immediate vicinity. According to the morning papers no one appears to advance any particular reason for the raise. The wholesalers say that they have not advanced the price to retailers and are unable to account for the increase at this time although it was expected that the price would rise later in the season.

Local dealers give as the reason for the increase of price, that they are unable to get coal to supply their trade. They have ended with who are unable to get a supply without paying a premium over the usual price, and it is natural if they pay a premium the amount of that premium will come out of the consumer.

ANNUAL DANCE.

Delegations from Brockton, Dorchester, Roxbury, Braintree, Weymouth and Boston, Jewish organizations will be present at the annual dance of Young Men's Hebrew Association at Alpha Hall, October 22. The organization is made up of the younger Jewish men in Quincy and has been prominent in this city.

The committee in charge of the affair is Edward Berman, Sidney Litchman, Abraham Silver and William Ames. The following are the first officers of the association.

President—William Wolf.
Vice President—Abraham Silver.
Treasurer—Louis Schatz.
Secretary—Israel Steigman.

STREET CAR CHANGES.

A number of changes are noted in the new time table of the Bay State street railway which went into effect Thursday. The main changes are on the Houghs Neck line. On this line cars for the beach now leave for Quincy at 5.15, 5.35, 6.10, 6.40, 7.10 and every 10 and 40 minutes past the hour until 11.10 p. m. then 11.50 p. m. On Sunday the first car for the beach at 6.50 a. m. and the last car for the beach leaves at 11.10 p. m.

Returning cars leave the beach for Quincy at 5.40, 6.00, 6.30, 7.00, 7.30 a. m. on the hour and 30 minutes past the hour until 11.35 p. m. then 12.10 p. m. Sundays the first car for Quincy leaves at 7.20 a. m. and the last car at 11.55 p. m.

There are practically no changes of importance on the other lines running out of City Square.

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD.

The first business meeting of this season of the St. Margaret's Guild of the Christ church will be held tonight at the parish house.

The object of the guild is "To Work for Others" and in its eight years of existence the members have been liberal contributors to missions.

A meeting is held weekly and social and sewing nights, addresses and entertainments are the usual routine.

The president is Miss Florence M. Ford; vice president, Miss Elizabeth G. Dickie; secretary, Miss Marion Bolter; treasurer, Miss Ethel M. Schools. Miss Emily Moyle is chairman of the membership committee and Miss Ethel Osborn is chairman of the flower committee.

The guild has gained through its work the widespread attention of the church and its influences has been felt in many parts of the city.

COMMITTEE ORGANIZED.

The Republican city committee organized Thursday evening with Louis F. R. Langer as chairman; Commodore Ira M. Whittemore, treasurer and Councilman Harry G. Studley as secretary. Henry P. Kittredge, who has joined the Hall Moore party resigned as treasurer. The resignation of John O. Hall as secretary was also received.

BOARD OF TRADE.

After a 30 minutes discussion, the matter of a state bath house at Wollaston Beach, was referred to the legislative committee of the Board of Trade, with instructions for that body to use every effort for the establishment of such a public requirement, at the meeting Wednesday evening.

It was a regular meeting of the Board of Trade and William G. Shaw presided.

Reference to the committee on steam railroads of the difference in rates so Boston as compared to Quincy from all points was made by Mr. Sedgwick. He recommended that the committee compile a table showing freight rates to Quincy from water competitive points from which large shipments are received and the rates to the city of Boston.

A resolution presented by dock commissioner, Frank F. Crane, pledging the support of the board to the public dock question was adopted. The resolution was as follows:

"Voted—That the Board of Trade hereby agree to support the building of a public dock in the immediate future for the use of all citizens and to create a public sentiment in its favor."

James M. Cantfill, sealer of weights and measures, advised the board that he had submitted a table of weights to all pedlars, and was requiring them to carry a scale according to the statutes.

An invitation to join in the association membership of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was referred to the Board of Directors. Mayor Stone, Joseph Walker, Peter F. Fallon and Andrew Milne, Jr. spoke in favor of the resolve. Joseph Walker said:

"Quincy is ever young and I am growing old. While we are dropping off others are continually taking our places, so in that way our corporations have youth in their favor. There should be a way into Quincy and a way out and it will tend to bring more business to our city."

The committee on train service through J. O. Hall reported that they had conferred with A. G. Smith, General Passenger Agent, regarding train service and that it is probable that the railroad will favor the Quincy package with additional service.

Resolutions offered by Secretary Hall on the death of James F. Burke were adopted.

HOME COMING SOCIAL.

Members of the Wollaston Baptist church gathered in the chapel, Wednesday evening, for a home coming social. They have ended with who are unable to get a supply without paying a premium over the usual price, and it is natural if they pay a premium the amount of that premium will come out of the consumer.

The orange groves and the ostrich and alligator farms were described. One peculiar incident in Jacksonville was the encounter of a sight seeing party with a sign reading "Leaves Park Square daily at 10 and 12."

The young ladies attractively dressed in kimono, who served the dishes were: Misses Stella Cummings, Gertrude Pletsch, Lena Kilpatrick, Natalie Scott, Ethel Akerberg, Christina Hall, Edna Shaw, Miriam Breen and Mildred Podbury.

Miss Mabel Doran, arrayed as a genuine "chink," pig tail and all, was the hit of the evening. The supper was in charge of Mrs. Alonzo V. Bisset and Mrs. W. K. Brown.

For the camp fire talk a tent and artificial camp fire with a back ground of bushes was arranged. With the lights of the vestry turned out and the camp fire turned on the effect was most striking.

With this setting a program of songs and stories was given an opening overture being most acceptably rendered by Miss Mabel Davenport.

"My Chop Suey Babe" brought down the house when sung by some individual behind the bushes. The blame was equally distributed between the pastor, Lieutenant Wilson and Mr. Colby.

Rev. William B. Ayers told a most interesting story of adventure which ended with his waking up. The "Dante Hymn" of the Republic was sung by the choir and the audience joined in the chorus.

"Tom's party" was read by Mr. Colby and a poem by Lieutenant Wilson. The "foreign winners" was loudly applauded.

"Tenting Tonight" was effectively rendered by Miss Ruth Hardy. A corned beef and cabbage was served by Miss Henrietta C. Gram.

The "Tale of the submarine" was read by Arnetus Dingwell and "Berle Arkwright's Adventures in the Solomon Islands" proved very laughable.

"Yankee Doodle" was sung by the choir and the audience chimed in with enthusiasm.

"When I cremated Sam Magee" a thrilling poem of the far north was read by Mr. Wilson and the audience departed to the strains of "Home Sweet Home."

SUPPER BY BOYS.

A most enjoyable period was spent by the members and friends of the Hall Place M. E. Sunday school in the vestry of the church, Wednesday evening, when the boys and men of the Sunday school gave a supper to the girls.

Last spring the Sunday school decided to hold a contest in the school, placing the boys against the girls. At that time it was thought that both sides were evenly balanced. The merits of the contest were to be based on new scholars, attendance at church, attendance at Sunday school, time spent on study of lesson outside of classroom, memorizing new verses, good conduct and collection, each part to receive a specified number of points in proportion to its importance.

At first the contest was a close one but it did not take long for the girls to lead off by several thousand points. The girls were the "Blues" and the boys boys the "Reds." The contest lasted three months closing July 1st. The Blues at that time being considerably ahead. A close examination of the records revealed that the Blues had a slight difference in numbers at the start and so it was decided that the final announcement of the winning side was made, the number of points scored by each side would be averaged more evenly. This method failed to help the "Reds" in any way. The boys were cheerful losers however, and according to the agreement made at the start, they set about arranging for the supper as soon as the hot weather should cease. Mr. Francis' class of boys and Mrs. Martin's class of boys, assisted by the men of the pastored were the committee in charge. It was a success in every way and judging by this supper there are some good cooks among the boys of this Sunday school.

At the close of the supper the pastor made the announcements for the week and then called on the Superintendent of the church, Alex. Steward. He said he was sure that the children had enjoyed themselves and urged them all to attend the Sunday school, October 6th on Rally Day.

A. H. Merry of Wollaston spoke earnestly and from a personal standpoint on the importance and work of the Sunday school, and said that no matter what other department of the church work must be let go, the Sunday school should be maintained. He laid special emphasis on the particular work of the young men's class and the way in which he handled the boys who were both familiar and deeply interested in the work of the Sunday school.

The Sunday school greatly appreciated the kindness of Mr. Elcock of Copeland street for the beautiful dahlias he contributed. The girls hope the boys will provide another supper as good as this one in the near future.

CHOP SUEY SUPPER.

One of the most novel affairs in some time was the chop suey supper and camp fire talk held jointly by the choir and Christian Endeavor society in the vestry of the Park and Downs church, Tuesday evening.

Chop suey formed the piece de resistance of the menu and surrounded by boiled rice, rice cakes, tea, preserved fruits and other edibles of Oriental suggestion.

The young ladies attractively dressed in kimono, who served the dishes were: Misses Stella Cummings, Gertrude Pletsch, Lena Kilpatrick, Natalie Scott, Ethel Akerberg, Christina Hall, Edna Shaw, Miriam Breen and Mildred Podbury.

Miss Mabel Doran, arrayed as a genuine "chink," pig tail and all, was the hit of the evening. The supper was in charge of Mrs. Alonzo V. Bisset and Mrs. W. K. Brown.

For the camp fire talk a tent and artificial camp fire with a back ground of bushes was arranged. With the lights of the vestry turned out and the camp fire turned on the effect was most striking.

With this setting a program of songs and stories was given an opening overture being most acceptably rendered by Miss Mabel Davenport.

"My Chop Suey Babe" brought down the house when sung by some individual behind the bushes. The blame was equally distributed between the pastor, Lieutenant Wilson and Mr. Colby.

Rev. William B. Ayers told a most interesting story of adventure which ended with his waking up. The "Dante Hymn" of the Republic was sung by the choir and the audience joined in the chorus.

"Tom's party" was read by Mr. Colby and a poem by Lieutenant Wilson. The "foreign winners" was loudly applauded.

The "Tale of the submarine" was read by Arnetus Dingwell and "Berle Arkwright's Adventures in the Solomon Islands" proved very laughable.

"Yankee Doodle" was sung by the choir and the audience chimed in with enthusiasm.

"When I cremated Sam Magee" a thrilling poem of the far north was read by Mr. Wilson and the audience departed to the strains of "Home Sweet Home."

In charge of the evening were Miss Muscus and Arnetus Dingwell with whom credit is due, Miss Emily Bjorkman was the accompanist.

Ice cream was on sale by Miss Fannie Fraser, Miss Geraldine Scott and Mrs. Charles A. Boynton. At the candy table were Miss Mildred Podbury and Freda Klingenbacker. Miss Hazel Henry and Miss Maybelle Atkins circulated with a guess cake.

BUSINESS CHARGE.

Fowle & Co. have purchased the business of F. W. Wheeler dry goods and ladies furnishings in city square, and reopened Friday morning.

The line of goods that will be supplied is distinctly for women, and the present stock will be increased so that the ladies will be well supplied.

The motto of the firm will be "Best Quality Goods at reasonable prices." They invite your patronage.

SCHOOL MASTER'S CLUB.

The School Master's club held its first meeting of the season Wednesday evening in the library of the High school with a full attendance.

MONTECLAIR IMPROVEMENT ASSO.

At the semi monthly meeting of the Montclair Improvement association, held Wednesday evening, President Kessler presiding, the candidacy of Edward F. Parlee for the city council was unanimously adopted.

Peter J. Dillon, A. F. Sherman and Blair Taylor were appointed a committee on registration and naturalization in the Montclair district.

A communication was read from the chief of police stating that Montclair would have the benefit of temporary police protection.

Blair Taylor reported for the building regulation committee and Edward F. Parlee for the street committee. For the legislative committee President Kessler reported the addition of a new train on the Norfolk Down schedule.

It was voted to increase the insurance on the Association building and its contents. A committee of ten was appointed to attend the annual meeting proposed by the Wollaston Congregational club.

The danger of speeding automobiles on streets near the Montclair school was discussed and a communication sent to the police department.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

Music in the public schools is universally recognized now as the foundation and cultivation of the musical standard for the next generation. Foremost among systems is the Weaver system, giving a thorough course in singing, writing and sight-singing. The practical presentation and gain in individual knowledge has brought a wide adoption of the system all over the country and its work is now going into curriculum of the largest normals and colleges.

For the past two years the Weaver system has been given in the City of Quincy.

From the second grade through the eighth, classes are now taking three lessons a week in concert singing, two lessons a week in individual sight-singing and writing of all music principles.

The work of the teachers is most conscientious for good quality of tone and good intonation in practice.

Each class room has a repertoire of over 25 songs in the year's course.

The interest of the parents is warmly welcomed and if parents wish to do so in the case of monotonous among the young children, imitation at the piano forte at home will be invaluable to acquire pitch and power to sing for the life time.

QUINCY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Executive Committee of the Quincy Teachers' Association met Wednesday afternoon in the Coddington School. The Committee on Speakers announced that Jacob A. Riis of New York would be the first speaker at the meeting of the Association on October 15th. Mr. Riis will take for his subject "My Neighborhood."

Dr. David Sneedon, State Commissioner of Education, will address the Association on the evening of January the ninth. In the early part of April, Mr. Edward Avis, the third minute, will give his illustrated lecture on "An Evening in Birdland."

The May meeting will be wholly musical and the talent is to be announced at a later date.

WEST QUINCY.

Several candidates will be given the first and second degrees by Grand Knight Charles J. McGilvery of the Ave Maria Council, Knights of Columbus at A. O. H. Hall, West Quincy, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ethel M. Schools of 42 Centre street has received three blue ribbon prizes on water color paintings and pen and ink sketches which she had at the Women's Handwork exhibition at the store of Siegel & Co., Boston.

Miss Beatrice Joyce of Bates avenue is at her home after a summer at the White Mountains.

SOUTH QUINCY.

AUTO ACCIDENT.

Aldeno Raccioli one of the Argentine naval officers stationed at the Fore River and his family had a narrow escape Thursday evening when an automobile in which they were driving turned turtle on Adams street at the foot of Rice hill.

It is reported that in the car at the time of the accident besides Mr. Raccioli was his wife and little child. The car came down the hill on Adams street and as the foot of the hill was reached one of the wheels skidded on the turn and before he could regain control of the wheel the car went over one side into the stone wall and turned turtle.

The occupants were thrown out but they escaped with a few bruises. The car was later righted and as the engine was all right it was driven home. The residence of the owner is given as 14 Quincy street.

The first one to arrive on the scene was Daniel McGee's caretaker of the Rice estate on Adams street. He heard the crash when the machine hit the wall and hurried to the spot, arriving in time to pick up the baby. The baby's face was somewhat scratched.

LIBRARY NOTES.

A few of the interesting books on hand to be found at the Public Library.

Pepper—Panama to Patagonia. An interesting book describing the effect of the Panama Canal on the West Coast countries of South America with some space devoted to the history past and future of each country, and a final chapter on the basis of the Montclair doctrine in its historical and political aspects.

Cornish—Panama Canal and its makers. An impartial account by a British geographer, based on a thorough inspection in 1907-8. Beside a description of present activities, it gives a chapter each to the canal's history, its cost, the men who are building it, health on the isthmus, and deductions as to the benefits and changes the canal will cause. There is a map plan and many reproductions of the author's photographs.

Edwards—Panama: the canal, the lessons a week in concert singing, two lessons a week in individual sight-singing and writing of all music principles.

Each class room has a repertoire of over 25 songs in the year's course.

The interest of the parents is warmly welcomed and if parents wish to do so in the case of monotonous among the young children, imitation at the piano forte at home will be invaluable to acquire pitch and power to sing for the life time.

BOY SCOUTS.

At the meeting of Troop Three of the Wollaston Boy Scouts, Tuesday evening, Ormond E. Loomis, executive secretary of the Greater Boston Council, was the speaker.

He spoke impressively on the scout oath, laying particular emphasis on the second part, the words of which are "To help other people at all times."

The meeting opened with a brief drill in signalling and first aid by Scout master, George W. Brown. Scout Russell Coldwell was appointed secretary for October and Scout Howard Bowen collector of dues.

Several visitors were present and all spent a pleasant evening.

The bride who was stunningly gowned in a white satin creation carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and was given away by her father, Mr. Howard Lee. Her bridesmaids were Genevieve Lee, a sister, and Miss Constance Ridgely, Miss Kenner, Theresa Stubbs, Maud Young, Bertha Bauman and Elizabeth Lee, another sister of the bride. Gladys Pratt acted as ring bearer.

The groom was Robert West. The ushers were Dr. John Jay Smith, John Peake, William Lee and Ernest Gould. The bride belongs to a club of six young ladies who are planning to wear the same veil at their weddings.

Miss Lee was the second one of the six girls to marry this fall and it is expected that one or two others will soon have the same honor.

A reception followed the ceremony attended by 200 friends and relatives who extended best wishes to the bride and groom.

A large party of the young lady students at the Quincy Mansion school visited the two President Adams birthplaces Saturday and inspected the many articles of a historic nature in both houses.

WILLIAMS—McLEAN.

Within a stones throw of the central station where he keeps an eye on each of the city's automobiles, Richard Williams, son of Mrs. Sarah Williams and one of the newest chauffeurs in the state, and Miss Georgia Sarah McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McLean, 198 School street, were married by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong at the Christ church Wednesday evening.

The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Farmer and the best man was Sydney Williams.

The bride was dressed in white, crepe de chine, wore a veil caught up with lilies of the valley and carried a bride's roses. Her attendant wore pink mulline, and carried pink carnations.

After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents and friends from Boston, Braintree, Weymouth, Milton, Dorchester, Roxbury, Dedham and Gloucester were present.

A number of the men in the fire department were present and with the assistance of the boys for the Copeland Club and the other guests a good time continued until midnight.

The couple left during the evening for a honeymoon trip and their departure was marked by cheers and hurrahs for a safe return.

"Dick" is on his vacation and his wedding came as a great surprise to his many friends.

A profusion of floral tributes and presents marked the occasion of the marriage of one of the most popular young couple in the city.

TOURTELLOTT—ALLEN.

Miss Olive Pierson Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Redfield Howe Allen, and Henry Bernon Tourtelott were married at Hartford, Conn., Wednesday morning by Rev. Samuel T. Pearl.

The ceremony was witnessed by a party of relatives and friends.

After the ceremony the party returned to Quincy where a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 34 Avon Way. The couple were assisted in receiving by the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. C. Saurer of Derry, N. H.

The bride wore white crepe de chine with princess lace. Her veil was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

The veranda of the house was decorated with banners and lanterns, and a screen of oak leaves extended from the railing to the roof. Refreshments were served in this miniature fairyland.

Guests were present from Hartford, Conn., Derry, N. H., Hingham, Brookline, Andover and Boston.

The bride is a well known President's high young lady and a prominent social leader in this city. She is a graduate of the Quincy High school, 1907 and of the New England Conservatory of Music. The groom is a salesman and prominent in Y. M. C. A. circles.

The couple left in the evening amid a shower of confetti and a honeymoon trip will reside at 34 Park Lane, Quincy, where they will be at home to their friends after December 1.

DISMOND—LEE.

Lee's Inn was the scene of a very brilliant affair Wednesday night when the marriage of Narka Lee to Henry Binga Dismond of N. Y., took place at 8 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter McLean, rector of St. Bartholomew Church, Cambridge, in the main dining hall which was beautifully decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. The double ring Episcopal service was held.

The bride who was stunningly gowned in a white satin creation carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and was given away by her father, Mr. Howard Lee. Her bridesmaids were Genevieve Lee, a sister, and Miss Constance Ridgely, Miss Kenner, Theresa Stubbs, Maud Young, Bertha Bauman and Elizabeth Lee, another sister of the bride. Gladys Pratt acted as ring bearer.

The groom was Robert West. The ushers were Dr. John Jay Smith, John Peake, William Lee and Ernest Gould. The bride belongs to a club of six young ladies who are planning to wear the same veil at their weddings.

BOSTON PRESBYTERY.

The last session of the Boston Presbytery of the Presbyterian churches as now constituted was held at the Water Street Presbyterian church, in this city. The session opened at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. James Todd, who has been the able and efficient pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, South Boston for two years offered his resignation as pastor of that church at this meeting. Dr. Todd, who is one of the foremost clergymen in New England desires to take up the work in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont under the direction of the Lord's Day League. The congregation was loath to part with Dr. Todd's services but agreed to his earnest request for release.

Dr. Todd feels that he has been called to a very necessary and a very important work in the New England field. His resignation will take effect the last Sunday of this month when he will declare his own pulpits vacant and his people will seek a new leader.

His associates warmly commended his work and paid him many just tributes to his loyalty.

St. Paul's church of Mattapan presented a call for the services of the Rev. Archibald D. MacKinnon where he has been serving for several months, since closing a very successful pastorate in the province of Quebec.

The opening address was by Dr. Todd, who in the absence of Rev. William M. Tufts, retiring moderator who was ill, spoke on "Our Sufficiency in God."

Officers elected Rev. Wallace Ilfitt of Brookline moderator, Rev. J. W. Smith of Manchester, N. H., recording clerk, and Rev. J. D. Cameron of Londondale, R. I. assistant temporary clerk.

The following visitors were invited to sit as corresponding members of the presbytery: Rev. Callum McKay of Dayton,

What is CASTORIA
Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant, it contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhoea. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep.

BEFORE HE RAN FOR OFFICE.

Before he ran for office he was happy and contented, too;
He swore he'd not an enemy.
At least not one whose name he knew.
He walked the streets with head up high
And spoke to very one he met.
And he was proud, I can't deny,
That he had nothing to regret.

It pleased him, too, to think that none despised or hated him, and he began to think that he was one Assured of popularity.
He liked to meet his fellow men
And feel that they were friends to him.
He boasted time and time again
That nobody was out to do him.

But since he ran for office he is sadly changed and much distressed.
Because his popularity
Has undergone the final test.
He's come to see that smiles and cheers
Is not the way he's apt to devote.

The public's feelings don't denote,
He's grieving him so much today,
It isn't that he's fallen flat
That grieves him, but I heard him say:
It is that somewhere in the town
Some twenty thousand, more or less,
That he thought friends had turned him down.

And who they were he cannot guess.

A COWARD'S EPITAPH.

The ship struck the rocks at two bells in the middle watch. Half an hour after she went down. Into that half hour were compressed a few deeds of heroism, many of rank cowardice. Some lives were saved, more were lost. Over the liner and the great majority of her passengers the sea closed in, hiding heroes and cowards alike.

Mr. Granville, the first officer, had managed to keep some order around his boat. Grim and resolute, he sawed the muzzle of his revolver around a circle of angry faces, and kept back the men whilst he assisted the half-dazed women to enter. Arthur Raisford, who had been aroused in his berth by the long grinding crash of the vessel's side against the rocks, had hurried from his cabin, sick with fear, not on his own account, but for the sake of Lillian Waters, the girl he loved best in the world.

He met her at the foot of the cabin companion, and without a word of explanation, put his arm about her and carried her up the stairs onto the deck. He saw the crowd about Gran-ville's boat, and, pushing his way violently through it, came out in the open space within.

Desperately Arthur strove to lift the girl into the boat. He had almost succeeded when a young man leaped upon the gunwale, pushing her aside in his frenzy, and clambering in himself. The girl gave a cry and stretched out her hands for help, clutching the edge.

The young man turned, and Arthur could see his face, livid with fear, great beads of sweat moistening the long lock of dark hair that hung above his forehead. With an oath the creature turned upon the girl, beating her hands down; and as she still struggled he snatched up an oar and struck her across the face.

Raisford uttered a curse, but, hampered as he was, he could do no more.
He turned his attention to Lillian. But the mate had marked the action and had swung the weapon round savagely.
There was a flash, a choking cry, and the lad who had fought so despairingly to save himself flung up his arms, spun round, and fell, a stream of blood pouring from his throat.

The end came with terrible swiftness. The ship heeled over and plunged. Raisford gripped the girl and took a long breath. He was a strong swimmer; but the frightful

MODERN SOCIETY.

"The safety of Modern Society depends on the restoration of a vital religious faith," said the Rev. Adelbert Lathrop Hudson in the pulpit of the First Church, Sunday morning.

"When a marching company of near Revolutionists started to display upon our public streets, a few days ago, a placard bearing the inscription: 'No Boss! No God!', it was serving rude notice upon us of how rapidly the old order changed, giving place to the new. And when, in passing a Roman Catholic church, one of the company undertook to salute the cross, only to have his hat smashed down over his eyes by his companions, it emphasized the fact that ecclesiastical authority is declining and that the ancient church can no longer hold in check the lawlessness of its irresponsible children in the presence of the religious indifference—the refined paganism of the respectable and well-to-do.

"This rapid disintegration of an ancient faith has a striking parallel in the breaking down of dogmatic certainty among the protestant churches.
—so fundamental and far reaching that no one seems especially surprised or shocked when such eminent orthodox clergymen as Dr. Gordon of the Old South, and Prof. E. C. Moore of Harvard, speak with reverence of the collapse of New England Calvinism."

"But along with this 'collapse' of the rigid orthodoxy of our forefathers, we are feeling also a decided surprise and a shock when such eminent clergymen as Dr. Gordon of the Old South, and Prof. E. C. Moore of Harvard, speak with reverence of the collapse of New England Calvinism."

"For a moment his heart stood still.
He knew the face, he recognized the sharp features and the long dark hair that hung across the forehead.
His fingers tightened on the frame and he kept his face obstinately lowered, lest the black hair which boiled within his heart should show itself on his face.

It was all coming back to him; the scene around the boat, the agonized girl, the cruel blow which had deprived her of her chance of life—and yes, the sound of the pistol shot, and the thought, nay, the certainty, that the scoundrel was dead.

With that conviction a part of his life seemed torn away. Vengeance was gone from him, and existence seemed utterly empty.
After all, what did it matter? Lillian was dead, and the lad who had struck her was dead also.

Let the dead bury the dead. His business was with the living, whose sins he had eaten, who were clinging to such shreds of comfort as they could find.

Could he take it from them? He looked up with a set face to find their eyes upon him. Then he lied.
"Yes," he said slowly, I knew him.
I saw him at the last. He died as a brave man should."—J. Sackville Mar-

OUR HOSPITAL.

There have been marvelous strides in surgical knowledge and practice since Our Hospital was built, and though the doctors could not of course advertise our shortcomings it has been a matter of humiliation to them that the operating room was so inadequate and out-of-date by modern standards.
So marked has been this condition of things that the expert visiting surgeons who figure so largely in the work of the hospital have been reluctant to come here, even if they did not actually decline, in some difficult cases.

Without stopping to describe the old operating department, with its single room used for all purposes, and the primitive conveniences (or rather inconveniences) for patients, nurses and surgeons, the public is at this time entitled to a short description of the new surgical building, since it is by far the largest item of expense for which we shall be asked to pay in the great campaign next week.

First and most important, there are three operating rooms instead of old single one, two of these being twin apartments exactly alike and adjoining each other, so that if there are urgent cases demanding immediate treatment, it is possible for two surgeons to work at the same time, or for one room to be made ready for a new case while the other is in use. The third room, which is of the utmost need, is reserved for accidents and sudden emergencies, and is kept ready for instant use, no matter what other work may be going on.

And then there is the innocent little etherization room, the place where you, the patient, get your only knowledge of surgery. For do they not take you quietly into this little room, give you a strange, subtle vapor, and breathe, which puts you into a slumber so profound that you might think the Seven Sleepers! And seemingly in a few minutes you find yourself waking up in your own bed, feeling rather queer, and perhaps inquiring why they didn't perform the operation! And they tell you smilingly that it's all done.

"I do not wish to be intrusive," he said, "but I imagined as I came in that you had been expecting someone."
Husband and wife exchanged a quick glance. Then the man averted his eyes and the woman dropped hers to her knitting.

"I am sorry if I have said anything calculated to hurt you," said Raisford puzzled. "The fact is," he continued apologetically, "I fear I am not as tactful as I used to be. I have recently passed through a great danger and a great sorrow, and it has rendered me silly."

"A great danger and a great sorrow!" said the man, looking up slowly.
"Yes," replied Raisford. "I was shipwrecked. I was on the Casparita.
No doubt you have seen an account of the disaster in the paper."

His remark was received in dead silence. Looking up he found that the couple were staring at him. Their faces, in the lamplight, were gray and pallid. Something in their expression knocked at his heart, and in the stillness he could hear the ticking of the clock.

"My son was on that boat," said the man, after a pause.

PRACTICAL AMERICAN MODES.

Smart Models and Stylish Outlines That Suit American Wearers—Hats and Footwear.

There is much talk just now of American fashions but the best dressed women here have always insisted on modifications of French styles to suit their own needs and figures. The difference is that the crowd has waked up to the absurdity of many of the extreme modes worn by people with more money than sense.

STREET DRESSES.
Suits are by no means out of style and never will be but street dresses are first favorites, and of course the top coats that everyone must own who elects to wear the coat dress, are here in an endless array of attractive and

RACE SUICIDE.
Mr. Gladstone the great English statesman said: "Strong drink kills more people than war, pestilence and famine combined." Congressman Hobson in his remarkable speech, "Alcohol the Great Destroyer," emphasizes the truth of this statement.
Others tell us that one hundred thousand lives a year are sacrificed in the United States upon the altar of drink.
Is not this "race suicide?"

Thousands of wives are murdered annually by drunken husbands.
These might have lived and borne children for the Republic had it not been for drink. In one year it is said twenty-three hundred babies were smothered by drunken parents. They might have lived and become useful citizens had it not been for drink. Is not this "race suicide?"

Thousands of children whose fathers or mothers spend their money for drink die annually for lack of proper nourishment; other thousands eke out an unhappy existence of labor which no child could attempt under conditions which practically assure their graduation into the criminal classes.
Is not this "race suicide?"

Is it not more desirable to save the children already born, and so safeguard them as to eliminate the almost absolute certainty that they will swell the ranks of the drunkards, defectives, and criminals, than to have a multitude of children born daily into the same conditions, to follow the same downward course?

In many, if not most, cities vice flaunts itself openly along the streets, embarrasses of the white slave traffic visits every rural district and haunt every place of amusement; the doors of the saloon swing wide to every mother's boy. Let the state cleanse itself of legalized "race suicide" and there will never be a lack of children for the building up of a great nation!

ST. MARGARET'S GUILD.

The St. Margaret's Guild of the Christ Church are to stage "The Chapman," on the evening of November 22. The production will be under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabella Davis. October 15, Mrs. Davis will lead troupes for the parts and nearly all of the young ladies of the guild have signified their intention of trying for a part.

The play is a semi-comic, moderately serious representation of what occurs when a chapman is thrust upon a party of young ladies, and in this case the unwelcome offender is a foreigner. The play abounds with funny situations and gives promise of being one of the best mirth producers ever given in this city.

At the regular meeting on October 18, Mrs. Walter E. Burke will entertain the members. Mrs. Burke has in the past, always presented an original number and it is expected that she will not be lacking in her usual cleverness on this evening.

ATTENDED EXERCISES.

Ex-Chief of Police Joseph Warren Hayden was among the veterans of the 1st Massachusetts Heavy Artillery association who were present at Salem, Oct. 4, and took part in the exercises of placing in the Essex Institute a bronze tablet to the memory of the officers and men of the regiment who fell during the civil war.
The occasion was also graced by the presence of President William Howard Taft.

In addition to ex-Chief Hayden there are three other living members of the regiment who are members of Paul Revere post of Quincy, George Carney, David R. Coles and Calvin T.
Dyer. Among the members of that regiment from Quincy who have died are Peter Neumann, Co. M, died March 12, 1861, William L. Hodgkin-son, Co. L, died November 23, 1861, Samuel W. Spear, Co. E, died December 20, 1861, George Phillips, Co. M, died March 23, 1907 and Thomas Magee, Co. M, who died July 10, 1910.
Of the original regiment, there are now 400 survivors who will be present at the exercises Friday at Salem.

The Quincy Patriot

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1912

AN APPEAL.

The Quincy Ministers Association met in the Y. M. C. A. rooms Tuesday morning and unanimously passed the following resolution.

"A frank appeal to non-church-going people.

"We the members of the ministerial association of Quincy, while frankly recognizing the existence of honest differences of opinion on the question of the proper observance of Sunday, and without intending to discuss such differences herein or to arouse any spirit of controversy hereby, make this appeal in the interest of the common welfare of the city, and particularly for the sake of the influence upon the moral development of the young and immature. It is quite evident to any thoughtful observer of present tendencies that there is in this and other communities an increasing decline of reverence for those religious influences which in the past have contributed so largely to building up social ideals and individual character. The effect of this decline is not yet fully apparent here, for the reason that the moral standards of the community are still safe guarded, to a considerable extent, by our inheritance from past generations of church-going people, whose religious influence has been crystallized and handed down in the form of wholesome views of conduct, which have helped to mould public opinion. But we believe that unless this tendency can be checked it will not be long before the logical results will appear in form of social demoralization, which will be especially unfortunate in their influence upon the young.

"We therefore appeal to the people of Quincy who do not at present take any part in the religious activities of any of the churches to co-operate with us and with each other in this matter by giving up at least a portion of each Sunday to some definite act of observance of the day as a day of worship and of moral instruction.

"In making this request we are purposely omitting all considerations which might lead to division of opinion or sentiment and present this appeal to you as good citizens to forego some portion of what seem to you legitimate pleasures, for the sake of the permanent good of the community in which you live, believing that the obvious need of some reform in this direction will commend our action to your good judgment and generous impulses.

"At the same time we wish to suggest to those who read this article that while much of the social and philanthropic work formerly done by the churches is now done and probably better done, by agencies which include the whole community, there is nevertheless, no substitute which can take the place of the church as the inspiring source of moral influence, nor any way whereby the individual citizen can better serve the community than by helping to make the work of the churches more efficient.

A SURPRISE.

Dr. Frank E. Dawes, ex-commander of the Wollaston Yacht club and secretary of the Massachusetts Cat Boat Association, well known by all yachtsmen was given a birthday surprise party at his home at North Radcliffe, Huntington avenue, Boston, Thursday evening. The surprise was given by a handsome gold chain and compass chain were presented the doctor, the presentation speech being feelingly made by Mr. Ross and fittingly responded to.

Dr. Dawes gracefully carved an immense birthday cake which had been suitably inscribed and decorated. Refreshments and music both vocal and instrumental were enjoyed. Songs by Miss Heywood, Mrs. Hiltz, Mr. Mahoney, accompanied by Mrs. Bagley of Hingham.

Among the participants were his brother Walter Dawes from Brockton and sister Mrs. Charles Heywood of Hingham and among the throng which came to the hotel were: Mr. and Mrs. Nott, Mr. and Mrs. Haywood, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Bussler, Mr. and Mrs. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Shackford, Mr. and Mrs. Moran, and Mrs. Bailey and many out of town young people.

PRESBYTERIAN ANNIVERSARY.

The 25th anniversary of the dedication of the First Presbyterian edifice on Water street will be celebrated Sunday with Rev. J. A. Matheson in charge.

The services will open Sunday morning at 10:30 when Rev. Mr. Matheson will address the congregation on the "Outlook." At 4 o'clock there will be a meeting of Y. P. S. C. E. There will be an address by Carl Haywood of this city and others. At 7 o'clock Rev. James Todd, D. D., a former pastor in this city will deliver an address.

Wednesday evening there will be a monster banquet and among the speakers will be Rev. N. J. Sprout of Newport, and former Quincy pastor and Dr. Todd.

WOLLASTON SOCIABLE.

A number of parishioners and friends gathered in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church, Thursday evening, for the monthly sociable of the society. After supper there was an entertainment given under the direction of Rufus B. Tobey and Anna T. Loring.

The supper committee Mrs. A. E. Rhodes and Mrs. H. G. Kingman, was assisted in serving by the following young ladies:

Misses Dorothy Taylor, Madeline Mores, Ruth Taylor, Ella Winslip, Alice Thompson, Margaret Harding, Flora Wright, Lucy Waite, Marion Farwell, Mary Broughton, Flora Sess and Mrs. Bessie Deane and Mrs. Roy L. Holbrook.

WOLLASTON SOCIABLE.

The regular monthly meeting of the Association will be held in the Assembly Hall of the school on Monday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Ernest L. Collins, head master of the Quincy High school, will speak on "Some Problems of the High School."

Soloist—Mrs. H. Y. Follett, accompanist—Miss Katherine Follett. A large attendance is desired.

Percy E. and Gerald Berry have been elected captain and manager of the Soccer foot-ball team.

BRIEFS

The alarm from Box 225 at 2:57 Saturday afternoon was a false alarm.

William M. Marden, court officer, is having a few days vacation this week.

City Solicitor McAnaney has returned from a brief business trip to Chicago.

John Hokkinen, 69 years of age, died at his home 269 Whitwell street, Tuesday.

Councilman Harry G. Studley left on Monday for Springfield, where he will be for a week on a business trip.

Miss Luella Hunt of Miller Style road is the guest of her niece, Mrs. Malcolm Rich at her home in Gloucester.

Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Pond of Washington street are guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bailey of Norwood for a few days.

Mrs. C. M. Jenness of Medford, Maine, is located at The Greenleaf for a few weeks, previous to a trip to California.

Mrs. Henry H. Kitson of Merrymount road and daughters Dorothy and Theodora passed the week end in Marshfield.

Mrs. W. R. Cross, of Camden, Maine, is to spend a few months with her sister, Mrs. Ernest Branch of Putnam street.

Mrs. Henry Dowd and son Henry of Waban were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Hall of Woodward avenue, over the week end.

The many friends of Mrs. Ann C. Wright of Saville avenue will be sorry to learn that she is confined to her home with pneumonia.

Quincy high had no trouble beating the Hingham boys at Merymount Park October 4th and when time was called they had rolled up a score of 26 to 6.

Ernest Branch of Putnam street, returned from New Haven, Conn., Saturday where he has been laying out an extensive tract of land in the suburbs.

The Quincy A. A. football team which lost Sunday met and defeated some of the best teams in the state on October 12th by defeating the Rosindale A. A. at Merymount Park, Saturday afternoon, 6 to 0.

The Wednesday noon closing of the stores in City Square which has been in operation during the summer months is no more. After this week the stores will be open until 6 o'clock on Wednesdays as usual.

Harry W. Kimball, field secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance league spoke to the pupils of the High School Monday, upon the subject of "Thrift as illustrated by Savings Bank Insurance."

The new Kissele auto chemical for the Revere fire department, the body of which was put on at Scammell's plant was given a tryout through City Square on Monday. As it is similar to the one ordered for the City of Quincy, many thought it was the new Quincy car.

A collection for Catholic charitable institutions was taken up in the three Catholic churches of Quincy Sunday. A letter from Cardinal O'Connell was read at each mass which explained the scope and character of the work done by charitable institutions in the Boston archdiocese.

Mrs. Catherine, wife of Henry T. Brown, Sr., of Chestnut street, one of the oldest residents of this city, passed away Saturday, aged 93 years. She leaves a husband, two sons and a daughter. She was one of those highly respected women who will be missed by the community.

John J. Dwyer, a lawyer of Hartford, Connecticut is trying to locate some relative of Warren Studley, a travelling salesman, who is supposed to have resided at one time in Quincy and to have had relatives or friends in Quincy or Boston. The information is wanted to aid in settling an estate.

The body of the old man found floating in the Neponset river, near the Squantum aviation field, Thursday evening, is unidentified and is still at the undertakings rooms of John Hall, Saturday afternoon Mrs. Courtney, 25 Seventh street, South Boston, viewed the body and said it was not her husband who had been missing for three weeks.

At the whist party held in G. A. R. hall under the auspices of Paul J. Revere, Wollaston, on October 10, 1912, the following scores were made:

Table 1. The top score was made by H. A. Jones 7421 and the second by Horace E. Spear, 69. After twenty-five hands had been played the entertainment committee served a lunch. A regular meeting of the club will be held Saturday evening.

Upwards of 50 nomination papers of the Progressive party were filed with the registrars of voters Wednesday of this month 20 papers are for Henry L. Kinsdale as Congressman from the fourteenth district. Papers were also filed for County Treasurer, County Commissioner, Senator from the First district, Councilor from the second district and Representatives from the Fifth and Sixth Norfolk districts and Presidential electors.

The engagement was announced this week by Mrs. Eben Caldwell Standwood, now Annie Whitcher, of 480 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, of her daughter Audrey to Dr. Howard T. Karsner, assistant professor of pathology at Harvard Medical school. Miss Standwood is the grand daughter of the late Thomas Whitcher of Adams street. When living in this city the Standwoods resided on Allyn terrace and Miss Standwood attended the Greenleaf school.

Mrs. Susannah, wife of William Makl, formerly of Quincy, died at her home in Hyannis, Wednesday, in her 42nd year. She lived in Quincy a short time and during that period was converted by Rev. John E. Lilliback, and became an ardent and devoted member of the Finnish Congregational church. Her last request that her former pastor should conduct her funeral services were complied with. She leaves besides her husband, three children, two sons, William and Andrew and one daughter, Mary.

Meetings are to be resumed Sunday at 7:30 P. M. by the Y. P. R. U. of First church.

Miss Martha Hanson of 963 Hancock street is the guest of friends at North Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen Howard of Presidents hill are enjoying camp life at Megantic.

The Fragment Society of First church is to hold a sewing meeting in the church parlor next Wednesday at 1:30 P. M.

Rev. Dr. John J. Walker of the Congregational Society will preach at the Finnish Congregational church in this city, Sunday at 5 and 7:30 o'clock.

The second pleasant Sunday evening service will be held Sunday in Bethany church. The young ladies' chorus will sing and lead the praise service. All having no church home are very welcome to this enjoyable service.

An exceedingly interesting and high class program is being mapped out for the coming winter by President William A. Mann of the Men's Club of the Congregational church. Better speakers than ever before will be provided this season and a large and active committee will attend especially to seeing that each member becomes acquainted with all of his fellow members. One hundred members are expected on the first night of the season and everyone who cares for a personal acquaintance with one hundred good men should not overlook this opportunity to get it. A good acquaintance with your neighbors is a mighty good help in smoothing out life's difficulties and in getting the best out of life.

October 21st has been set as the date for the Fair of the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church. The ladies in charge of the different tables are working hard to make it the usual success.

Miss Pearl H. Belyea of Grand View avenue has returned from a two weeks' sojourn at Providence, R. I., and Chicopee Falls. Miss Belyea has lived in the Park since coming to Wollaston some years ago, but is now making her home with Miss Nellie M. Weeks.

A move was made in the right direction by Wollaston citizens when they petitioned to have the Council act and have that old building on Hancock street near the corner of Beale street torn down. The building is now nothing more or less than a fire hazard. It has been set on fire many times but owing to the promptness of the fire department it has not been burned. All of the doors in the building are gone and there is nothing left of the glass in the windows, so that it has now become the abode for any tramp who desires to find a lodging for the night. The building should have been torn down long ago.

Notes and Comments.

It is reported in Kansas that cows and steers may be seen drawing the plow this fall, as used to be the case back in the '70s. In that year an epidemic killed many of the horses, as in the past summer, and the farmers had to rely on their cattle, which proved very good substitutes.

A Saratoga woman who has just celebrated her 100th birthday says: "For a long life, go to bed with the hens and get up with them." It may be all right to go to bed with the hens, but excuse us from getting up with them, at least through the winter months.—Somerville Journal.

The old rule used to be that three made a crowd, but in the opinion of the librarian at Harvard more than six girls make a crowd, and Kipling girls desiring to use that library hereafter will be limited to groups of six, and assigned a special room so as not to disturb other workers.—Somerville Journal.

Yes, we are living in an era called hard times, yet over 150,000 people had money enough to go to the Brooklyn fair. Better times are coming. Governor Wilson sees it. Col. Roosevelt knows it and President Taft agrees it. Why when conditions are straightening themselves, you to change the administration?—Mansfield News.

Statistics of New York's foreign-born residents include the significant figures that of the 450,000 native-born residents of New York, 23.7 per cent have been naturalized, while of the 223,135 natives of northwest Europe the showing is 60.3 per cent. The Italians make the poorest showing—16.7 per cent—due, doubtless, to the custom of immigration for temporary residence only. They are great people for returning home at frequent intervals.—Brooklyn Express.

The Hackensack meadows in New Jersey are about to be deprived of their ancient notoriety. Instead of continuing a nuisance to the surrounding country, they are to be converted into fertile and productive fields, and the same methods that will affect this transformation are expected to terminate, or at least to minimize, the mosquito plague. The railroads are to take the initiative. They will drain the meadows and lease them to truck farmers.—Taunton Herald.

A much needed law for the protection of the lives of passengers on steamers went into effect October 1. The law requires increased lifeboat equipment on all steamers sailing from ports in the United States, and will be rigidly enforced by the steamboat inspectors. Steamers will be required to carry sufficient lifeboats to accommodate every person on board, crew as well as passengers. Another very essential law along the life saving line went into effect on the same date, that of requiring every passenger steamer to carry two wireless operators.—Athol Chronicle.

It is reported from Washington that considerable less money has been sent abroad this year than last year, the reason given by the government authorities being that the goodly amount of the money hitherto sent to the old country is now being deposited in the recently established postal savings banks. This is an encouraging feature for the new method of savings but it may be doubted if this is the only reason for the falling in foreign remittances. One very plausible reason would seem to be that, because of the serious and widespread disturbances in the labor world the earnings have been materially decreased and the surplus available for sending home has been wiped out.—Milford Gazette.

PRESENTATION.

A reception was tendered her by her immediate relatives at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary K. Flaherty of 50 Robertson street, Monday evening.

A gold watch was presented Miss Flaherty by Mrs. A. Battelle of Dorchester. Mrs. Edward Costello of Quincy and Mrs. Mary E. Flaherty of 50 Robertson street, Monday evening.

An impromptu musical program was given by those present. Among those who sang were Leslie McFarland of Dorchester and Frank Mullen of East Milton.

Miss Flaherty has received many remembrances from her associates and at a farewell party on Saturday 26, she was presented with a finely equipped traveling bag.

CITY COUNCIL.

Much business of importance was transacted at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. In the absence of President Hobbs, who was confined to his home by illness the meeting was called to order by Councilman Gauthier and on roll call Councilman Bailey was elected President pro tem, Councilmen Gilliat, Hobbs and Studley were absent.

A communication was received from the Mayor inclosing a report of Dock Commissioner Crane on the question of a public dock for Quincy. The report was in part and in the Commissioner recommends a site for a public dock. The report deals with the question at length and of the benefits that would come to Quincy from its establishment. He also gives correspondence with experts with whom he has conferred for the purpose of securing the best plan for the dock to be used by him.

In summing up his report he submits two locations. The Johnson Quarry, the property was in part and in the Commissioner recommends a site for a public dock. The report deals with the question at length and of the benefits that would come to Quincy from its establishment. He also gives correspondence with experts with whom he has conferred for the purpose of securing the best plan for the dock to be used by him.

A detailed description of the two sites recommended by the Commissioner will be published at a later date.

In addition to submitting his report to the City Council, the Commissioner addressed the Council briefly as follows:

Your Honor, Mr. President, and Gentlemen of the City Council: Do not believe that if the city establishes a public dock on Town River that a sudden and immediate rush of industries to locate on its banks will take place.

As a City Council, first advocate a safe and sane policy for the acquisition of a location; secondly, advise the building of storage warehouses, and freight handling appliances as fast as a reasonable amount of income can be derived from them.

In presenting to you this report, I have carefully considered what the city ought to do now in the year 1912 to encourage future development, and at once to lower the excessive freight rates of the N. Y. & H. R. R.

Remember this, that we as City Officials are building this dock for all the citizens of all the citizens of our great city now and in the future, and not for the advancement of any one particular industry or person.

If the plan recommended should be adopted tonight, within a week Quincy would have established a public dock, and the granite dealers and other industries of the city would at once be entitled to the water rate of the railroad, which would mean a saving of thousands of dollars to them in the next year, whether they use the dock or not, and the city would be in a position to secure the $25,000 for the improvement of Town River, by the State.

I am informed by one of the most reputable lumber dealers in the city of Boston, that should the city of Quincy establish a dock with proper berths and storage space for lumber, his firm would take a lease of a certain amount of space and wharfage facilities for a term of five to ten years, and give a guarantee bond for the payment of same.

A plaster and cement dealer has also informed me that he would lease a space for storage purposes.

The Citizens Gas Light Company would also like space.

At several enthusiastic meetings of the Granite Manufacturers' Association I was told that cutting and polishing sheds would probably be erected near the dock, and thus eliminate the haul from the dock to the yards; also that the city would be enabled to make this report, no granite firm or individual has notified my Commissioner that they would use any space for above, if the dock should be acquired.

In conclusion I wish to say, that I thoroughly believe in the proposition for a public dock as advanced in this report, calling your attention to the fact, that if the dock does not get the support, which in my opinion it should, the city can retire from the public dock proposition in either five or ten years, with a very small percentage of loss.

Frank Fessenden Crane, Commissioner.

The Electric Light & Power Co. petitioned for a relocation for poles on Nightingale avenue, Spear, East Squantum, Webster and Pleasant streets and Faxon avenue. Granted.

The same company petitioned for a location for poles on Phillips street. To Committee on Streets.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CLUB.

At the first meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club, Tuesday evening, William H. Sayward, secretary of the Master Builders' Association of Boston spoke on "The way out, a solution of the labor problem."

Dinner was served shortly after 6:30 the usual large membership sitting down, after the blessing by Rev. Carl G. Horst.

At the business meeting an invitation read from the Wollaston Congregational club, to join in a union meeting for civic improvement, brought forth much discussion as to the future policy of the club. In the past it has been purely of a social nature and it was finally voted to table the question and appoint a committee of ten to attend the meeting.

Resolutions were offered on the death of Charles H. Brigham, a former president of the club, by Rev. Ellen Channing Butler of First church, a warm friend of the club, both of whom passed away since the last meeting.

William B. Nichols, delegate from the newly formed Men's club of First church, spoke in support of the club.

In opening the meeting, President Louis F. R. Langley spoke his appreciation in being honored as the club's speaker.

The speaker of the evening stated in no uncertain terms that trade unionism as at present conducted does not mean fair play either for workman or employer, but simply trade despotism.

"The real issues of labor disputes," declared Mr. Sayward, "lie not in the matter of hours and wages, which are easily adjusted, but in several other matters."

"The employer is constantly met with a demand that no person be employed unless he carries a union card. The men are not classified and the presentation of the card means in many cases that the employer is compelled to pay wages for insufficient work."

This is a stumbling block and unfair to the community and workman. Mr. Sayward related the incident of the contractor who, after waiting three weeks in a vain endeavor to get union workmen for the installation of an elevator, employed open shop men. The contractor was forced to the building to compel the contractor to take the elevator out.

"That is what we have the quarrel with," said the speaker. These men were paid the highest wages and there was no question of hours. The Quincy Patriot

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1912

CLUBS TO FEDERATE.

There has been for sometime a movement toward a large union meeting this fall of the various improvement associations and churchmen of Quincy, of Wollaston, the Park, Norfolk Downs and Montclair, for the consideration of such matters of public improvements as would interest all citizens of this section of the city. This movement originated within the Congregational Church Men's club and its president, William A. Mann has received assurances of support and interest from most of the other local clubs.

Committees from these other clubs have been appointed, and before these committees together to complete arrangements for a meeting of all the clubs, Mr. Mann is waiting to hear from only one or two clubs who have not yet acted upon the invitation extended.

The federation of men's clubs in other cities have been largely influenced by many reforms and improvements of local conditions, and undoubtedly of the "get together" spirit prevails amongst them, we may look for good results to be accomplished in Wollaston.

ATLANTIC READING ROOM.

Plans are maturing rapidly for the opening of the second branch reading room of the Thomas Crane Public Library. Temporary quarters have been secured at 11 Botolph street, Atlantic, and the formal opening will take place at three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, October 23. All who are interested are cordially invited to attend from five o'clock until half past eight. Any resident wishing to draw books on the following day may register on Wednesday.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP MEETINGS.

Good Citizenship meetings, to which all men of whatever political or theological creed are cordially invited, will be held in the Wollaston T. R. church on Wednesday evenings at 12 o'clock. Irving L. Shaw, who through his public letters in the Ledger on "What's the matter with Quincy" is rendering this community a most valued service in telling the citizens how things stand and awakening in them the sense of civic responsibility, will lead the discussion. All men interested in the welfare of Quincy are urged to attend these informal gatherings and participate in the discussion. The first meeting will be held Sunday at 12 o'clock. Come and bring your friends.

QUINCY POINT MEETINGS.

"What is Quincy Point's urgent need," was discussed at the regular meeting of the Men's Club at the Washington street Congregational church on Wednesday evening. John W. Hendry presided.

The inadequate school facilities were discussed and in connection with remarks regarding the overcrowded Washington school it was generally agreed that the salaries of the Quincy teachers were not large enough.

In regard to trolley service it was stated that while a 15 minute schedule was now in effect it was impossible to count on the service. A loop line through the Fore River station to Quincy avenue was also spoken of and it met with the hearty approval of the members.

The point that ward two has not been well represented in the city council was also strongly made and it was the opinion of those present that the men to be chosen in the future would be men who would have the interest of the community at heart and not be harassed by thought of reelection.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

R. C. Drinker will address the club on "The manufacture of steel" at the October 26 meeting.

CANTON MONUMENT.

The memorial monument recently erected on the lot of Revere Post 94 G. A. R., in Canton corner cemetery, Canton, will be dedicated Saturday afternoon. Commander Richmond L. Weston, through whose efforts during the last three years a large part of the fund has been raised, will make the introductory remarks. The shaft will be unveiled by Pauline Revere, a granddaughter of Paul Revere, for whom the post was named.

Alfred Roe of Worcester past commander of Massachusetts, G. A. R., will make the dedicatory address, and Rev. William Grainger, rector of Canton Episcopal church, will have charge of the devotional exercises.

The monument is of Western granite, surmounted by a ball of polished Quincy granite. It is 16 feet high and stands on a base six feet square. It is located just inside the Washington street entrance of the cemetery.

J. N. White & Sons of West Quincy have been retained by the monument and all of the work of cutting the stone and polishing the shaft was done at their yard in this city.

TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

To no man living or dead as much as to that man who lies stricken in Chicago by an assassin's bullet, to no man more than to Theodore Roosevelt my friend, is the growing nervous feeling due" were the words of Jacob A. Riss, the philanthropist and reformer, who addressed a large audience at the Quincy Teachers' association at the Coddington school Tuesday evening.

Two solos by Miss Edna Spry of Boston preceded the talk.

Mr. Riss was introduced by Principal Alfred S. Townsend who said Mr. Riss was first a bum, then a reporter, and now a world worker of wide influence.

Mr. Riss spoke entertainingly for over an hour and explained many of his points by stories of a gripping nature. He was loudly applauded.

WEST QUINCY ALLEYS.

The formal opening of the new building of the St. Mary's Catholic Total Abstinence and Mutual Relief Society took place at their hall on Willard street Thursday evening and was followed by a turkey supper with 150 covers.

Seated at the head table was President Daniel J. Duggan, Dr. John H. Ash, Rev. William J. Duffy, Hon. William T. Shea, Joseph McNulty, Mayor Eugene R. Stone, William H. Teasdale, Alfred Austin and Charles J. McGilvray.

Notes and Comments.

It becomes young fellows who take girls on automobile joy rides with them to avoid accidents. A man is being sued who invited a girl to ride with him, and who had an accident in which the girl alleges she was injured.—Waltham Free Press.

A depressed and pessimistic contemporary announced that "the country is a case forever." Needless to say, the journal is printed in New York, which believes the country is bounded by Cohen Island, Hell Gate and West Hoboken.—New Bedford Standard.

Now that the state has regained control of its own big pier at South Boston and will begin at once to prepare it for occupancy, the modern development of the port of Boston has actually begun. The Commonwealth pier and the new fish pier adjoining will make a good starter.—Middford Mercury.

The story is told of a man who happened to stroll into a store where they don't advertise and was looking around among the relics of ancient days stored there, when he ran across a man who was wanted on a charge of murder, and who had remained safely hidden there for years.—Forsboro Reporter.

Large, blue-eyed, married men were much in demand in New York—by policemen Charles Becker. It is odd reasoning that such men should be considered more likely jurors than others, yet that kind was the choice of the Becker attorneys when they could get them. In fact, it seems a silly notion.—Barre, Vt. Times.

All honor says the Somerville Journal to brave Captain John Sealy, who is to begin life in California as a member of the bar. In California, when the severe law of the state, although completely exonerating him from blame, displaced him forever as a commander after the sinking of his ship, the Republic, he entered Michigan university, and now after three years of arduous study he is master of another profession.

No excuse for being late for your morning work now. A German physician has devised an electrical means of inducing sleep at will and regulating the exact number of hours and minutes necessary to be spent in sleep in order to work to the best advantage. Go to bed, regardless of whether you are sleepy or not, take your electric prescription, and you will be awakened at the proper moment in the morning.—Somerville Journal.

"Made in Austria" is the declaration to be found on certain hats now on the market, together with the label or trade mark of some real or imaginary firm in that country. But when the same hat bears the label of the hatters' union of America, something seems to be wrong. The two do not dovetail. "Made in Danbury" or some other hat-making locality, would probably be a more truthful statement.—Middford Gazette.

The New Jersey boy of Canadian parentage, who was expelled from the high school because he would not announce his allegiance to the United States, would seem to have a good action at law against the school board, whose patriotism is so much the common sense. It is a poor brand of patriotism, and if the school board were put in the boy's place, they would undoubtedly take the same position he did on the matter.—Old Colony Memorial.

It must be that the Common Council of the city of Malden does not fully appreciate the desirability of municipal automobiles. They have just sat down hard on a bill presented by the building inspector for repairs on a city auto which he admits using for his own purpose sometimes. He said the machine cost originally $1100, and it costs $450 a year to run it, and that the machine depreciates about $300 a year. That's a cheerful outlook for those who urge municipal automobiles.

FATAL FALL.

The body of John P. McKenna was found as a result of a fall from the roof of a house on Walnut street Saturday was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Thomas Donovan, Summer terrace, Sunday afternoon. Mr. McKenna was helping a friend shingle his house, missed his footing, fell and struck squarely on his head on reaching the ground 20 feet below.

The accident occurred early Saturday afternoon. He was taken to the Quincy City Hospital in the police ambulance where he died from a fractured skull. While at the hospital he recovered consciousness and was able to recognize Rev. Fr. James P. McNiff of the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic.

Mr. McKenna was unmarried and boarded at 79 West Squantum street. He was an iron moulder by trade and worked at the Fore River yard. He was a member of the Fire Department for many years.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The Republican City committee plan a big rally for this city, Monday evening. The place has not been decided upon as yet. An important meeting of the Republican City committee will be held at the headquarters, Room 4, Johnson building, Thursday evening to perfect the arrangements for this great Republican demonstration, the opening gun of the campaign in the city. The calls for the meeting have been sent out and it is desired that every member of the committee assist in making this rally one long to be remembered.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH.

The minister, Rev. Carl G. Horst, who is giving a series of sermons on "Corner Stones," Benjamine, preached Sunday to an intensely interested congregation upon "Our Public Schools." He said: "Our public schools must always be of first importance, for a republic in which all the power is placed in the hands of the people is never to be entrusted to any but intelligent citizens. In order to have intelligent citizens every child must be given an opportunity to get an education. To this end the state provides public schools and taxes all citizens for their support. From the humblest district school in the sparsely settled country to the fully equipped and equipped high school in the metropolis they are sending out into active life patriotic and liberty-loving citizens. By their recreation benches sit beside by the sons and daughters of the rich and the poor, of the laborer and the professional man of the native born American and of the newly arrived. Race distinctions and creed distinctions are obliterated. Whether from the avenue or the alley they all learn that indispensable lesson of democracy to estimate others upon their merit. The public school as no other institution helps the diverse elements of our population to become homogeneous. It is the training school for American citizenship. It belongs to all the people. If parents desire however to send their children to a private or parochial school, they are at liberty so to do. But they have no right to ask that their parochial schools receive support from the public school fund. Public money should be used for public uses and public uses alone. We believe in the absolute separation of church and state in this country. Such separation is not yet secured in England or on the continent. Thank God, that our fathers decided long ago that there shall be no connection between church and state; that our public schools shall be entirely free from sectarian control; that not one cent of public money raised by taxation and paid in by the rich and poor, high and low, believer and unbeliever, Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant, shall be used for sectarian schools or institutions. These matters must be considered by all true Americans as definitely settled—they are not open questions any more than is the right of secession. Let the work of our fathers stand. Let us guard it with zealous care and watchfully protect it from partisan bias and religious bigotry. So help us God. Amen."

C. E. UNION.

Bi-monthly conference of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavorers was held at the First Presbyterian church, Monday evening, with a large attendance. Many Quincy ministers attended and gave short talks. Regular business was disposed of at an early hour. The banner for the best attendance was awarded to the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church society. Rev. J. A. Matheson opened the meeting with prayer, following which there was a duet by Mrs. Thomas Gammon and Everett Clark. The topic of the evening was "The society for Christ, the church and our opportunity." Charles Roach of Wollaston presided. Rev. I. W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational, Rev. A. M. Thompson of the United Presbyterian and Rev. J. Lillback of the Finnish Congregational church responded to "The society for Christ." The church was responded to by Rev. A. M. Thompson of the Wollaston Congregational church society. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of the Bethany Congregational church. Rev. J. H. Woodson of East Milton and Rev. T. W. Davison of the Atlantic Memorial closed the session by responding to "Our Opportunity."

LADIES' NIGHT.

New Colonial hall and Hancock hall, Quincy's two newest halls were opened to the public for the first time Friday evening by Quincy Council Knights of Columbus for the annual ladies' night. Many expressions of pleasure were made by the ladies when their eyes first centered upon the new hall. It is about the size of the old Colonial hall. The interior finish is white and the hall looks very cozy and attractive. Numerous fire escapes are provided complying with the law in every way. At the eastern side of the hall is a small stage, on either side are ample dressing rooms. Hancock hall is some smaller and is for small parties or banquets. On Friday evening Colonial hall looked particularly attractive with its exquisitely gowned ladies, and the efficient committee in charge, headed by Past Grand Knight John J. Cunneiff, who saw to it that nothing was left undone to add to the pleasure of the ladies. There was no set program for the evening. In Hancock hall there was a whist tournament in which those who did not care for dancing participated. The prizes for the best scores were awarded to John Barron, Mrs. John A. McQueen, Mrs. Michael E. Cook, Mrs. Michael T. Sullivan and James F. Parker. Dancing was started in Colonial hall during the first part of the evening and between the numbers there was a pleasing entertainment with the following contributions. The Misses McDonald of Norfolk Downs, Miss May Fallon of Quincy, Joseph Morrisette of West Quincy and William J. Troy of Boston. The dancing was in charge of Grand Knight Edward E. Barrett, Past Grand Knight John J. Cunneiff, Past Grand Knight Lawrence W. Lyons, Dennis S. Sweeney, the vicar, Frank Mullen and George W. Murray. Music for the dancing was furnished by Cuff's orchestra. At 10 o'clock during a brief intermission refreshments were served in Hancock hall. Among the guests present were Rev. John J. Wetherill, Rev. Patrick Sharkey of St. John's church, and Grand Knight Thomas White of Weymouth council.

PRESBYTERIAN ANNIVERSARY.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of the First Presbyterian church was observed Sunday with appropriate services and large attendance. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. James A. Matheson preached on prosperity, 2d Chronicles 31:21. "He did it with all his heart, and prospered." He said in part: "Men making money in business, those climbing high in political life, others highly esteemed by their fellows, these are considered by the world as the successful ones. Prosperity however is not so much in the abundance of possessions as in the attitude we assume. It was Diogenes who remarked while passing through the markets, 'How many things there are Diogenes does not need. Socrates said: 'The richest man is he who is satisfied with the least.' True prosperity consists in attitude more than in possession. Work is a necessary quality for prosperity. There is a trinity of things in the work of the hand that brings prosperity to self and others, that of the head, acting clearly, and that of the heart, acting rightly and with the desire to further the best interests of all. It is inspiring to look into the face and grasp the hand of one who is a dealer. One of the most influential papers of the middle west. Mr. Baker who for three years, prior to its purchase by the Herald was publisher of the Boston Traveler, has bought a controlling interest in the Tacoma, Wash., Tribune, a paper of the same name and of the same place. Mr. Baker who has severed all connections with the Traveler left Quincy with his family today for his new home, and will immediately take up the active management of his new enterprise. He will be associated financially with a partner, E. H. Baker publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, one of the most influential papers of the middle west. Mr. and Mrs. Baker have resided on Merrymount road, Quincy for the past three years and during their residence here have made many friends, who wish them every prosperity in their new western home."

The Republican City committee plan a big rally for this city, Monday evening. The place has not been decided upon as yet. An important meeting of the Republican City committee will be held at the headquarters, Room 4, Johnson building, Thursday evening to perfect the arrangements for this great Republican demonstration, the opening gun of the campaign in the city. The calls for the meeting have been sent out and it is desired that every member of the committee assist in making this rally one long to be remembered.

FAREWELL PARTY.

A farewell party was given at the residence of Mrs. Myron Ryder, Butler road, Monday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Frank S. Baker, who is about to make a new home in Tacoma, Washington. The party was composed of members of the sewing club who deeply regret the departure of Mrs. Baker, a loved and esteemed friend. Among those present were Mrs. James McDonald of Park lane, Mrs. Frederick Breslin, of Merrymount road, Mrs. Arthur Homer of Wollaston, Miss Avah Gilson of Lintule place, Mrs. Stephen Whorff, of Butler road and Mrs. Charles A. Price of Presidents hill. Mr. Baker who for three years, prior to its purchase by the Herald was publisher of the Boston Traveler, has bought a controlling interest in the Tacoma, Wash., Tribune, a paper of the same name and of the same place. Mr. Baker who has severed all connections with the Traveler left Quincy with his family today for his new home, and will immediately take up the active management of his new enterprise. He will be associated financially with a partner, E. H. Baker publisher of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, one of the most influential papers of the middle west. Mr. and Mrs. Baker have resided on Merrymount road, Quincy for the past three years and during their residence here have made many friends, who wish them every prosperity in their new western home."

No excuse for being late for your morning work now. A German physician has devised an electrical means of inducing sleep at will and regulating the exact number of hours and minutes necessary to be spent in sleep in order to work to the best advantage. Go to bed, regardless of whether you are sleepy or not, take your electric prescription, and you will be awakened at the proper moment in the morning.—Somerville Journal.

"Made in Austria" is the declaration to be found on certain hats now on the market, together with the label or trade mark of some real or imaginary firm in that country. But when the same hat bears the label of the hatters' union of America, something seems to be wrong. The two do not dovetail. "Made in Danbury" or some other hat-making locality, would probably be a more truthful statement.—Middford Gazette.

The New Jersey boy of Canadian parentage, who was expelled from the high school because he would not announce his allegiance to the United States, would seem to have a good action at law against the school board, whose patriotism is so much the common sense. It is a poor brand of patriotism, and if the school board were put in the boy's place, they would undoubtedly take the same position he did on the matter.—Old Colony Memorial.

It must be that the Common Council of the city of Malden does not fully appreciate the desirability of municipal automobiles. They have just sat down hard on a bill presented by the building inspector for repairs on a city auto which he admits using for his own purpose sometimes. He said the machine cost originally $1100, and it costs $450 a year to run it, and that the machine depreciates about $300 a year. That's a cheerful outlook for those who urge municipal automobiles.

FATAL FALL.

The body of John P. McKenna was found as a result of a fall from the roof of a house on Walnut street Saturday was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Thomas Donovan, Summer terrace, Sunday afternoon. Mr. McKenna was helping a friend shingle his house, missed his footing, fell and struck squarely on his head on reaching the ground 20 feet below.

The accident occurred early Saturday afternoon. He was taken to the Quincy City Hospital in the police ambulance where he died from a fractured skull. While at the hospital he recovered consciousness and was able to recognize Rev. Fr. James P. McNiff of the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic.

Mr. McKenna was unmarried and boarded at 79 West Squantum street. He was an iron moulder by trade and worked at the Fore River yard. He was a member of the Fire Department for many years.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The Republican City committee plan a big rally for this city, Monday evening. The place has not been decided upon as yet. An important meeting of the Republican City committee will be held at the headquarters, Room 4, Johnson building, Thursday evening to perfect the arrangements for this great Republican demonstration, the opening gun of the campaign in the city. The calls for the meeting have been sent out and it is desired that every member of the committee assist in making this rally one long to be remembered.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

The attendance at the evening schools has surpassed all previous records. The Adams school has only four rooms available and each room has more men and women enrolled than can be accommodated. The Willard school has five rooms in use, with an attendance of between 130 and 140. The Lincoln school enrollment increased over 20 and the attendance will probably be more than doubled because of the foreign population. One notable feature is the Syrian enrollment. The industrial classes have increased in some courses and no more students can be accepted. Some were turned away owing to lack of facilities. In all cases late applications names will be placed on the waiting list. In case of absence two or more consecutive nights, without good excuse, the places will be filled from the waiting list. No more can be taken in the engineering, joiners, the sheet metal or machinists courses. One place is open in the shop mathematics course and two in the plumbing course. The plumbing course is attractive and a capable instructor is in charge. The commercial and general drawing courses have a larger attendance than ever. The course for granite cutters held its first session Friday evening in the Lincoln building and Louis Whitehouse of Boston had charge, and as 30 have registered probably no more can be accepted. Thursday evening the superintendent of schools received a request from 15 young men employed in the mold loft at the Fore River plant asking that a course adapted to their work be arranged. No decision was reached on the matter. No cooking courses will be given at the High and Willard schools. Arrangements for the sewing course were completed Friday evening.

THE WAG OF DOGGIE'S TAIL.

A. G. Hildebeck.
When our golden castles totter
And our sky grows strangely dark,
When the glow of hope has dwindled
To a feeble, flickering spark,
When our faith in self is shattered
And our earnest efforts fail,
We may still find inspiration
In the wag of doggie's tail.

When the tots who loved to meet us
With sweet kisses at the gate,
And who used to beg for stories
When the hour was getting late,
Have all grown to men and women
And from home have taken sail,
We may find unlooked for comfort
In the wag of doggie's tail.

When the friends we loved and trusted
Have forgotten to be kind
And have shown us to our sorrow
That our foolish love was blind,
And have hastened from our presence
At the first cold shower of hail,
There's a saving friend who's mirrored
In the wag of doggie's tail.

Trouble comes to every mortal
Struggling through the mists below,
And o'er every heart's warm surface
Ice breezes soon may blow;
Yet when vexing cares and sorrows
Strike our hearts and make them quail,
We will still find consolation
In the wag of doggie's tail.

DEACON'S PICKED-UP DINNER.

Mrs. Smart was getting her best china ready for a large dinner she was about to give, and her cousin, Ella Hale, was helping her, when Deacon Smart stuck his bald head in at the door.

"My dear," he said, "here's a paper of pins for you."
Mrs. Smart nearly dropped a saucer in consternation.

"What, again? More pins?" she asked.

"Yes, my dear," said the deacon, uneasily. "Pins are always useful."

"Oh, yes, pins!" said Mrs. Smart, giving her glass toward a toss as she wiped the last glacial of moisture from a goblet. "But not rows of stupid wire! I do say for it, Ebenezer."

"I'm going to Glen Depot, my dear," the deacon somewhat hurriedly interrupted at this juncture; "and perhaps I shan't be home till one o'clock."

He withdrew, and Mrs. Smart turned to Ella with a half laugh.

There, my dear, said she, throwing down the faded green roll of pin paper on the dresser—"there, you behold the secret of my domestic unhappiness—the skeleton in my closet!"

Ella opened her round, hazel eyes very wide.

"I can't think what you mean, Juliana," she said, "you unhappy, and the dear deacon such a truly good man?"

"That's the trouble," said Mrs. Smart;
"he is too good."

"But I don't hardly see how that can be possible," protested Ella, more perplexed than ever.

"And it's all at my expense," said Mrs. Smart, dolefully. "Do you see the paper of pins?"

"Why, of course I see it," said
Ella.

"Well, Mrs. Smart has bought that paper of pins of a pedler at the door," said Mrs. Smart. "Pedlers always come here. This house is a Mecca to the race of pedlers. They know that Mr. Smart always buys of them—he's too good hearted to say no; or, rather, let us speak the truth, and shame him who shall be nameless between us—he is really too indolent to resist their importunities."

Ella burst out laughing.

"But what an insignificant little trial!" she said.

"Oh, yes, I dare say," said Mrs. Smart.
"The sting of a burnt isn't so very terrible in itself, but when whole swarms are let loose upon you what then?"

"A whole swarm?" repeated innocent Ella.

"My dear," said Mrs. Smart, lowering her voice to a confidential whisper "up stairs in my bedroom closet. I have 15 papers of just such cheap pins—utterly useless for anything but to bend themselves up double when you try to put them through a single thickness of calico and to deprive you of your temper just when you need it most; 6 cards of porcelain buttons, an article which I never use; 3 packages of stove blacking, 13 bottles of machine oil, 5 papers of rusty needles, a dozen pairs of shoe strings and 8 rolls of tape, which is an insult to one's common sense! If I could recommend it to my conscience, I'd fling the whole collection into the fire, but I was brought up to economize.

What do you think, Ella? Would it be a sin to annihilate all these pitfalls to my equanimity?"

"It's rather a hard problem," said
Ella, soberly.

"And with all this, said Mrs. Smart, saying vehemently she went on.
"Ebenzer is unwilling to give me money to buy decent darning needles and respectable tape. He wonders why I can't make my dresses last a little longer, and thinks I am extravagant in wanting a new feather for my old velvet bonnet. He says that I use too many raisins and spices, and asks me why I can't raise poultry and have eggs in exchange for groceries at the village store. And yet—oh, the inconsistency of men—he expects me to give a bowl of coffee and a sandwich, to say nothing of wedges of apple pie and three-corned bits of cake to every abled bodied tramp and stout pedler woman who happens to come along."

"Doesn't he make any allowance for it in the housekeeping money?" asked Ella.

"Not he! Just look here!" Mrs. Smart opened the drawer of the kitchen table. "This is where I keep the house-keeping money—which he came here twice this morning—once to get a quarter for a lame beggar and again to get 10 pennies for that same outrageous paper of pins!"

And she cast a baleful glance at the article, which still lay on the dresser.

"This is piracy," said Ella, judicial-ly.

"It's highway robbery!" declared Mrs. Smart. "And there comes the butcher's cart, and I haven't money enough to leave the house."

And she cast a baleful glance at the article, which still lay on the dresser.

"Can't you buy on credit?"

"Never!" said Mrs. Smart, with spirit. "It's a thing I never have done, and I never will do!"

Ella's hazel eyes sparkled as she looked at her head scheming deacon.

"Nothing today," she said.
Mrs. Smart dashed away a tear.

"Give me some of that shelled corn, Ella," she said. "I suppose I can catch it from your dinner."

"Do nothing of the sort, my dear," said Ella.

"But what are we to do?"

"I'm afraid the deacon won't like it," said Mrs. Smart. "In the 150 meetings that had been held there had been an attendance of 40. Two meetings had been omitted, on account of inclement weather."

He referred hopefully to the present well organized society and urged all to strive and make the present year the brightest and most successful yet recorded.

A solo "The plains of peace," by Barnard was acceptably rendered by Miss Ernestine Litchfield of Wollas-ton.

"Why a young Peoples Religious Union?" was forcefully pictured by Rev. Dudley H. Ferrell.

He pointed out the duty and privilege of the young people in working in their respective unions and in helping the national society.

Mr. Ferrell congratulated the union on its ten years of life and brought the greetings of the Brockton Guild.
In closing he said—

"I trust as the years pass on, that each will bring to you greater success and a deeper spiritual insight of the things in the pursuit of which we are banded together."

"What we owe the Boston Federation and what it owes us," was the subject of Leon F. Cummings. He pointed out many ways in which each could help the other and urged a wide exchange of ideas.

A sermonette on "Consecration" was preached by Rev. Carl G. Horst and the program ended with the solo
"King of love" by Miss Litchfield.

"We should pledge ourselves anew," said Mr. Horst, "to truth, service and above all to worship. Things seen and temporal. Only the unseen are the enduring realities."

The deacon's jaw dropped; he had half a mind to be angry, but he thought better of it and broke into a low chuckle.

"Mr. Midway," he said, turning to the young man, "be warned in time!
You see what tricks women folks will always be up to."

But Mr. Midway, who had somehow or other got hold of Ella's hand under the folds of the tablecloth, did not seem to heed those words of wisdom as deeply as he should have done under the circumstances.

"Ladies," he said, "there's a bushel of oysters out in the wagon that I was taking home. If you will build up a good fire we'll have a roast, and I'll be head cook. I suppose you've got plenty of good bread and butter."

"Yes, and nice hot coffee," said Mrs.
Smart. "Make haste, Ella, and start the fire to a blaze, and we will stimulate it a little with machine oil and pins."

The deacon sat by and made no de-mour. He only laughed in a sheep-ish silent sort of way.

And they dined off hot roast oysters bread and butter and coffee. Toward the close of the repast a stout, itinerant vender, with a basket on his arm, tapped on the door.

"I hope I see your honor well," said he, with a regular professional whine. "Will 'ee buy something today? Pins, needles, shoe laces, hat-pins or a little?"

But Deacon Smart shut the door in the midst of his oily oration.

"No!" he said.

"And that monosyllabic sealed Mrs.
Smart's triumph for good and all—Alice Benton.

Y. P. R. U. ANNIVERSARY.

The Wollaston Young People's Religious Union celebrated its 10th anniversary in the Wollaston Unitarian church, Sunday evening.

In addition to parish members from unions in Greater Boston were represented including Quincy, Dorchester, Brookline, Wintthrop, East Boston, Brighton, Hyde Park and others.

The speakers were Rev. Dudley H.
Ferrell of Brockton, president of the national body; Leon F. Cummings of Dorchester, president of the Boston Federation; Fred M. Barnes, first president of the local Union and Rev.
Carl G. Horst, pastor of the church.

Lucien H. Thayer, president of the Wollaston Union presided.

The meeting opened with an organ voluntary by William E. Weston which was followed by a short business meeting and devotional service.

President Lucien H. Thayer extended a cordial welcome to those present and urged renewed interest in the work of the organization. Fred M.
Rollins, the first president of the Wollaston Union spoke on "Our History." Mr. Rollins reviewed the organization of the society Sunday evening, Oct. 19, 1902 when at a large meeting in the church a membership of over 50 was enrolled. In the nine years of existence nothing extraordinary had been accomplished but rather the progress had been normal. In the 150 meetings that had been held there had been an attendance of from 13 to 100 with an average attendance of 40. Two meetings had been omitted, on account of inclement weather.

He referred hopefully to the present well organized society and urged
all to strive and make the present
year the brightest and most successful yet recorded.

CAFE CHANTANT.

No more novel or delightful society event was ever held in this city than the Cafe Chantant at Alpha hall, Oct. 18th, under the direction of the executive board of the Quincy Women's club. The affair was one that called out many of Quincy's society people and was a success beyond the most sanguine hopes of the promoters.
It was a form of entertainment entirely new to Quincy and the approval which greeted this offering to the society palate was very gratifying all concerned.

The hall was prettily decorated with pine boughs and autumn leaves which gave a soft tone to the surroundings and set off the many beautiful creatures, worn by the ladies, to the best possible advantage.

Sixty or more tables were arranged about the floor of the hall, containing parties of from four to six while on one side was a large round table at which were seated Hon. Russell A.
Sears and Mrs. Sears and a gay party of young people. The guests assembled early to witness the adaption of a sketch from Francis Hodgson Bur-nett's "Fair Barbarian."

The adaption was the work of Mrs.
Eben W. Sheppard the club's president who read the introductory passages.
There was no scenery upon the stage yet so clever was the work of the actors, that the imagination of the audience supplied the lack of accessories.

The play called for team work on the stage, yet there was nothing about this team work that was suggestive of amateurs. The parts of the two old aunts were well taken by Mrs. N. S.
Hunting and Mrs. Chandler W. Smart.
Miss Mollie Brown as Octavia the "Fair Barbarian" and Mrs. Dexter E.
Wadsworth as Lucia were very natural in the rendition of their parts and true to life.

The two beautiful youths Miss Georanna Lane as Mr. Francis Barold and Mrs. George Dudgeon as Mr. Darnley ton, carried themselves with dignity and natural reserve through their trying experiences. The maid, Miss Beatrice Morrison was equally good.
Indeed throughout the witty, rollicking sketch the interest of the audience was keen and the end point of the action of the play was fully appreciated, and received deserved applause. As a whole it was a delightful bit of comedy, prettily rendered.

Following the play there was singing by Miss Anna Holmes Ruggles, if being her first appearance on the concert and drawing room work abroad. She was enthusiastically received.

Miss Elsie Harrington gave an exhibition of aesthetic dancing which was a delightful and graceful portray of the possibilities of the poetry of motion.

Mr. Ralph Doble gave a group of songs which called forth rounds of applause.

One of the hits of the evening was the singing of "Oh you beautiful doll" by John Jones, Jr. and Paul Black-mur. Mr. Jones made up like a typical French doll and sang the verse from the platform while Mr. Black-mur in the gallery sang the chorus with a vim that caused the hall to ring with applause. The catchy words and music was too much for the audience which could not resist the temptation to join with Mr. Black-mur in singing the rollicking and snappy chorus.

While this part of the program was in progress light refreshments were served at the tables by the young people and many took advantage of the opportunity to visit friends at adjoining tables. A group of Tech boys led the singing of popular songs in which everybody joined. Thus the evening closed. It had been a very happy one, the sort of a good time that makes one feel that the world is a better place.

The head waiters were John Pfaff-mann, and Winslow Sears. The refreshments were in charge of Mrs.
Percy H. Holman and Mrs. Thomas
B. Pollard, assisted by Mrs. G. B.
Bates, chairman of the Women's Exchange department of the club. The young ladies who served were Miss Lacey, Miss Ninnon Lacey, Miss Caroline Sprague, Miss Dorothy Sayward, Miss Florence Barker, Miss Dorothy Brokaw, Miss Millicent Chapman, Miss Dorothy Kilton, Miss Marjorie Pen-niman, Miss Florence Thayer, Miss Ester Rockford, Miss Catherine Merrill and Miss Helen Walker.

The ladies who had active charge of the affair were Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. H. H. Kilton, Mrs. Chandler W.
Smith, Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham and Mrs. John D. McKay.

EASTERN STAR SALE.

The sale of the Quincy Chapter,
Order of Eastern Star, at Electa Hall, Monday afternoon and evening was well attended and a grand success.
Booths decorated with foliage and crepe paper were set up around the hall and presented a very pretty effect. Between the sessions there was a business meeting.

Mrs. Henrietta Files of Houghs Neck was chairman of the general committee, and those in charge of the tables were:

Fancy—Mrs. Mary E. Gordon, Mrs.
John Payson, Mrs. C. L. Gillatt, Mrs.
Inez Zwicker, Mrs. Ada Johnson, Mrs.
Florence Milne, Mrs. Grace Turner and Mrs. Eva Bain.

One can spend a fortune on clothes or dress well on a very limited sum according to the way the thing is managed, but it is safe to say that the models who accomplish wonders at small outlay make a study of clothes, and keeps herself informed on the latest style wrinkles.

WOOL EMBROIDERIES.
She knows, for instance, that wool wonderfully, or lends an air of difference to a ready made purchase that needs an individual touch.

LAUNCHING TODAY.

The bulk cargo steamer Frieda built for the Union Sulphur Co., at the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. plant will be launched at 11 o'clock Saturday. The ship is from designs by George Simpson, naval architect of New York. The vessel is named for Mrs. Henry T. Whiton, a daughter of Herman Frasch, President of the company and she will be christened by Mrs. Whiton. The launching is expected to end in elaborateness the launch of the steamer Herman Frasch which took place December 11, 1909, and will be witnessed by a special party of the Sulphur Co., who will come from New York on a special train which will arrive at the Fore River yards private track the party within a few feet of the launching stand.

This vessel is 315 feet in length and of 5,000 tons deadweight on a moderate draft. The Frieda has been designed especially for the transport of bulk cargoes of low density and for this reason there have been incorporated in her hull, topside and also athwartship ballast tanks, on the Simpson principle, making the holds selftrimming on all four sides, thereby more than doubling her ballast capacity and reducing her tonnage 20 per cent.

ADAMS SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the Parents and Teachers' association of the Adams school Thursday evening Charles H. Johnson delivered his lecture on "History of Quincy to 1850." Because of the lateness of the hour several questions which have been agitating the members were not discussed but will be taken up at a meeting of the executive committee Wednesday evening.

President Robert E. Foy read a communication from Mayor Stone relative to the starting of the new Adams school and advised the association that work would be rushed so that the building would be completed as soon as possible.

The communication also stated that the heating contract had not been awarded. The placing of this contract called for considerable discussion at a recent meeting because it was claimed a sufficient amount of radiation was not allowed for the building. A committee conferred with Mayor Stone on this question.

LEND-A-HAND CLASS.

The regular monthly meeting of the "Lend A Hand Class," of the Bethany Sunday School was held Wednesday evening at the home of Guy Shaw, Butler road. A short literary program was presented in which Earl Bates and John Willmott took part. Light refreshments were served by Mrs. William G. Shaw and Miss Shaw. The officers elected were: President, Warren Crane; Vice-president, Philip Innes; Secretary, John Willmott; Treasurer, Earl Bates; Sergeant at Arms, William O'Brien.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP FORUM.

"What's the matter with Quincy?" is the general subject for the good citizenship meetings which are held every day at 12 o'clock in the Wollaston Unitarian church. Every one interested in the welfare of our city is invited to attend and to take part in the discussion. The meetings last one hour, beginning at noon. Councilman Albert N. Murray will lead the discussion tomorrow. Come and bring your friends.

ATTRACTIVE HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Harris, nee Sadie Jones, took possession this week of their new home on Whitney street, Boston, where they will be settled in a few weeks. The house was built by W. R. Lofgren, architect. William P. Nichols of Tremont street, Boston, drew the plans. Mr. Nichols is a summer resident at Houghs Neck.

NEW SECRETARY.

Herbert A. Faulkner, who for the past seven years has been general passenger and advertising agent of the Bay State Street Railway Co., has tendered his resignation to the company to be effective Nov. 1.

Mr. Faulkner has been elected secretary of the Bay State Street Railway Club, which is made up of representatives of all the street railways of New England and the large houses in the allied supply trades and is one of the strongest trade organizations in the country. Mr. Faulkner will, as secretary, have charge of all publications of the club including the Street Railway Bulletin, a monthly trade magazine, of high standing. The Trolley Wayfinder and others, succeeding John J. Lane who after 12 years of faithful and efficient service has been compelled to resign because of ill health.

Ralph M. Sparks whose three years service along special lines for the Bay State Street Railway Co., has earned him promotion, has been appointed to succeed Mr. Faulkner.

BRIDGE HEARING.

An important hearing is to be held at the state house Monday on the proposition of acquiring more land for Metropolitan Park purposes. It is understood that the scheme is to build another bridge between the Neponset river to connect with the Quincy Shore boulevard. Mayor Stone believes that the New bridge across the river to take the place of the present structure and thence to the boulevard by Hancock street is sufficient for all purposes and that to acquire more land and build a new bridge would be a useless expense. He therefore has appointed a committee to oppose the project consisting of President Hobbs of the City Council, Herbert T. Whitman, Councilman John R. Richards and Charles E. Hearn, president of the Board of Trade. A meeting of this committee will be held in the office of the Mayor Saturday evening to formulate plans for opposing the proposed legislation.

Miller and a good supper will be served. The chairman of committees include: Mrs. David L. Jewell, Mrs. Herbert L. Albee, Mrs. Morgan J. Walker, Mrs. John H. Landry, Mrs. George M. Campbell, Mrs. Frank E. Cleveland, Mrs. Arthur Stanton, Miss Annie Cleary, Mrs. Sydney J. Smith and Mrs. Eleanor F. Drew.

FIRE RECORD.

The Central station auto chemical was called out twice, to check a heavy woods fire in the vicinity of Quincy street. The first call was about six P. M. Tuesday. After working about an hour, the blaze was supposed to have been extinguished, but it broke out with renewed energy during the night. Prior to this first call the woods had been burning for some time, and the flames leaped high in the air catching the trees and forming a brilliant illumination. At several points houses were endangered so close did the flames approach.

That entire section of the city was enveloped in a dense canopy of smoke, which became so thick and disagreeable that people were forced to keep their windows closed all night to exist in any degree of comfort.

At 3 A. M. on Wednesday the same piece of apparatus was called to a lively fire in the woods off Quincy avenue. The woods had been burning for some time and again there was danger of some of the houses in the vicinity taking fire. One of the drivers of cows on his way to Brighton saw the fire and as he passed the fire station he notified them.

Hydrant streams were played on the flames and houses at several times to prevent the fire getting the mastery. When the flames were extinguished, the station apparatus was called out again on a still alarm for the woods fire off Quincy avenue. The fire was getting dangerously near the residence of George W. Young and the apparatus was called to extinguish it.

The patients at the Mt. Pleasant hospital are all getting on their feet. Tuesday night the smoke from the fire on Quincy avenue was so thick that they were obliged to close all windows and that when they went out of doors the air was so oppressive as to be almost stifling.

It has been very dry of late and grass woods fires have given the firemen lots of work. The heavy rain showers Wednesday night however wet things down so that they will get a rest from this class of fires for a few days.

THE CHAPERON.

The first rehearsal of "The Chaperon" which will be given by St. Margaret's Guild of the Christ Church was held in the vestry Wednesday evening under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis. The parts have been assigned as follows: Miriam, the Gypsy, Miss Olive A. Smith.

Miss Louise Wilde of Billings street, has returned to her home, after a short visit with friends in Marshfield.

Mrs. and Mrs. Milton Hammond and Mrs. Chase Pope of Billings street, have returned from spending the summer at Bar Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Bosworth of Faxon road have moved to Boston.

Rose Anna Bunker and Miss Lena Rose of Islesboro, Maine, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon T. Gurney of Atlantic street. Mrs. Bunker has had years of travel with her husband who was a sea captain.

Mrs. Christine H. Morse, widow of William Morse, died at her home on 69 Atlantic street, Tuesday. The deceased was 49 years old. Burial was at Cedar Grove cemetery.

The Atlantic Owl club met at the home of Burton E. Pray, 97 Walker street, Atlantic, Tuesday evening. Bid what was first in order for a couple of hours. After partaking of lunch, music was in order. The winners in the whist game were: William T. Hart and Mrs. Percy L. Rogers, and the consolation, Herbert Smith and Mrs. Herbert C. Whitney of Dorchester. The club had a most enjoyable meeting. The next meeting of the Owls will be with Mrs. Herbert C. Whitney, 292 Centre street, Dorchester, Tuesday evening, November 4.

WEST QUINCY

A meeting was called at the parsonage of the Hall Place M. E. church Monday evening of people who were present at the first preaching under Methodist auspices at West Quincy 40 years ago. M. P. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fuller, C. A. Goucher, Mrs. Robert Newcomb and Mrs. William McCormick to arrange for the celebration of the 40th anniversary.

George H. Flint has sold a house on Hillside street to John Passanau. Charles J. McGilguy, the Democratic candidate for representative in the sixth Norfolk district has been conducting a quiet campaign in Wollaston and Atlantic.

Carl F. Pastrom, was arrested by Constable Oscar Dyer for alleged breaking and entering Thursday night and when the case was called before Judge Avery in the District court this morning there were so many complaints that he decided to continue it until Monday morning for more mature consideration.

NORFOLK DOWNS ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the Norfolk Downs Improvement Association in the Pugin hall, Thursday evening the question of tenement houses and "three deckers" was discussed. No action was taken and the matter was laid over until the next meeting.

William A. Mann, president of the Wollaston Congregational church was among those present and spoke of the proposed progress of men's clubs to be held in the near future and explained the matter and possibilities.

The matter of the Tyler street appropriation and the charge made for steam roller services, when no machine apparently had been in work on the street, were discussed.

John E. Poland claimed the city government had obtained the same control for the past six or seven years regardless of which party was elected. He declared that in a few years a mayor would come along that would do to the city's tax independence and then the tax rate would jump to thirty dollars.

Eight new members were admitted and other applications received. In the absence of President Dunmore, John E. Poland presided.

The first rehearsal of "The Chaperon" which will be given by St. Margaret's Guild of the Christ Church was held in the vestry Wednesday evening under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis. The parts have been assigned as follows: Miriam, the Gypsy, Miss Olive A. Smith. Jill, a waif, Miss Elizabeth Ross. Miss Morgan, principal of the school, Miss Elizabeth G. Dickie. Mrs. Dinacourt, mother of Joyce, Miss Adeline McDowell. Phyllis Creighton, Miss Jennie Boutiller. Susanna Horton, poetess, Miss Marion Mitchell. Judith Grey, a good girl, Miss Helen Mitchell. Nora, an Irish maid, Miss Florence M. Ford. Mme. Juno, a teacher, Miss Marion Bolster. Joyce Dinacourt, Miss Cora Barncloot.

Notes and Comments.

—The new law affecting newspapers is to be tested in the courts. It is good opinion that the act will be held unconstitutional. —Banker and Tradesman.

—Now that the baseball season is ended thousands of grandmothers, aunts, brothers and sisters will not have a sick day until next April. —Mansfield News.

—One man in ten thousand, it is said, earns his own living at the age of 70 years. But up to that time suggests the Indianapolis News, he probably is busy earning the living of several others.

—A woman in New York captured a six-foot burglar and marched him five blocks to a police station at the point of a harpoon. The burglar, who was in a New Hampshire town, on being denied damages for her property by the officials' action, placed attachments on the city hall, and tied up the entire municipal machinery for two hours, when the town surrendered. Still another in Chicago caused her husband to desert her by telling him that she was going to marry another man to his business office to earn him. The linchpin has certainly acquired the feminine habit. —Franklin Sentinel.

—A Nebraska paper, whose editor isn't emulating the late George Washington, says that one day a short time since, a farmer went out after a load of straw. Having no pole with which to bind his load he took his axe and commenced to chop down a stalk of corn for the purpose. He had it nearly cut in two when one of the ears of corn became detached and fell crushing him to the ground. It broke his neck and he died in seven pieces. He would have died but for the health giving properties of the Nebraska climate, which made a well man of him before he had walked half way to the house.

CONGREGATIONAL CLUB.

The Wollaston Congregational club opened its seasons meetings, Tuesday evening, with a large increase in attendance. Shortly after 8.30, those present sat down to a supper dinner, starting in with steamed clams and with baked blue fish as the piece de resistance. The supper hour and other intervals during the evening were enlivened with vocal solos and duets by Clyde Everett, the soloist of the Leydon street church, Brookline and Charles Harvey Everett, bass soloist of the Wollaston Congregational church. Walter Clarence Rogers, organist of the church was accompanist. Among the numbers were "Go not happy day" and "Over the desert" by Mr. Everett; "My duty and I" and "For all eternity" by Mr. Long with flute obligato by Mr. Everett and two duets, "Oh! Mimi!" from "La Boheme" and "Passage of the birds."

President Mann welcomed those present and stated that the club had nearly doubled its membership and hoped that the new members be made to feel at home.

Wendell H. Hall reported for the committee appointed to work for the old Wollaston school lot as a public park. The object had been attained and the spring would probably see it blossomed out in all its beauty. He moved a vote of appreciation to the Ladies Aids for their assistance.

Rufus B. Tobey moved a committee of three be appointed to advocate passage of the bill aimed against "Three deckers" so-called, now under consideration and Wendell H. Hall, James W. Whiting and C. A. Campbell were appointed.

R. B. Blanchard, E. W. Blake and C. C. Turner were appointed additional members of the benevolent committee. Mr. Tobey presented each member with a copy of printed rules of parliamentary law, edited by him, being dormant. The serious consideration is just where the line should be drawn.

Dr. Sneath gave an entertaining five minute talk on "Optimism," full of interest. Among other things he very nicely paraphrased the words of a well known poem to "Smile! Thank you! Smile!"

A five minute talk on the "Coal business" was given by Charles P. Hutchins in which he claimed the present price of coal was due to labor conditions.

The main entertainment of the evening was the presentation of "Captain Warren's Ward" by Edward H. Frye. For an hour and a half the audience was amused by the apt impersonations of the various characters in the story and the quaint Cape Cod philosophy of Captain Warren.

EMERY-PITMAN.

John R. Emery, son of Mrs. A. L. Emery of 10 Thompson St., and Miss Marion Lee Pitman of Wakefield were married Monday evening by Rev. Mr. Cogan of the Episcopal church at Wakefield.

The bride was given away by her father Cyrus W. Pitman and Miss Elizabeth Jenkins was the bridesmaid. Edgar Emery a brother of the groom was his attendant.

The ceremony was performed in the future home of the couple on Richardson avenue and was witnessed by only the immediate relatives and friends. The double ring service was used. The house was decorated with cut flowers, ferns and rubber plants. After the ceremony Mrs. Emery left for a trip to Old Point Comfort, Va.

Mr. Emery is well known in Quincy and is a member of the Quincy and Town River Yacht clubs.

CITY COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening. It was a short meeting as there was but little business to do. The Finance Committee reported on several minor matters but did not touch the street order. The Finance Committee reported on the widening of Washington street at the corner of Coddington street which went over to the next Council. The order for $20,000 for Quincy's share of the repairs to the Fore River bridge was passed. One of the most important matters was the veto of the Mayor on the order amending the Auditor's ordinance. The main objection to the proposed amendment was because the legislative body attempted to interfere with the executive power and because the duties fixed by the Charter were vested in the Auditor that rightfully belonged to the City Solicitor.

Councilmen Ericson and Sandberg were absent.

A communication was received from the Mayor returning without his approval Order No. 283 for the following reasons amending Ordinance No. 38, establishing a uniform system of auditing and accounting in the City of Quincy.

On motion of Councilman Abele the vote was laid on the table.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing the following as members of the special committee to act with the special committee of the City Council, the Mayor and Dock Commissioner to select a site for a public dock:—George W. Stone, Hon. W. T. Shea, Perry Lawton, Joseph A. Sedgwick, George E. Pfaffmann, Hiram W. Phillips, J. S. Swaine, Charles H. Heald, Edward H. Hay, Charles W. Jones, Frederick H. Smith, Amos Leavitt, Richard R. Freeman, Herbert S. Barker, C. Theodore Hardwick, Andrew Milne, Jr., Alfred O. Diack, Andrew Milne.

A communication from the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works asking for an appropriation of $500 to finish the assembly hall in the Quincy school was referred to Finance Committee.

A communication from the Mayor inclosing communication from the City Clerk asking for an appropriation of $100 for miscellaneous expenses. The clerk stated that after the budget was passed the Legislature passed a law compelling City Clerks to send a copy of the proposed law relative to retirement of city laborers to every registered voter, by mail. He had no funds therefore to meet this additional expense. Referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication from Mrs. R. R. Smith relative to overcharge for granite curbing and sidewalk in front of her estate on Granite street, was referred to the Executive.

A petition from the Telephone Co. for a location for poles was referred to Committee on Streets.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred to the Committee on Licenses.

The Finance Committee reported as follows on the following matters. Leave to withdraw on the communication from the Mayor inclosing claim of O. H. Bates. Accepted.

Next City Council on the order widening Coddington street at the corner of Washington street. Accepted.

Ought not to pass on the order appropriating $40 for a portable platform at the Washington school. Accepted.

Ought to pass on the order transferring the miscellaneous receipts of the highway department to the appropriation for highways. Adopted.

An amendment to the order transferring $100,000 from one appropriation to another was adopted. Accepted.

The order appropriating $20,000 for Quincy's share of the Fore River bridge took its second reading and was passed under suspension of the rules.

Adjourned at 8.05.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

Robert Cantley, the well known granite manufacturer, who operates the Lyons plant has filed a petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities amount to $17,462 of which $750 is for taxes, $800 for wages, $800 for notes and bills, which petitioner claims ought to be paid by others. Of the indebtedness $15,710 is due to about twenty creditors. The principal creditor of whom is J. Casner & Co., $1,000, Granite Railway Co., $1,155 and S. Scamwell & Sons $1,388 all of Quincy and the Webb Granite Co., for $1,853 for money loaned. His assets amount to $2,144.

The plant of Mr. Cantley containing some of the most valuable granite machinery in the city has lately been able to turn a granite shaft from two inches to six feet in diameter, and some of the largest work in the country has been turned out at this plant.

Another Quincy man who is in financial straits is a wonder. The principal of Atlantic a Boston provision dealer who is a petitioner in bankruptcy. His liabilities amount to $8,279 of which $111 is for taxes due the City of Quincy and $8,267 is due to about 40 insured creditors. Assets $2,419.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.

Letters addressed to the following persons remain unclaimed at the Quincy post office for the week ending Oct. 18:

Mat Anderson (two letters), M. F. Arenberg, Frank Bernstein, Harry Buckley, E. E. Burbank, Derino Catto, Mrs. E. Carlos, Mr. Daley, A. W. Deveau, Mrs. T. H. Fitzsimmons, Thomas Gaudet (three letters), Charles Hamilton (three letters), T. J. Hannan, Nestor Halberg, R. Hourbort, Napoleon Lamonen, Miss Lucy Macconnell, Miss Kathleen McShane, M. J. Muller, Mrs. James Orkney, William L. Perry, E. T. Reiz, Miss Cora Rodrick, F. A. Seymour, Miss Bridge Sharkey, Fred Simpson, Edward Smith, Robert Smith, Robert Theiffelund, Hammond Thompson, Peter Tighe, J. Walker, Miss Isabella Webb, G. Wickson, William Wilson.

REPUBLICAN RALLY.

Alpha hall was packed to and beyond the doors Monday night for the Republican rally. It was a very enthusiastic audience in which there were quite a number of ladies and the applause was frequent and spontaneous. There was but one discordant note and that was when one man, during the speaking of Guy A. Ham hissed twice. He did not have an opportunity to repeat his action for Constable Henry F. Purnell, who was on duty at the door grabbed the man and ejected him from the hall. Previous to the rally a drum corps marched from the West Quincy to the Quincy depot to meet the speakers on their arrival and escorted them to Alpha hall, where for half an hour all were entertained by the Temple male quartette.

Louis F. R. Langelle President of the Republican City committee presided and after a few introductory remarks introduced as the first speaker Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, the senior senator from Massachusetts. Senator Lodge got a rousing reception. He began by saying that he was present to urge the election of President Taft, Mr. Harris for congressman, Joseph Walker for Governor, Robert Luce for Lieut. Gov. and the candidates for Senator and Representatives. The Republican who was protecting the country for good government, which he did not think would be received from the Democrats.

Senator Lodge was followed by Congressman Robert C. Harris who spoke largely on the tariff question. Joseph Walker for Governor received a rousing reception. He said in part: "I believe that wage workers have a right to organize for a legitimate purpose, namely, to protect or raise the wage scale and to maintain or improve conditions of labor."

This is my opinion, a legitimate wage for American working men and women to protect their interests and to raise the American standard of living.

Like every good citizen I deplore lawlessness and violence. I admire the patriotism recently displayed by the citizens of Quincy. A crowd of 5,000 was to invade the corridors of the state house he refused to allow it. He believed that he was right in so doing and that if a similar occasion should arise he would do the same thing.

The Progressive party means to take control of the state in the hands of the Democrats. The chairman of the Democratic city committee told the Progressives if they could not get enough signatures to their papers he would furnish names enough. Even in your own city we find a Democratic candidate for Senator.

The last speaker, Roger Wolcott, introduced for senator from this district. He spoke briefly, of the three issues which he had advocated. The first was the compulsory electrification of all steam railroads, the second the taking of Quincy and Milton out of a Democratic congressional district and the third was to have an opportunity to have a candidate and placing Quincy in a Republican district now so ably represented by Robert O. Harris.

The meeting closed with three cheers for President Taft and the Republican candidates.

REUNION ACCIDENT.

In trying to stop a pair of runaway horses Monday night, officer Henry F. Corbett was thrown to the ground and the wheels of the heavy truck passed over him breaking his right leg. A two horse vegetable wagon owned by Mr. Hader of Setituate stood on Hancock street, near the corner of Saville street, and the driver removed the bridle from his horses to prevent them. While they were feeding the Democratic parade came along with its band and red fire with the result that the horses became frightened and started to run. Officer Corbett grabbed the off horse by the head while Norman Everson grabbed the high horse.

It was a wild sight to witness. The square was full of people. The paraders scattered to right and left to escape being trampled down by the runaway.

As they neared a point opposite the cemetery, the off horse succeeded in bringing the animals to a standstill. He was cheered by the large crowd which witnessed his brave act. Norman Everson was thrown when the horses made a swerve in the other direction. Officer Corbett was picked up and carried to the police box and conveyed to the City hospital in the police ambulance, where the extent of his injuries were learned. The horses kept on their mad zig zag flight through the square but were finally stopped near the corner of Granite street. Sherman Hayden, a young man who rushed out of the crowd and succeeded in bringing the animals to a standstill. He was cheered by the large crowd which witnessed his brave act.

For several months he had been in ill health and although the best medical aid was administered he failed to rally.

Funeral services were held at his late home 12 Lonsdale street Dorchester, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial was at Lowell.

WALTER P. JONES DEAD.

It was with much sorrow that Quincy people learned of the death on Monday of Walter P. Jones, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones of Dorchester, formerly of Quincy.

The deceased was a pupil of the public schools of this city, having graduated from the Washington school class of 1908, and attended the High school until his removal to Dorchester.

For several months he had been in ill health and although the best medical aid was administered he failed to rally.

Funeral services were held at his late home 12 Lonsdale street Dorchester, Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial was at Lowell.

FAVORS NEW YACHTS.

At a meeting of the Interclub Yacht Racing Association at the South Boston Yacht Club, the proposed amendment to rule V section III, which formerly called for boats in class S to race 35 feet over all, was changed to read 30 feet and six inches overall by unanimous vote. The rule was changed in order to favor the new boats being built for next season's racing.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

Red Fire and a parade with a band escorted the "Old Boy," Governor Foss to the Democratic rally at Music Hall, Monday evening where he was bawled with the cheers. The parade came down from South and West Quincy, with transparencies and a large American flag, and passed Alpha hall just after the Republicans had entered.

Alfred A. LaCroix introduced Hon. William F. Shaw, the leading independent of the platform was Governor Foss, David I. Walsh, Edward Gilmore of Brockton, David B. Shaw of Charlestown, Dr. J. P. Ratigan of Hyde Park, Michael T. Sullivan, John J. McDevitt, Charles J. McGilvray, James M. Corley, all candidates and George H. Corlies, Mayvick and J. Fitzgerald was unable to attend.

A notable feature was the applause given the speakers, particularly David I. Walsh, by the Progressive Party supporters who were in the audience. About 1200 attended the rally.

Governor Foss said the people were looking to the Democrats for relief. "The Republicans had their opportunity. They promised a tariff reduction, to remove taxes from the poor man, to make a distribution of the advantages which come from the protection of that workmen should share the benefits of the protective system. They are split in two and going down in defeat."

"The issue is the tariff, the high cost of living. The necessities of life have increased and a removal of taxes would not hurt."

"We do not stand for free trade but for revision. Our platform is constructive and progressive. It is a constructive era. Since the 1907 panic which happened under Roosevelt, the country has been in a period of anticipation of a Democratic victory."

As Governor Foss left the band played "Hail to the Chief" and he was given one of the greatest ovations ever tendered an official in Quincy.

David I. Walsh was loudly cheered as he was introduced. He said that he was not introduced, but he had contributed to his campaign. "I am under no obligations to anyone," he said.

He asked his hearers to vote for the man who has the interest of the people at heart and to let the sound sense of the Democratic legislation ring with the voice of the people.

Mr. Gilmore said that Mr. Harris practically endorsed Democratic principles when elected but had now joined the ranks of the standpatters. He reviewed his record and said "my answer to Congressmen is to let the people and if I am elected from one of the country's best districts I will go as a spokesman and representative of the people and not as a man who assists the money power by voting with them or ducking the roll call and not hearing the voice of the people."

Congressman James M. Curley said in part: "We are informed that the crops this year are of greater value than ever before in the history of the Republic, amounting to somewhere in the vicinity of about nine billion dollars. As has been the case in the past, the Republican party deny the right of even the Lord himself to receive any portion of the credit for this splendid agricultural prosperity. When an individual or a party assumes the responsibility for all good that occurs, it is difficult for the people to see the responsibility for evil that occurs. And in the light of the present and past history, the Republican party can find no method by which it is possible to evade that charge that they alone are responsible for the disaster and poverty that is now before us. One is the short term of the mayor and council. How is a mayor to do efficient work in one year. If we select the right man we ought to give him time to work out his policies."

"Is not the danger of what a man might do in two years if he were not the right man overlapped by the good the right man would do. Therefore, the man who is good and not to have party designation, one of the most absurd things is to pick a man for city government because he happens to feel the way we do about the tariff and other great questions."

"What difference does it make whether or not he believes in free silver so long as he knows how to run the city? Party designations divide the strength of clean public opinion. There are just as good men in one party as the other. It makes a line of separation between two parties that ought to be together. A man gets more attention because of that designation. If removed, a man would have to stand on his own merits and his own feet."

"Other questions are the ward system and the size of the council. The ward system encourages local selfishness and causes a scramble for unfair local advantage."

Mr. Shaw instructed the manner in which councilmen are gotten after in the matter of streets and other matters. "We work on the principle, that if we don't get what we want some other part of the city will get it."

Councilmen are harassed by their constituents. The value he is in relation to what he gets for his ward, not the value he is to the whole city and whether or not he puts it on an unsound financial basis.

"It is wiser when we elect men to office to choose them for their worth rather than local popularity. I believe in a council at large. This is favorable to the city. It is better to have the whole city to choose from. Where one man might get votes in his district, in the whole city personal ability counts rather than being a good fellow."

"A council of 22 members is unwieldy. It makes the ballot too long. It is difficult to get the best men. Many names are confusing."

"I favor the reduction of the council to at least nine members with the purpose of getting better men in the field. There would be better men to choose from and nine could do more business in less time than 22. I do not object to a larger representation than another because the whole city had passed on them. The councilman won't try to cater to his ward because he must square his action by the whole city's opinion."

"I believe in a two years' term for the council the same as mayor. It might be a good plan to elect four one year and five the next so as not to change completely each year. A short ballot would bring out better men."

Mr. Shaw reviewed the points he had brought out and urged an awakening of public interest. Unless we make up our minds to get busy and with our own hands we can make no difference in present conditions."

In the general discussion, N. G. Nickerson stated that at a house meeting recently held of some 15 citizens of Wollaston a commission form of government with a council of perhaps seven or not to exceed nine was unanimously favored.

Verne S. Brokaw raised the question if a commission was advisable. Mr. Shaw was of the opinion the reason it had worked well in some cities because in obtaining it public sentiment had been aroused. If we could get the same sentiment here we would get the results without the upheaval.

William E. Rowe asked what could be done as individuals. "Take enough interest to go and vote. Attend rallies and look over the candidates. Get the right kind of men in the field. Able men seldom run for political honors," said Mr. Shaw.

"The vital spot in the city today," said A. L. Baker, "is the re-election of the mayor. Just as soon as a mayor is elected he plays for re-election. The charter should be so amended that we should elect a mayor every year and then build an iron fence around him. (Great applause.)"

Eugene H. Sprague declared one trouble was that the local press did not take its stand on local affairs but was influenced by the printing office. He declared that a new charter should be drafted and passed. The way to put the public right. There was nothing the trouble with the city charter or Quincy. What was wanted was men. We should not vote for a man because he needs the job after being a failure in other things. (Applause.)"

Fred F. Green, proprietor of a local newspaper declared he had been hampered away on these questions but had not received the support he should. He declared a certain local paper received the bulk of the city's printing and that it paid them to keep quiet. Mr. Green did not agree that the charter should be changed if a strong man with back bone was placed in the mayor's chair. A man that was not the tool of a body of politicians. "If you change the charter it will be nothing more than the machine in the citizens association advocated and they will be prepared to perpetuate themselves in office for another long term of years."

It was voted to appoint a committee of five to govern future meetings and to invite all interested including the ladies. Meetings will be held every Sunday at 12 o'clock in the church and it is proposed to close sharp at 1 o'clock.

CITY AFFAIRS DISCUSSED.

"What's the matter with Quincy?" was further brought out, Sunday noon, when over 70 men from all parts of the city gathered in the Wollaston Yacht club for an open discussion of the question.

The meeting was the first of a series to be held Sunday noons in the church to consider questions of civic welfare. Several councilmen past and present and others prominent in the city government were present.

Mr. Karl G. Horst opened the meeting and referred to the letters of Irving L. Shaw which he had been appearing in the Ledger. He paid a tribute to Mr. Shaw in rendering the community a great service by telling the actual workings of the city government and where we are today. He urged that the meetings be free and easy, with frank discussion in order that some definite conclusions might be reached.

Irving L. Shaw declared that he regarded it as his duty and opportunity to speak upon the question of civic welfare. "It is the greatest privilege of American citizenship, to be able to tell our friends and neighbors how we feel. Stevenson said: 'The first duty of man is to speak.' By speaking and having everyone speak we get a broader viewpoint."

"The Republic is passing through a reconstructive period. Old ideals are passing and new interests are claiming attention."

"We all remember when party politics so predominated that at the country store the native declared he would vote for the man himself if he would in part."

"Party distinctions are now losing their claim and must produce principles to which thinking men agree if they would continue. Philanthropy is merging into civic interest."

"If national issues are of importance much more are those of local interest."

"Our local conditions are dependent upon one man. On the legislative side, what he does is helped or hindered by the kind of men who go to the city council and raise our tax rate and help us spend our money."

"It is not the city council that speak our minds freely. If we held as much stock in some private business as we do in the city of Quincy how many would sit still and let things go in the wrong way? They would at least say something."

"We need awakening, see what is going on and pass judgment upon it. How else are the mayor and council to know whether they are pleasing or not."

"Many people expect to find the government operating like a well oiled machine. They get out and crank it up once a year and expect it to run like a clock. It is not so. It is a matter how beautiful a form of government it will never work out unless the people take a strong and keen interest in the city's affairs. The political machines or rings are in the habit of thinking that they and not the people own the city. What we need is a person of the very best of the city to work out the reconstruction of Quincy's policies and get out of the financial rut we are already in."

"It is a fact that Quincy pays more of its revenue for debt and interest than any other city in the Commonwealth and 10 per cent worse off than the next worst city. In fact 43-10 per cent of the whole revenue goes to pay debt and interest. That alone should awaken every man to take an active personal part."

"The form of Quincy's government is pretty good. Its charter squares up pretty well on the whole. There are some things that need to be changed, however. One is the short term of the mayor and council. How is a mayor to do efficient work in one year. If we select the right man we ought to give him time to work out his policies."

"Is not the danger of what a man might do in two years if he were not the right man overlapped by the good the right man would do. Therefore, the man who is good and not to have party designation, one of the most absurd things is to pick a man for city government because he happens to feel the way we do about the tariff and other great questions."

"What difference does it make whether or not he believes in free silver so long as he knows how to run the city? Party designations divide the strength of clean public opinion. There are just as good men in one party as the other. It makes a line of separation between two parties that ought to be together. A man gets more attention because of that designation. "I favor the reduction of the council to at least nine members with the purpose of getting better men in the field. There would be better men to choose from and nine could do more business in less time than 22. I do not object to a larger representation than another because the whole city had passed on them. The councilman won't try to cater to his ward because he must square his action by the whole city's opinion."

"I believe in a two years' term for the council the same as mayor. It might be a good plan to elect four one year and five the next so as not to change completely each year. A short ballot would bring out better men."

Mr. Shaw reviewed the points he had brought out and urged an awakening of public interest. Unless we make up our minds to get busy and with our own hands we can make no difference in present conditions."

In the general discussion, N. G. Nickerson stated that at a house meeting recently held of some 15 citizens of Wollaston a commission form of government with a council of perhaps seven or not to exceed nine was unanimously favored.

Verne S. Brokaw raised the question if a commission was advisable. Mr. Shaw was of the opinion the reason it had worked well in some cities because in obtaining it public sentiment had been aroused. If we could get the same sentiment here we would get the results without the upheaval.

William E. Rowe asked what could be done as individuals. "Take enough interest to go and vote. Attend rallies and look over the candidates. Get the right kind of men in the field. Able men seldom run for political honors," said Mr. Shaw.

"The vital spot in the city today," said A. L. Baker, "is the re-election of the mayor. Just as soon as a mayor is elected he plays for re-election. The charter should be so amended that we should elect a mayor every year and then build an iron fence around him. (Great applause.)"

Eugene H. Sprague declared one trouble was that the local press did not take its stand on local affairs but was influenced by the printing office. He declared that a new charter should be drafted and passed. The way to put the public right. There was nothing the trouble with the city charter or Quincy. What was wanted was men. We should not vote for a man because he needs the job after being a failure in other things. (Applause.)"

Fred F. Green, proprietor of a local newspaper declared he had been hampered away on these questions but had not received the support he should. He declared a certain local paper received the bulk of the city's printing and that it paid them to keep quiet. Mr. Green did not agree that the charter should be changed if a strong man with back bone was placed in the mayor's chair. A man that was not the tool of a body of politicians. "If you change the charter it will be nothing more than the machine in the citizens association advocated and they will be prepared to perpetuate themselves in office for another long term of years."

It was voted to appoint a committee of five to govern future meetings and to invite all interested including the ladies. Meetings will be held every Sunday at 12 o'clock in the church and it is proposed to close sharp at 1 o'clock.

MISSION.
Ella Wheeler Wilcox.
If you are sighing for a lofty work,
If great ambitions dominate your mind,
Just watch yourself and see you do not shrink
The common, little ways of being kind.
If you are dreaming of a future goal,
When crowned with glory, men shall own your power.
Be careful that you let not struggling soul
Go by unaided in the present hour.
If you are moved to pity for the earth,
And long to aid it, do not look so high
You pass some poor, dumb creature faint with thirst.
All life is equal in the Eternal eye.
If you would help to make the wrong things right, Begin at home; there lies a lifetime's toil,
Weed your own garden first for all men's sight
Before you plan to fill another's toil.
God chooses his own leaders in the world,
And from the rest he asks but willing hands;
As mightily mountains into place are hurled,
While patient dunes may only shape the sands.

BERTHE WINS.
"V'la, le cheval," cried Madeleine the elder, "the horse is eating up all the little rolls!"
"V'la," cried out also the younger Madeleine. "The beast!"
"All! All!" cried the elder sister, ran frantically upon the speckled mare, indolently finishing the last of her meagre lunch.
"This is what comes of carrying our dejeuner to the park," exclaimed Madeleine the elder.
"No such thing!" interrupted the curly-haired one indignantly. "You could not have known there would be such a monster here! You dare not admit it now! Else why—?"
"Admit it? Who ever admitted the horse? Is there no gentleman here?"
He should be caged!
The elder, the m'inselle of the curly, had by this time gathered her curly together for sewing, which had scattered for yards about when she had jumped from her bench. And now she stood looking down at a something which she realized had made an oddly efficient weapon.
"If it had been my spring hat," the younger m'inselle was saying, "it would have been just the same! A horse that would eat sugar rolls and plum tarts would not hesitate at a something which she realized had
made an oddly efficient weapon."

"But this is no public park, this is my garden! Of course, mesdames, I do not mind your trespassing."
"Our trespassing!" echoed Madeleine. "It was the 'mesdames' that aggravated Mlle. Claire!"
With an imperious gesture the swept their scattered belongings into their sewing box, and rose. They were to have walked majestically away. But the curly one dropped in her haste, her —her mending.
The young doctor (he was oldish young) sprang over the fence to pick up the resuable thing. And though the realization of his error made him drag it again like a red ember, his face brightening this impression, still, the ladies felt that they could no longer afford to be unamiable.
Thus did the acquaintance begin of these three—later a friendship whose platonic surface was never ruffled by a breath even of village scandal, so well did the curls chaparrone the bangs, and the bangs the curls, and the biscuit-eating horse the three of them.
There was a forth Berthe, the cook.
She who beat up the yeast that raised the dough, that made the biscuits, that lay in the lunch Clotilde ate.
Nor was she a silent member of the little household in the ville D'autel.
Her opinion, unsolicited, usually was the deciding vote in all family discussions, such as, for instance, on what week they would start the yearly wash or, on whose hat the pink bird would rest this winter. So that when there was an argument one day, as to how best to dispose of the four parts of a lottery ticket which the dear doctor had persuaded the Miles. Durand to buy, and for which there did not seem to be forthcoming the required cash, Berthe announced over her shoulder from the kitchen sink that she would take two of the four shares herself. So it was arranged. One share to Mlle.
Claire, one to Mlle. Susanne, and two to just plain Berthe. Tout en famille.
"For it is quite au fait to buy in the lottery," Berthe remarked, "especially such a good, grand lottery as this great affair known to the Doctor, your friend. But even so, there are always jealous ones who jabber, and if it were not that one would give the money without doubt straight to one's good mother, to pay off the debt on the little farm, why, of a certain, one would not even consider such a waste of twenty francs."

"Nor I," cried Mlle. Claire, bobbing her curls. "Except the we need to have the cottage painted. The paint is certainly so chipped off in spots that of a truth, I am ashamed to have the doctor walk up the path for fear he will see the old blue showing underneath. And I happen to know he does not admire blue."
"Paint the house, indeed!" cried out Mlle. Susanne, looking up from under her bangs. "It is the inside more than the outside that needs repair. It we should win any prize at all, I would take my share and renew the carpet and the walls a new color. I am like the doctor, who comes always at night, should have a fitter place in which to disburse."
"He has often said," inserted Ber-the, still religiously slapping the wash about on the stone sink, "that the kitchen is the pleasantest place in the house."
But the sisters had withdrawn their presences, and the little maid finished her sentence with a smile and a sigh. She was a pretty maid, was Berthe quite dark and petite and her biscuits were beyond the aspirations of the Cordon Rouge.
A few weeks sped by, studied with calls from the dear doctor, and dotted with visits of anticipation in the parlor and prayers to the Virgin in the kitchen. V'la—the day of the drawing. That wonderful day when the Grand Prix of 1,000,000 franc would make the fortune of some erstwhile beggar. And the lesser prizes, 5,000, 1,000, and 500 francs, these lured on the thousands who thronged the great banking rooms on this exaltating morning.
The Miles. Durand had never attended before. They had not even been quite certain that they would come today, but nothing short of death could, at the last, have deterred them.
Not so Berthe. She had long set her heart on the holiday. Her costume for the occasion had been planned the very day she bought the ticket.
Indeed, she had so pestered the good doctor for explicit information that the Miles. Durand were forced to reproach her for encroaching on their guest.
The dear doctor himself had been very gracious. He had said that he liked nothing better than to talk of the ways of the grand ville whose habits he knew so well. He sighed.
Far, far too well! (Here the made-moiselles sighed too, and someone in the summer kitchen giggled.)
But he felt that he ought to offer all of them, all three of them, whatever assistance he could.
At which Mlle. Claire politely murmured that she was sure Berthe would need nothing further of him, and Mlle. Susanne that he might fetch them a tea table, if he did not mind trouble.
Yet now, in spite of the dear doctor, the two vieilles stood in the great crowded foyer, quite alone. Berthe had long ago pushed her young self into the throng that hung about the wheel, and was utterly lost. A queer rush fell on the sitting room. "La Patte!" cried one. "The little one has come!"
And there she was, a staring lass with yellow hair, led by one of the officers through the packed lanes of human faces that shrank back before her.
"Oh, quite," replied the doctor, without a trace of levity. "Eats everything! Patissieres, lettuce, mayonnaise."
The elder m'inselle gave a petulant little scream.
"Why do they allow it in a public park like this, then, pray? It is a menace—"
"But this is no public park, this is

"The doctor?"
"Yes, not a cent!"
Neither of the sisters made any comment. At the doorway each one turned to face the other.
"I have," began Susanne, hesitatingly, "a little errand to do. May I not meet you, dear sister, at the Gare d'Austerlitz for our train at four o'clock?"
If Susanne had anticipated objection, she was gratefully surprised.
Mlle. Claire acquiesced. The two parted in haste, the younger sister to climb the stairs of an auto 'bus, to bump joyfully over the left bank and a certain shop on the Rue St.
Pierre.
There she asked to see a certain amethyst necklace that had lain undisturbed in the littered window for a year.
Madam, behind the counter, was almost vexed to part with her treasure.
"Except to one as altogether charming as yourself, Mademoiselle, I would not sell it at any price. Indeed, I would not. I love it dearer than anything in the whole shop—even my Pretty here," and she patted a hideous yellow cat that blinked up at her from the counter.
"Yes, but I have a gown," apologized Claire, "that it would so become."
In fact, I must tell you—it has no adornment about the neck at all. For my sister wears the very gown with a lace collar which is her own, and which she would not lend me. In fact, I do not want it, for so the gown looks different—and you must know that we have the same, at least there is a gentleman who calls upon us both and so—he said one time, "How beautiful you would look with amethysts about your throat!" And so—"
"I understand," broke in madam, wrapping up the box. "To you the price is just one hundred and twenty-five francs. And I am giving it to you, ma cherie, just because it is you, my sister, and I love you so."
"After Mlle. Susanne had departed, blushing, the fat old shopkeeper rang her four new gold pieces on the counter and petted every one.
Mlle. Susanne met her sister at the station at the appointed hour, staggering into the voiture deuilienne with a great box under her arm.
"What have you there?" she cried out, partly to avoid suspicion from herself. "What is in that box?"
But Mlle. Claire only shook her head and trudged along. Nor would she reply at all until the train was well under way. In fact, she sat upon the box itself, perched high with a silly, frightened air.
"What is it?" protested Mlle. Susanne, "come down and show it me!"
The curls, just touched with gray, bobbed frantically. "It is a dress,"
she gasped, much as if she had said,
"I have murdered my mother."
"A dress?" And certainly Mlle.
Susanne received the news with that much concern.
"Whatever do you want with a new dress?"
Perhaps it was the accent on the
"you," perhaps it was just a long smothered vanity, that suddenly leaped up flame-wise to devour its mistress. Mlle. the elder got down with dignity from her perch, and said, in a choking voice:
"The lavender dress never became me! Even the white lace bertha did not alter it. I admit it. No, say not a word! The doctor asked one night how I was, he said, 'Why don't you get a silver-gray gown, some time? It would so become you.' And I have. And now you know what I have done with all my lottery prize!
One hundred and twenty-five francs
I paid for it. And I call it cheap at that. For see, I will need it more than ever soon."
Susanne suddenly found her voice.
"What is it?"
"Well, if it things go as I have every reason to suppose they naturally will go, it will make a nice reception dress for me, afterward."
"Afterward?" Susanne's eyes filled with tears. She had only thought of an afterward wherein her elder sister knitted in a newly painted house, and she herself poured the doctor's morning chocolate from a blue Sevres pot.
Mlle. Claire mistook the tears.
"Don't feel so badly, cherie. I cannot say for sure yet. Not quite yet. Tonight the doctor will come again to see me."
"To see me?" cried out Mlle. Susanne, enraged.
The elder sister continued evenly.
"I will give you the lace bertha, dear.
You will look quite well in it."
"Me! Look well in your old lace bertha? What should I want of it?
You are foolish, Claire! Why, when the doctor sees me tonight, he will never—"
She stopped abruptly.
They had left the train now, and were drawing near their cottage in the dusk.
"Who then, will paint the house?"
Susanne, the voice trembled. "I thought that you were going to paint the house!"
Claire spoke in gasps, her box was growing heavy. "Why, you," she panted, "may do whatever—you think best! Since you'll be the only person living in it!"
"There! I've no money left! I've spent mine, too."
For a second the two vieilles stood on their little doorstep, defying one another. Each was white.
"What have you bought?" asked Mlle. Claire.
"There! I've no money left! I've spent mine, too."

Indifference was the principal cause advanced, in answer to the question "What's the matter with Quincy?" by Councilman A. N. Murray the chief speaker at the second meeting on this subject held at the Wollaston Unitarian church, Sunday noon. Nearly 80 men and a dozen women attended.
The speakers were Horace W. Richmond, Henry Faxon, Chandler W.
Smith, Nathan G. Nickerson, Arthur
V. Rohn, Edward J. Cummings, R. D.
Locke, Irving L. Shaw, Frank A.
Page and Walter P. Nichols.
"One great cause of our present condition," said Councilman Murray, "comes from the indifference of the average citizen in civic affairs. I would like to feel that everyone here was present from a deep interest in what he might do individually but I am afraid some are present because their pocketbooks have been touched."
"A great many have here been touched by the tax rate. While perhaps that is necessary to stir people up it is not a good indication when something of that kind is needed to arouse interest."
"The citizen should have an interest beyond his own yard. He should have an interest in his neighborhood extending along the whole street and beyond it to the community and city.
The present tax rate has aroused a number of people here next year comes around with its $23 or $24 tax rate we will all be on our feet."
Mr. Murray declared that citizens didn't give the assessors the assistance they ought. "We have the situation in our own hands and if everyone gave their personal information Quincy would not be based up for money. This is one point in civic life upon which we think we have a right to keep quiet."
"If we have a man in our business, we would not employ him on Jan. 1st and not look in on him again until Dec. 1st. It is not the right view if we shift responsibility."
Mr. Murray spoke of the disinclination of the right kind of men to take even the smallest part in the city's affairs.
"If you are taking an interest, you should be stirred up by this time.
Things are going the same way this year. Everyone who wants to go to the council nominates himself and gets himself elected."
"How many citizens were interested last year in what was going on?
How many could tell how the councilmen in this district stood on important measures?"
Mr. Murray said that he had only been approached once last year and that was on a selfish matter. "If you want to find public sentiment you have to hunt hard for it and even then you can't always find it."
The speaker declared that some questionable matters had gone through the council this year that right line on civic matters things will adjust themselves."
Walter F. Nichols was of the opinion that too much talk and action was in the abstract. He inquired what some of the objectionable matters were that had gone through the council.

Councilman Murray replied that a certain matter regarding the fire department had been crowded through.
The garbage question was another where the better element had been absolutely right but were purposely being held back by the public, a matter concerning the police department was another.
Among the good things accomplished was the compulsory reduction of the city's indebtedness of $15,000 a year. Proper sewer assessments were another. Several matters of legislation had been brought through that would make for better conditions.
Horace W. Richmond said that property valuations should be apportioned and assessors who know valuations secured.
Mr. Murray contended that people had no right to complain of conditions until they had complied with the law. It is the exceptional cases that are heard of. There are a lot keeping quiet in regard to their property.
Chandler W. Smith paid a tribute to Irving L. Shaw for bringing matters to public attention. It should be one of two things. We should either try to change conditions or if Boston would take us.
Arthur W. Rohn spoke for concerted action as the only way to accomplish anything. We could talk but all the while the "ring" would be at work and "we would go like so many sheep to be sheared."
Henry Faxon favored action by the men's clubs. "We should also make service in the city council more attractive to our best citizens," he declared.

"With the present conditions the number of the council, the ward rivalry, the trading of votes, nothing can be accomplished. At the best, assuming all the members are high-minded, time is wasted. The reduction in the number of the council is the first step in the regeneration of this city."
Edward J. Cummings urged that more representative citizens attend the council meetings.
Nathan G. Nickerson spoke strongly in favor of the old time caucus so that one could meet the candidates and talk them over.
R. D. Locke mentioned the Wollas-ton Congregational club and the part it was playing in public questions.
Frank A. Page asked what steps could be taken to change conditions.
Irving L. Shaw stated that a bill should be introduced in the legislature before the January session if we wanted it to operate before the second year.
Walter F. Nichols advised making haste slowly in regard to charter revision. Regarding the council he was of the opinion that the quality and not the size was the trouble.
The meeting adjourned to next Sunday.

TEMPERANCE COUNCIL.
By W. C. T. U.
OUR PLEDGE.
I hereby promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine, beer, and cider as a beverage and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic of the same.

DID NOT KNOW THE SMELL.
Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson imposed a fine of five days' pay on a fireman for having taken a drink of beer in quarters, and at the same time publicly commended another fireman who said he did not drink at all and could not be sure whether the can that was given to him to smell after Hicks had taken his drink from it contained beer or not.
"Good," said the Fire Commissioner.
"You're the kind of man the department wants. And I want to say right here, he added, "that before I'm through with the Union, anthing to be like you."—New York

FOR THE SAKE OF OTHERS.
The contest in which you are a participant is part of a world-wide struggle. It is a phase of the universal conflict between evil and good, but for you it has a still closer and more personal contact. For the sake of the weaker brothers easily led astray, among whom you live; for the sake of the patient wives who may suffer because of your mistake; for the sake of the bright boys and girls who will have less happiness and more misery if the liquor traffic is continued; for the sake of the bright young men around you, our country's hope, who will be helped in the passing of a critical period in life by the absence of the bar-room seduction; for the sake of all that is good and true; in opposition to what you your heart you must despise and condemn, go to the polls and vote against the bar room and the treating system by marking your ballots in favor of No-Licenses.—Toronto Pioneer.

Quincy is said to have never witnessed such a crowding of Halloween parties. But it is not so surprising when leap year is considered with us.

Even in jail for murder Becker was able to compel the collection of a large sum of money for his defense fund.

That is quite an ambitious scheme suggested by Paul direct. But in those hard improvement schemes too much enthusiasm cannot be taken for real results.

The prison reform movement has taken on a tangible form. Classification of criminals seems reasonable enough.

ANOTHER CHANCE.

When the Hospital Fund campaign closed it was well known that a certain citizen stood ready to contribute a certain amount of any sum lacking to make up the required $25,000. Many were hopeful of raising $20,000, while it must be acknowledged that there was doubt in the mind of many that the full $25,000 would be raised in the time set for the campaign. With the discharge of the collecting committee there was a little over $7000 lacking for the desired goal.

A large contributor however has generously come forward and offered to relieve the situation.

This person offers to make up $5000 if the citizens will respond with the remaining $2000 before next Wednesday.

The time is short. The collectors performed heroic service. They labored long and diligently. It would be impossible however for them to interview many persons who may have been generously disposed towards the hospital. Here is a chance for this particular class to come as a reserve force in the battle and perform gallant service.

With the limited time at the disposal of the executive committee of the campaign, they would not be able to make another canvass of the city to make sure of interviewing all who had not been seen. A way is offered out of this difficulty. All who desire to aid the cause can do so by calling, or telephoning to the Y. M. C. A.

The telephone number is 25 Quincy.

Or even a letter will answer the purpose. Remember that the committee ask at this time, only a pledge. The amount need not be paid into the hospital before April 1, 1913. So that fully five months are permitted those who desire to contribute to make good their pledges. Let all who feel disposed, send their pledge, or telephone it to the Y. M. C. A., where a complete record will be maintained of it, and thus will the hospital campaign be carried to a successful issue and no one need feel that the appeal for the hospital is in vain and that there was any falling short of the amount desired. Now is the time. What you have to offer offer at once. No matter how small the amount, every little bit helps and when the contest is closed Wednesday the $25,000 will be secured and the hospital will be placed upon such a sound financial basis that those annual appeals will no longer be necessary. Let every one take hold and do their part, whether big or little and the results will be satisfactory to all concerned.

ATLANTIC READING ROOM.

Owing to the very great patronage and popularity of the newly opened reading room of Atlantic at 11 Botolph street, opposite the Quincy school, the smallness of the rooms makes it impossible to accommodate both the children and the grown people at the same time. The grander school children have, therefore, had to be restricted to the afternoon hours until 5.30. From 3.00 until 3.30 would therefore be a better time for adults to visit the branch, or during the evening hours, from 6.30 until 8.30.

Through the kindness of the firm of Branchfield & Martineau, delivery of charge, the Daily Ledger will be found upon the newspaper rack, the publishers having given a copy here as well as at the West Quincy reading room. Our thanks are due to all who are interested in helping make this a success for the Atlantic community as the others have been a notable one and so appreciated by the citizens of West Quincy.

Patrons of the library from the Norfolk Downs section are cordially invited to register or exchange their books at the Atlantic reading room and enjoy the magazines and daily papers. Beginning next week the delivery basket for this neighborhood will leave Mr. Moran's store on Wednesday instead of Thursday as hitherto, and return Thursday instead of Friday.

There is an exhibition in the art gallery of the Public Library a series of thirty-two Japanese color prints. Four of these color prints are genuine, the remainder are reprints. All those interested in this exhibition are cordially invited to visit the library and examine the collection.

TENNIS PARTY.

The Wollaston Tennis club opened its winter social season in Brasse hall, Thursday evening, with a Halloween party. To the music of Corey's orchestra a large number enjoyed the dancing and at intermission refreshments of doughnuts and cheese and apples were served. E. Tyler Brigham and E. F. DeNormandeau.

The committee has the following program in view for the winter: A dancing party on Nov. 29th, Leap year party on Dec. 31st, Shirt Waist party on Jan. 24th, dancing party on Feb. 21st and the annual masquerade on Mar. 22nd.

MORTGAGE BURNED.

A little wreath of smoke, a tiny blue flame and the mortgage for $1000 which has been hanging over the Town River yacht club for a year was destroyed and the club was free from debt. The interesting event took place Tuesday evening at the club home at the foot of Edison park. It was a two fold celebration, first the burning of the mortgage and lastly the presentation of the Mellen trophy and other prizes won by the club's boats, during its first season.

The club has over 100 members and its success indicated that all were present, as well as the 15 gentlemen whose names were posted on the bulletin board for membership and a few guests including Mayor Stone, the first Commodore of the club, Commodore Ira M. Whittemore of the Quincy yacht club, Commodore E. A. Bean of the Wollaston yacht club, Representative Walter F. Piper, Deputy Mayor Frank Front Comstock, William F. Crane, Councilman Stephen L. Devaney and others.

The evening started off with an appetizing supper consisting of cold scalloped oysters, potato salad, rolls, coffee, pie and various kinds. Before starting in with the good things to eat however, Commodore Thompson B. Crane, who presided called upon Mayor Stone the first Commodore of the club.

His Honor said he was greatly pleased to be present and perform the most pleasing duty which he had been called upon to do since he became Mayor. A little over a year ago he said a few gentlemen met at different houses and talked of forming a yacht club. Then the number began to grow and the idea of a club was formed. Then the number began to grow and the idea of a club was formed.

After supper addresses were also made by Elijah P. Barrows, Commodore Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht Club, Representative Piper, Mrs. Carolyn Mellen, Allan McGeechie, Commodore E. L. Bean of the Wollaston Yacht club, Dock Commissioner Crane and Councilman Devaney. Music by the Town River quartette was interspersed.

Following this came a selection by the Town River quartette, composed of Richard Green, A. Gregory, George O'Donnell, and D. M. Baker who sang "Moonlight Bay." While they were singing the outer door opened and a lady walked in. It was Mrs. Carolyn B. Mellen who came to present in person the trophy donated by her to the club.

In accepting the cup and blue pennant which the club presented with it, Mr. McGeechie said that it was a great pleasure to him to receive the cup from Mrs. Mellen. He felt that the cup of the club had been a success for the past season and would be more so next season.

Commodore Crane presented the other trophies and winners as follows:

July 4th races. Class A. power boats, blue ribbon, to the Glads, owned by William Lynch. Class B. power boats to Starlight of William Kemp.

Sailing boats, to the Olive owned by J. Matherson.

The Commodore's pennant for the Labor Day race for small sail boats was awarded to the Fritth owned by William Kolvig.

The cup for the speed boat race was awarded to the Carolyn, owned by J. R. Mellen.

STORY OF HINGHAM.

Rev. Louis C. Cornish, pastor of the First Parish Church at Hingham lectured before about 100 members of the Quincy Historical Society at the First Church here Wednesday evening. He was introduced by Brooks Adams.

Mr. Cornish reviewed the reasons why the Puritans left England and said that it was not solely for religious purposes but that the authority of the king was a great and he so often found that the people objected to his ruling without the aid of a parliament and came to America in quest of a new home, where freedom would prevail.

He pointed out the law which made it possible to prosecute a man for having an opinion even though it was unpopular. He showed the location of Hingham, England, on an old map and gave a short description of the town. He then touched on Hingham, Norfolk County and in speaking of the earlier conditions told of the arrival of Rev. Peter Hobart, the first minister of the church, who spread the gospel and aid in the bettering of the community.

A stirring recital of Peter Hobart's ride from Hingham to Quincy to install Rev. Mr. Flint, the first pastor of the First church, touched his hearers.

He also gave a description of the Campanile which is about completed at Hingham, built under his direction, and described the 11 bells and their inscriptions. He also read a list of names of Hingham's early settlers and among them were one of President John Adams.

He exhibited a number of photographs which were of material value in helping his audience to more fully remember the details of his description.

TO MAKE HENS LAY.

Poultrymen everywhere have come to know that something more than good food and proper housing is needed to make hens lay to their full capacity, just as good food and housing are needed to make men lay to their full capacity. Just as good food and housing are needed to make men lay to their full capacity, just as good food and housing are needed to make men lay to their full capacity.

Decorations of Halloween significance abounded. Suspended from the ceiling were several huge paper counterfeits of pumpkin faces while around the hall were witch and black cat ornaments.

The entertainment committee had charge of the affair: G. F. West, Roy C. Baker, George E. Brown, E. Tyler Brigham and E. F. DeNormandeau.

The committee has the following program in view for the winter: A dancing party on Nov. 29th, Leap year party on Dec. 31st, Shirt Waist party on Jan. 24th, dancing party on Feb. 21st and the annual masquerade on Mar. 22nd.

CANDIDATE BIRD HERE.

Charles Sumner Bird, the Progressive party candidate for governor received a royal welcome on his second visit to Quincy Thursday night. He was escorted to Alpha hall by about 200 men carrying red fire and American flags.

The hall was packed to the doors with men and women and Mr. Bird was given one of the biggest receptions a candidate ever received in Quincy. There was enthusiasm within and without the hall. Prior to opening the meeting, a band played in front of the hall while another paraded the streets, as well as the big motor truck, which was framed in and across the side appeared many Progressive suggestions.

City Square was a blaze of red light, as the marchers moved to and fro.

Many transparencies were called. One said, "We stand for the Square Deal for the American Consumer." Another, "My Country 'Tis of Thee is greater than the G. O. P." Others appealed to the workmen to stand for their own interests.

He was introduced by State Commissioner John H. Johnson and throughout his short address was frequently interrupted by applause. Among the audience in the latter part of the evening was Hon. William T. Shea who is a Democrat, and at the invitation of the chairman Ex-Mayor Shea delivered a few pleasant remarks on the situation.

A resolution to be sent to Governor Foss urging him to call a special session of the legislature was unanimously passed. A letter of regret was read from Arthur Huddell who could not attend because the machine was spending money to beat him for office in Chelsea, according to the chairman's explanation.

Other speakers were Dr. Wood Hutchinson of New York, Lester P. Winchenbaugh, Dr. Herbert McIntosh, John Evans, James P. Roberts and Col. Henry L. Kincaid.

REVIEW BY MAYOR.

With the largest attendance in its history and Mayor Stone as the leading speaker the Men's club of the Park and Downs church observed its opening meeting and ladies' night, Tuesday evening.

Music and songs together with remarks from Councilman Murray and Bailey made up an evening of unusual interest.

A straw vote for Presidential preference taken among the men resulted as follows:

Roosevelt 52
Taft 10
Wilson 10
The women's vote stood:

Roosevelt 83
Wilson 4
Messrs. Watis, Robinson and Cochran were appointed a civic legislative committee to keep in touch with the city council and report back to the club. The committee was also instructed to do all in its power to prevent the further erection of "three decks" in Wollaston. About 175 sat down to an excellent repast served by the ladies.

At the head table were Mayor Eugene R. Stone, Rev. William B. Ayers, President MacMullin, Dr. J. A. Zwickler, William Kershaw, Lieutenant James D. Wilson, Mr. Watts, Walter H. Cobb, J. Harry Hooper, Frank C. Blake, Alonzo Bissett, and Frank Knowlton.

During the meal the church orchestra, Miss Henrietta C. Gram, Miss Emily Bjorkman, Miss Louise Stephens, Ernest Pletsch and Charles A. Richardson, rendered selections.

Readings "The Jiners" and "Signing the pledge" by Mrs. Fred B. Robinson were loudly applauded as were "Goodbye Street Day" and "Come to Me," solos by Arthur F. Capen.

SCOTT-HICKS.

Miss Grace Darling Hicks, daughter of Silas C. Hicks, 22 Robertson street and George B. Scott of 6 Ballou street were married Wednesday evening by Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum of the First Baptist church, East Milton. Miss Annie B. Scott of Braintree was the bridesmaid and the best man was Ainslie U. Hicks of Quincy.

The bride was given away by her father, Silas C. Hicks, dressed in white and with tall trimmings over white satin, wore a pearl ornament and pink rose buds in her hair and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was dressed in light blue voile over blue messaline and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

As the bride party entered the parlor, Miss Belva Hamilton played the Mendelssohn wedding march. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of autumn leaves and white chrysanthemums.

Following the marriage there was a reception and they were assisted in the parlor by Mrs. Scott and Ainslie U. Hicks. Guests were present from surrounding cities and towns.

After a wedding trip to New York and Washington they will reside at 6 Ballou street. The bride is a former teacher at a Gloucester business college.

THOMAS-BENNETT.

The many friends of Miss Mary Veronica Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Bennett of O'Connell avenue were surprised to learn of her marriage to Raymond Joseph Thomas of Boston, on October 21. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry T. Grady at the parish house of the St. Mary's church.

The bride was attended by Miss May Quinn of Charlestown and the best man was Frederick McGuire of Somerville. The marriage was witnessed only by the immediate family.

The news of Miss Bennett's marriage was a great surprise to West Quincy people, and up to about two days before the ceremony her parents knew nothing of it. It was the bride's purpose to keep it secret. She is a popular West Quincy girl and has been a telephone operator on the Fort Hill exchange for about two years. They will reside in Boston.

ROSS-RYAN.

City Clerk, Emery L. Crane, assisted by his assistant Miss Rita Lyons again officiated in the role of proxy of knots and witness, Thursday afternoon when he performed the marriage ceremony for Miss Edith Gertrude Ryan of 21 Chestnut street and Angelo Ross of 50 Revere road. The knot was tied about 5.30. Tuesday the couple appeared at the office for an intention and desired to be married immediately. After a conference with Judge Ayer he said he considered it a case of exigency and gave the necessary permission.

FAIR AND SUPPER.

The annual fair and supper of the Women's Guild of St. Christopher's church Thursday afternoon and evening in the rectory and parish rooms was a successful affair preparations for which have been going on for many weeks.

At the entrance tickets were sold by Mrs. David L. Jewell. The decorations of Japanese Cherry blossoms in the rectory attracted attention and were credit to the Junior Auxiliary who made them for the Guild.

The Remembrance table presided over by Mrs. Herbert H. Albee and Mrs. Albert N. Murray was an attractive feature. The table was covered with a white cloth and every corner was covered with a variety of articles of hand work for which were given in Quincy.

The baby booth was in charge of Mrs. Frank E. Cleveland, Mrs. Percy L. Davidson, Mrs. George D. Rundlett, Mrs. Horace W. Richmond and Mrs. Frederick H. Steenstra. The baby booth was in charge of Mrs. Frank E. Cleveland, Mrs. Percy L. Davidson, Mrs. George D. Rundlett, Mrs. Horace W. Richmond and Mrs. Frederick H. Steenstra.

The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. George M. Campbell, Miss Eleanor S. Roberts and Miss A. Maud Briggs. The home made candy booth was in charge of Mrs. George M. Campbell, Miss Eleanor S. Roberts and Miss A. Maud Briggs.

At the miscellaneous table were Mrs. John H. Landry, Mrs. George E. Allen, Mrs. J. Lewis Ellis, Mrs. George P. Parker, Mrs. William H. Spooner and Mrs. Frederick S. Waite and here all kinds of useful articles as well as canned fruits, jellies and cake were sold.

Mrs. J. Kneeland Ellis, assisted by Mrs. James W. Hallett and Mrs. Morgan were in charge of the children's amusements and the mysterious grubs.

Sydney J. Smith and Miss Jean Hopkins presided over a table at which delicious punch was served. Mrs. Eleazer F. Drew, assisted by Miss Edith Atkins and Miss Irene Colman served ice cream and cake.

An excellent supper was served from 8 to 8 o'clock in the Parish rooms which were prettily decorated with autumn colorings. The menu was chicken patties, scalloped potatoes, cold ham, rolls, mashed potatoes, salad, home made pies, and coffee.

The supper was in charge of Mrs. Daniel C. Miller and an able corps of assistants including Mrs. George H. Bennett, Mrs. Vernon S. Brooks, Mr. Howard D. Fowler, Mrs. Alfred J. Fox, Mrs. Charles J. Hennigan, Mrs. David Hansen, Mrs. Edward F. Parlee and Mrs. John E. Walters.

The waitresses were Mrs. Frederick L. Bent, Mrs. Ralph P. Currier, Mrs. George B. Curran, Mrs. W. A. Crocker, Mrs. Edwin Coleman, Mrs. Woodford Ketchum, Mrs. Charles T. Kelley, Mrs. Ellis M. McCar, Mrs. Gertrude Allen, Miss Elizabeth Cook and Miss Adelaide Nichols.

TO HELP GRADUATES.

A talk was given before the boys of the High School Wednesday morning by Superintendent A. L. Barbour, on the general matter of choice of vocation and what the different vocations have to offer. The school authorities are planning an employment agency at the High school which will operate to help the graduate and the boy who leaves school at any time, into the right kind of position and that will have a tendency to keep the boy and the school in close touch after the boy has left school as well as while they are still in attendance. One specific aim will be to keep the bright capable boy from getting into the "blind alley" job that leads nowhere and to call attention to the skilled employments where the prospects of advancement and happiness are more sure.

The school will endeavor to conduct this work with such care that the employees of the city, mercantile and industrial will turn to it for assistance whenever in need of employees. It is believed that activity in this direction by the High school will be an agency for much good.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

A very enjoyable Halloween party was held at the Universalist church Wednesday evening by the Murray club. The church and rectory were prettily decorated with Halloween symbols and looked very attractive. Various Halloween games were played by the young people. One of the features of the evening was the spook parade. Miss Harriet Lombard and Miss Edith Hyland costumed as ghosts directed about the maze of chairs, vestry and other rooms in the vestry which had been darkened. The other young ladies of the club were gowned as witches and led by Miss Marion White they marched about the church and chapel. As they groped their way about in the dark the ghosts would suddenly appear causing a chill to run down the spine of some of the timid ones while others gave vent to hilarious screams.

The march of the spooks created a great deal of merriment. Following this as stated above there were various Halloween games and ice cream cake and candy was on sale.

WOLLASTON RALLY.

Selections from the Scriptures will be read by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany Congregational church, Quincy. Special musical numbers will be rendered by the church quartet.

The public is cordially invited to the afternoon and evening exercises.

WITCHES ABROAD.

Witches and ghosts carried on their weird spooking revels at the Halloween party given by the Gardner club Thursday evening. The parish house of the church was the scene of the party, which was well attended. The let forth their hollow moans and shrieking wails.

The guests of the club were met at the church yard entrance by three members of the Old Witches gathering and then escorted through the "Tomb of Darkness" and up the winding stairs of "Fate."

After taking this perilous journey those present were led through the Witches Arch and into the exquisitely decorated hall. The Goblin's March then took place while the "Chief Goblin" played his enchanting music.

The Goblin's March was followed by numerous Halloween games such as "riding in the witches basket," "the hunt," "marshmallow race," "thread the needle," apple bobbing, etc.

The games were intermingled with several dances around the witches' dancing and when the evening was handed out from a large shimmering kettle.

The Parish House was decorated with autumn foliage, cats, pumpkins, black and orange paper, while all of the lights were covered with Jack-o'-lanterns. The two replicas burned brightly throughout the evening.

Refreshments were served by William Richards, Roy Westland, Walter Halvosa and Alfred Smith.

The committee consisted of Weston Pratt, Philip Halvosa, Jr., Russell Westland, Ellis Young and Henry Boutlier.

The party came to a close at 11 o'clock after all present congratulated the committee of arrangements for a very pleasant evening.

WELCOMING TEN PARTY.

The latch string was out at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Crane, Presidents hall, Wednesday night, the occasion being a Halloween party given under the auspices of the Wollaston Ten Party.

The house was fantastically decorated in appropriate Halloween fashion with funny pumpkin faces peeping out from behind withered cornstalks.

At a late hour refreshments were served in the form of brown bread sandwiches, doughnuts, red apples and cider.

The lady's souvenir was a droll bisque figure won by Mrs. Theodore D. Plissie and the man's prize, a comical Halloween souvenir, went to Wallace Road.

The affair was arranged by the Entertainment committee of the D. A. R. The study of tableaux was presented, "Uncle Sam," "Tat," "Wilson" and "Marshall" "Roosevelt and Third Term Bride, Best Man and Maid of Honor" "These tableaux caused much merriment and elicited much applause from the audience, especially the suffragette parade, which was recalled.

After a short intermission, the play, "When Women Vote," was presented by the following young ladies, Misses Esther Beckford, Esther Sidelinger, Mrs. S. B. Babian, Esther Wetherell and Marjorie Welch.

LADIES' NIGHT.

The first ladies' night of the Monticello Improvement Association was fittingly observed with speaking, feasting and song in the club house of the organization, Wednesday evening. Over 50 members being present.

President Edward F. Parlee opened the meeting with an address in which he spoke of the work of the Association in social matters concerning the city of Quincy.

Frederick J. Kessler, the secretary referred to the schoolhouse and the general work of the association's committees. He urged an increase of membership.

Frank Byrne of Wollaston, a past secretary of the organization, spoke along general lines regarding the association.

The last speaker was Ex-Councilman John Moir, an honorary member, who spoke in a happy vein of the earlier experience and organization of the association.

Between the speeches musical selections were rendered by Misses Ethel Dicey and Nettie Parlee on the piano and Miss Gladys Parlee on the violin. Vocal solos by Mr. Lovejoy accompanied by Mrs. Lovejoy were enjoyed.

Following the program a curtain at the end of the hall was pulled aside and a spread prepared by Edward Morgan, chair of the Wollaston Golf club, who also acts in that capacity for the association, was displayed.

The table was decorated with pink and candelabra and lobster salad, stuffed, cold, rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

A general good time was enjoyed until after midnight and the association quartette held forth with the now famous "Garten Haus" song of the society.

The affair was in charge of the entertainment committee consisting of Joseph McCabe, Frederick J. Kessler, Edward Sherman and Stephen D. Brown.

FOR MAYOR.

The opening of the annual fair of the Col. Abner B. Packard Camp 95, Sons of Veterans at Faxon hall Monday evening was preceded by a parade of the camp. The boys "fell in" opposite G. A. R. hall and marched through Quincy square, around Hancock block and escorted Division Secretary John Wiley of Melrose from the station to the hall.

In the line was Mayor Eugene R. Stone who carried in his auto Past Commander Francis P. Loud and Comrade James Pierce of Paul Reverse Post.

The fair was formally opened by Mayor Stone who spoke in a patriotic strain. Secretary Wiley also delivered a short address.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP FORUM.

The Department of Education of the Wollaston Unitarian church is rendering this community a great service in holding Good Citizenship meetings Sundays at 12 o'clock, immediately after the morning service of worship. These meetings are open not only to the members of that parish, but to all men and women, irrespective of theological or political creed, that are interested in the welfare of our city. The general topic this month is "What is the matter with Quincy?" and the speaker to-morrow is Councilman Charles W. Vose, Vice President of the Boylston National Bank, Boston.

HALLOWEEN FROLIC.

The Misses Hill of Newbury avenue entertained sixteen of their friends at a novel Halloween party Saturday evening. Although the event did not fall on the auspicious date, the goblins and ghosts were as much in evidence as on the fateful night. Each guest was ushered into the house by a ghostly figure through a dark subterranean passage, and all the witches and weird noises. Ghosts were also stationed in various parts of the house directing the guests by motion only, no words being spoken.

After all had assembled, the usual Halloween frolics were enjoyed. One of the unique features of the party was the luncheon hint. The guests matched for partners by lotteries and then each couple was presented with directions and hints, written in poetry as to where to find their lunch. When they found the right spot, they were confronted by another poem, sending them elsewhere. In this way the house and even out doors were obliged to go before being awarded.

Finally all re-assembled and the lunch was eaten in picnic style before a big open grate fire.

Other dainties were also served. Everyone voted the evening a most enjoyable one.

MAJORITY CAMPAIGN.

The political situation is assuming more than an amusing proportion and with the Progressive party in the place a full ticket in the field matters are all the more complicated. The question of securing a candidate for mayor is the bone of contention among the members of the Bull Moose and several candidates have been mentioned.

Col. Henry L. Kincadeo, who because of the splendid showing in the congressional fight states that he is not in the race. John L. Miller, treasurer of the Progressive party committee in this city has entered on independent papers and would probably accept the endorsement of the party.

George W. Able, Republican candidate is working up his campaign for the nomination.

A few weeks ago John L. Miller said that Mr. Able had promised to support him for mayor and that the name of the candidate was a complete surprise.

Mayor Stone has taken out papers, opened campaign headquarters and will conduct an aggressive campaign for the Republican nomination.

John H. Johnson, a member of the state committee and an active Bull Moose has been prominently connected with a rumor which may result in his entering the fight. Mr. Johnson gave out the following statement Thursday evening:

"I do not intend to solicit the nomination for mayor and the Progressive party ticket, and to this date I have done nothing which can be interpreted as having been in the interests of my candidacy. However, if the party as a whole, agree that I would make a good candidate, without any contest whatever, I would accept the nomination. I would not accept the nomination if it would be my duty to accept the post. Otherwise I am not giving the matter any serious thought as far as I myself am concerned."

James H. Pennington who is the democratic nominee is waiting a few days before starting his campaign and it is said that he will receive the solid support of the party.

Ever rumor says that another man will enter the race but no active signs have developed as yet.

A mass meeting of the Progressive party is to be held next Monday evening. It is probable that final action will be taken at this meeting relative to entering the municipal election. There are many members of the Progressive party who are opposed to entering municipal elections as the trend at the present time is the elimination of party designations in purely local affairs. In some of the wards however where the men seeking election are considered weak it is possible that the majority of the Progressives would favor opposing them by stronger men.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL SYSTEM.

According to Alvin E. Dodge, director of the North Bennett Street Industrial School of Boston, Quincy has made more progress in its work in the industrial school system during the past year than any other city in the state and that the report on the training which was prepared by the superintendent of schools and a committee of citizens was the best that had ever come to his notice.

This announcement at the Thursday evening meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' Association of the Quincy Industrial School, was followed by great applause. About 125 people were present and President Clarence Burgin presided.

Before Mr. Dodge spoke there was an entertainment, consisting of a dramatization of John Ruskin's "King of the Golden River," by the pupils of the sixth grade under the direction of Miss Elsie Turner. A piano duet by Mrs. George E. Pfaffman and Miss Gertrude King was well received and William P. Thomson rendered a vocal solo.

Refreshments were served by Miss Melie Marsh, assisted by a committee of parents.

All interested in Lighting Fixtures, for their homes and public buildings, should not fail to see the display of McKenney & Waterbury Co. 181 Franklin street, corner Congress, Boston, an exhibition of Lighting Fixtures, to meet all decorations, including the new Equilite, the softest and most delicate indirect light known.

Rev. W. W. Watson, D. D., will be installed as pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church on Tuesday evening, the service being held at 7:30 in the vestry of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Rogers, nee Mabel E. Miner of Wollaston, who were married October 1st, are now at home to their friends at 62 Pleasant street, Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Waldron, of Springfield, Vt., were guests a few days last week of Mrs. Waldron's cousin, Mrs. J. V. Deland, Suffolk street, Wollaston. This was the first visit to Quincy in 50 years.

Dr. Sneath is facing good sized audiences at the mid-week meetings on Thursday evenings at 7:45 in the vestry. Come and enjoy a bright, snappy evening service, overflowing with good music and socialization. The pastor's installation will occur on Tuesday, November 12th. The Council will meet at 7:30 P. M. and the installation services will be at 7:30. All are welcome to both services.

Councilman Charles W. Bailey will be speaker on "What's the matter with Quincy?" at the next meeting of the good citizenship forum to be held at 12 o'clock, Sunday noon in the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The first of a series of Wednesday evening dancing parties was held in the hall, Wednesday evening, at the Hohenhausen Tribe, 62, Independent Order of Red Men. Music was provided by Provost's orchestra and a large crowd participated.

Mayor Stone has been invited to speak at the Sunday citizen's meeting at the Wollaston Unitarian church, Sunday afternoon. His Honor said Thursday however that he did not believe that it was proper to use the churches for political meetings. Mayor Stone however said that his committee had offered to hire a hall in Wollaston for a public meeting for any evening except on a Sunday.

An interesting lecture was enjoyed in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church, Wednesday evening when Mrs. Ida Vose Woodbury spoke on "The heart of the undertakers." Mrs. Woodbury is field secretary of the American Missionary Association and her many personal experiences of the country related were much appreciated.

Many prominent citizens were included in the 100 invitations issued by the Samoset club of Wollaston for its "open house" party evening, when the new club quarters were formally thrown open.

An entertainment committee consisting of Harry G. Campbell, Albert Holey, Charles H. Hayward, Jr. and Max O. Pinkham had the affair in charge. The first of a series of dancing parties will be held in the hall on November 23. Ingle's orchestra will furnish the music.

A poverty ball will be held by the Wollaston yacht club at the club house November 21st, under direction of the entertainment committee. Prizes will be awarded for the most effective costumes.

Residences and buildings lighted by electricity in Wollaston were plunged into darkness shortly after 8:30 Thursday evening by a short circuit of the trunk line feeding that locality. The accident was caused by a huge tree limb, loosened by the high wind, which fell across the wires on Beach street near Hancock putting out all Wollaston house lights.

The granite product had a value of $21,391.875 in 1911, an increase over the preceding year, and Massachusetts took second place in the output of this splendid building material. Of this it did not sell over and a scald a few of the feeders.

ATLANTIC

The Seavers club held a business meeting at the home of Miss Eleanor Nelson, Atlantic street, Wednesday evening. Plans for the coming season were discussed.

The annual fair of Memorial church is to be held in the vestry, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings. Mrs. William F. Cummings is chairman.

Mrs. C. Stenzel of Botolph street returned Wednesday from New Jersey where she spent three months with her daughters, one of whom, Mrs. B. B. Witherspoon, returned with her.

Miss Myrtle Coombs of Billings street spent the week end with relatives in Lynn.

Miss Julia Barber of Webster street is visiting relatives in Rhode Island. Charles Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Parker of Ball River, formerly of Atlantic, has been elected president of his class at the grammar school.

Mrs. Charles Coe of Billings street left Thursday morning for Portland, Maine, where she will spend two weeks with relatives.

Everett A. Barber of Webster street left Thursday for a two weeks' business trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Titus of Providence were guests of Mrs. J. F. Davidson of Newbury avenue, over Sunday. Mrs. Davidson's mother, Mrs. J. F. Davidson, is at the Massachusetts General hospital for two weeks, has returned to her home on Sagamore street.

Members of the china table entertained those who took part in the two dramas "How the Story Grew," and "John McEwen," after tea at the home of Mr. Albert Hall, Faxon road, Monday evening. Miss Margaret Read rendered several piano solos.

The rest of the evening was spent in playing games. Refreshments were served. The plays in Quincy, for the most part, are of the highest quality. The Billiken club met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Julia Barber, Webster street. It being election night the members of the club cast their vote for president, and Colonel Roosevelt appeared to be the most successful candidate. The games were introduced by the hostess and enjoyed by all. A dainty and appetizing luncheon was served. At each place were original place cards. The party broke up at a late hour, after spending one of the loveliest evenings of the year.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Mary Parrell.

The Halloween party Thursday Oct. 31 at the home of Mrs. Henry Malloch, 2 Newbury avenue, Atlantic, was a very enjoyable affair. The young people met at Memorial church, where they were welcomed by the hostess and the young people enjoyed games and a lunch. Halloween sports were enjoyed and Miss Jordine Davidson told fortunes. The rooms were decorated with jack-o-lanterns and crepe paper. Black crepe paper portieres were hung.

Alfred Golencik of Botolph street, has a raspberry bush in his backyard, which still has some large berries on it.

John Carver of Roxbury and L. C. Litchfield, of New York, spent the week end with Mrs. E. E. Willey of Walker street.

Mr. and Mrs. Coyle S. Allan of Worcester, spent the week end with their mother, Mrs. Robert Harding of Botolph street.

Refreshments were served during the evening. Those present were: Louise Churchill, Eda Pratt, Clara VonEmden, Nettie Coombs, Beatrice Rogers, Bertha Fuller, Marion Wilson, Viola Jackson, Harold Sherwin, Paul Coombs, Eric Richardson and Verne Franklin.

QUINCY POINT

Mrs. Lucy M. Pray died at her home, 36 Wharf street, Sunday in her 81st year. The deceased is the widow of George B. Pray and was a long time resident of ward two. Funeral services will be held at the home on Wednesday afternoon.

Quincy Marine Draftsmen journeyed to Lynn Saturday where they defeated the Lynn Fosse team 3 to 0. There was considerable delay on the part of the Home team in getting the game started, and then they finally lined up it was seen that their President had taken post at Outside Right, a position which he filled creditably, in spite of his not being as young as he once was.

The Parents' and Teachers' Association of the Washington school held an enthusiastic meeting at the school Wednesday evening. There were 90 present and 33 new members joined the association. A slight change was made in the constitution relative to qualifications of members and there was an address by J. G. Spofford, Director of the Quincy Half-Town Industrial School.

The Shipbuilders, leaders of the Fore River bowing league and the Argentine Inspectors work two points each at the Coliseum alleys, Wednesday evening. A lead of 63 pins for the Inspectors on the first string was too great for the bowlers to overcome in the total.

WEST QUINCY

Daniel Fitzgerald and Patrick Tangey two of the West Quincy gentlemen for whom John Evans took out nomination papers Thursday of Independent Democratic candidates for Councilmen from Ward Four called the Ledger office this noon and denied emphatically that they were candidates. Mr. Fitzgerald further said that the use of his name had been without his authority and that under no condition would he become a candidate.

It was rumored about City Square Thursday night that ex-City Clerk, Charles J. McGilvray, was to take out nomination papers as an Independent Democratic candidate for Mayor.

The local political pot is commencing to boil at fever heat. Look out that it does not boil over and scald a few of the feeders.

The way people turned out to vote during the early part of Tuesday all over the state, is a direct argument against keeping the polls open any later than they are at present, although a few cities and towns kept them open until 8 o'clock in the evening.

The vote cast in Quincy, Tuesday, 5681, out of a total registration of 6188, or 85.5 per cent was a remarkable achievement on the part of the citizens as it denoted a high water mark in political activity which is a healthy sign of the times and the same degree of interest in the election was manifested in every part of the country as evidenced by the returns received.

Now that the campaign is over, the country can once more give its undivided attention to business and industry which promises to be an era of prosperity and business activity for some time. It is noticeable that this campaign has caused less depression in business than any that has taken place for many years. In fact, the people seem to have determined not to be frightened by politics as they have in the past, and it is very certain that while there will be some changes in the tariff there will certainly be no radical changes to disturb the existing satisfactory conditions of business.

THE MUNICIPAL CONTEST.

The threat of the Progressives to enter the municipal campaign, should not be accepted as any evidence that they desire to disrupt local affairs, or parties or other long established conditions, but as a desire to continue the party as a tangible organization of soundness and permanency. It is fully as much right to enter the municipal campaign as Republicans or Democrats, or so-called independents.

The vote of the party Tuesday indicates that it has a vast influence which can be exerted for good or evil in municipal or other elections. It is to be assumed that the party will endeavor to secure the confidence of the people as a whole by worthy performance. Any organization, political or otherwise, public spirited enough to take an interest in local affairs to the extent of trying to improve them should be welcomed. A purely office grabbing organization, with every hand out, and the spoils coming to those with the longest reach is to be deplored and given the set back it deserves. The Progressives are doing nothing for their prestige, by entering the municipal contest. In fact it seems as though they should continue, in city, state and national affairs and perform their political duty, now that they have been launched. Their entrance into municipal affairs will do no harm, might be productive of much good. Who can tell?

FRIDAY MORNING FIRE.

Shortly before 6:30 A. M. Friday an excited man came rushing into the central fire station and informed the firemen that there was a fire in the building at the corner of School and Franklin streets occupied on the first floor as a store by J. H. Gillis and on the upper floor as a tenement by S. K. Ellis.

While the firemen were at this fire an alarm was sounded from Box 34 at 6:35. This was for a slight fire in the house of Mrs. Winslow Hobart on Verchell street.

The four year old grandchild of Mrs. Hobart had crawled out of his crib and securing a match from his mother, had set fire to his clothing after which he crawled back into the crib. In a few minutes the room and house was full of smoke.

The child was rushed out of the room and the alarm sounded. The fire department was called and the fire was under control. It is considered remarkable that the child was not suffocated by the smoke. The loss in both fires was small.

RAIN HAD NO TERRORS.

Rain did not effect the success of the concert given by the choir of St. Chrysostom church in the parish rooms Thursday evening. Mrs. Geo. B. Curran was directress and there was good attendance. The following program was given:

Four Glee—"The Morning," "Dixie Kid," "Yachting" and "Spring Song." Church Choir.

Reading, Selected—Mrs. W. J. Walker. Songs, Selected—Mrs. W. H. Spooner. Duet, Mrs. Fred Waite and G. M. Campbell.

SYMPATHY FOR MAYOR.

Mayor Stone has the sympathy of his many friends in the serious illness of his daughter, Miss Edith Stone. The young lady was taken ill Saturday with diphtheria since which time Mayor Stone has been obliged to seek a home in the Greenleaf. Thursday the young lady had a bad turn, owing to her weak heart and two physicians were at her bedside all night. This morning she is reported as being a little more comfortable.

OPEN HOUSE.

Open house at the Y. M. C. A. brought a good crowd seeking early returns from the elections. A special wire ran into the building and returns were thrown upon a screen in the assembly hall, interspersed with pictures and announcements. Messrs. Ernest Osmond and Walter Vreeland gave a splendid entertainment consisting of readings, banjo solos, banjo duets and banjo and guitar duets. At eleven o'clock a feed was served consisting of frankfurts sandwiches, and coffee. During the evening the returns were being shown "Ed" Bullock presided at the piano in his usual popular manner. The gymnasium was also a centre of attraction and the gallery was well filled with spectators watching the men play basketball, volleyball, etc. During the evening the Y. M. C. A. and four hundred people accepted the invitation of the Association to partake of its hospitality.

THE ELECTION.

It was a land slide for the Democratic candidates, Woodrow Wilson, and Thomas Marshall of Indiana. Gov. Foss carried the state, by about 45,000 votes, about 37,000 more than last year.

The first time in 80 years a Democratic president carried the state. David I. Walsh, has the honor of being the first Democratic lieutenant governor to be elected.

In the 16 congressional districts of this state the elected Republican members while seven elect Democrats a gain for the Democrats.

The Bull Moose elected four members of the legislature, but even with this gain they did not encompass the defeat of enough Republican members of the legislature to deprive the party of control of both branches of the state legislature. The "Bull Moose" strength in the state was problematical, uncertain, but it is quite evident that it received its greatest corps of recruits from the Republican party and certainly showed great strength.

The manner in which President Taft left at the post is a striking indication, that many Republicans realizing he was fighting a hopeless cause, and fearful of the success of Col. Roosevelt and his new party deliberately voted to make sure of the election of a Democratic president.

As a National organization the Republican party is ripped free and aft. If the Progressives maintain their organization, likewise their balance, they are liable to oust the G. O. P., from its proud place of the first position in the two leading parties.

The "Bull Moose" strength in Quincy was undoubtedly a surprise to many. Yet it is strange that while one Progressive candidate Henry L. Kincaide was second in the Quincy returns, Senator elect John J. McDevitt, running on the Democratic ticket was a close third.

The defeat of Representative Roger Wolcott in his aspirations to the upper house was among the things which loomed above the horizon for a few days and the returns were hardly any surprise to those who had been watching the contest.

The returns from the various wards and precincts of the city were not rapid in coming in. Still there was a large and complicated ticket to handle and the precinct officers who made returns to City Hall, before midnight had no occasion to feel ashamed of their efforts.

There was one case however where it is said one ward decided he would not follow the usual custom at the request of the City clerk in counting the head of the ticket first but leave it to the last.

Of course the request of the city clerk, and the instructions from the Secretary of the state, to say nothing of the natural anxiety of the general public to receive the votes to get a line on the head of the ticket are of much importance. But they should receive some consideration. Undoubtedly they will in the future.

As the returns came in, it was quite evident that Roosevelt had carried the city, but how much was a matter of guess work for some time. When the Wilson returns showed they were driving President to third place in the race, the result was quite evident.

Col. Roosevelt received 2014 votes for President Taft.

But the surprises were not all confined to the National ticket. Charles S. Bird for Governor led Roosevelt by 87 votes. Gov. Foss with 1858, took second place, with 568 ahead of Walker who had 1255.

And so it was all down the line. Col. Kincaide for Congress swept the city, with 2264 votes, to 1533 for Gilmore and 1275 for Harris.

Guy Ham for Councilor had the handsome vote of 2510.

McDevitt for Senator led Wolcott in Quincy, by a vote of 2184 to 1532, a plurality of 652, while his plurality in the district is 963, having 5502 to 4539 for Wolcott, with Winchcomb trailing along with 3392.

M. T. Sullivan defeated Representative Walter E. Reper by 52 votes in the Fifth District.

William J. Leslie was re-elected over his opponent Charles J. McGilvray, by a plurality of 221. Coming up to present one, of ward 5, McGilvray led by one vote, but the 222 plurality in that precinct helped Leslie some and then some.

Dr. Bowker candidate to fill a vacancy on the board of county commissioners received a handsome endorsement in Quincy. On the constitution questions, Quincy registered a large majority in the affirmative, although there was a large number who refused to vote on the questions. The complete vote of the City for all the officers will be found on the last page.

THE TOTAL VOTE OF QUINCY.

The total vote of the City Tuesday with comparisons between that of the State vote in 1911 and in 1908 for President follows:

Ward Precinct	1908	1911	1912
One	1 468	438	503
Two	2 570	528	607
Three	1 298	255	279
Four	2 431	429	480
Five	1 488	488	534
Six	2 396	374	425
Seven	1 493	467	459
Eight	2 409	402	414
Nine	1 896	528	628
Ten	2 407	526	581
Eleven	1 459	384	444
Twelve	2 343	407	382
Totals	5048	5107	5681

There were 250 blank votes for President in 1908.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

One of the evening school courses for machinists that started as a course in blue print reading and drawing has been converted into a class in gear design. A large number were found enrolled among the machinists who already had a good working knowledge of blue prints and drawings and who were more interested in the design of gears and consequently the course was changed to reach their interests.

BOARD OF TRADE.

A large number of the members of the Quincy Board of Trade attended a meeting at their rooms Wednesday evening to hear a talk on freight rates by Wm. M. Chase of this city. The speaker has been identified with a transportation company for about 30 years and at the conclusion of his talk a number of the members asked questions. President C. C. Hearn presided at the meeting.

Mr. Chase explained what was meant by a differential rate and said that it was possible to ship from New England points west at the same rate as from New York, that Chicago was the keystone for western freight purposes and that Boston answered the same purpose for New England.

He said that while the railroad was not obliged to meet water rates, that it was possible they would do so, and that through the establishment of a public dock here Quincy would probably gain an advantage in rates.

He further said that the question involved many intricate points and that other boards of trades and chamber of commerce have had secured the views of a man who was an expert in tariff and interstate commerce law to look after their interests.

Mr. Chase said that he favored a full and sufficient investigation of rates from throughout Quincy and that he thought the Quincy men should be able to get a better rate on lumber, taken up and he said that he rather thought others could do the same, but that with a municipal dock it could be obtained easier.

He took up the subject of shipping granite and shoes, explaining the actual cost to the consumer, and mentioned other commodities. He said Boston enjoyed an export rate which was less than a rate to the west and that through it they were able to meet the New York shipping.

A general discussion followed Mr. Chase's statement and the closing of a general session was made by a definite nature being advanced by a number of the manufacturers interested.

The following communication sent to John S. Swingle from a New York firm was read because of its bearing on the shipping question from Quincy to New York.

John S. Swingle, Quincy, Mass.
Dear Sir:—Referring to your favor under date of Oct. 18, it was the undersigned who visited you in the winter of 1911 and made the statement that the rail freight to New York, in most instances, have eliminated Quincy granite, when specified by architect.

As an illustration: the rate from various islands along the coast of Maine, by water, runs from one dollar to one dollar and fifteen cents per ton, and it stands to reason that a water rate from Quincy should be less, if it were not for the fact that the services of a 400-500 ton schooner.

This possibly would give an opportunity to the granite manufacturers of New York to use a great deal of your port pile which is not only worthless to you but costs money for you to handle.

In preparing the freight rate from Maine with your rail rate on rough stock here, you can readily understand that there is a difference of from 15 to 20 cents per cubic foot, a difference on the freight rate alone.

ABELE RALLY.

A rally in the interests of the candidacy of George Abele for Mayor was held in Poland hall, Norfolk Downs, Wednesday evening, October 30, at 8 o'clock. The President of the Council, John A. Hobbs presided, and in his opening remarks read what the Ledger's statements of Mayor Stone in November and December of 1907, with regard to conditions at that time. He claimed that the contention of the Mayor, that Council had handicapped him was not a fact but that the Mayor had handicapped the Council.

Irving L. Shaw, said that the way to stem a tide of extravagance and incompetence was to elect honest and capable city officials. He read from the testimony of the Mayor and auditor before the special legislative committee on finances, to show that they did not agree in their statements. Councilman Murray likewise criticized conditions at city hall. He claimed the Mayor had vetoed progressive measures. Councilman Cunningham related the story of the Mayor's budget. He said that the assessors did not do their duty. He wanted the assessors to increase the tax of a certain citizen which they refused to do.

CENTURY MAGAZINE.

The Century magazine, whose new year began with the November number, promises a large number of attractive features for 1913. For one among the features of general interest will be the "After-the-War" series, made up of articles on various points of American progress during the last fifty years and written by famous American Editors, including Col. Henry Patterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal, Gen. Harrison Grey Otis of the Los Angeles Times, Melville E. Stone of the Associated Press, Charles R. Miller, Charles A. Conant, Arthur Holman, William Jennings Bryan and others who have been participants in stirring events of national interest. This series is in many particulars a secret history of a half century of American life.

The new serial will be by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, and all who have read "The Shuttle" and "Little Lord Fauntleroy" will take keen interest in this new international story whose hero begins as a New Englander and becomes an English peer. Robert Hichens, the novelist, and Jules Guerin, the illustrator, will contribute a new travel series on the now embattled region "From the Adriatic to the Bosphorus." Several sparkling articles on "The Unmarried Woman" will be among the Century features of interest to women, and there will also be articles on woman's progress generally as well as a further discussion of "The Fraternity Idea among College Women." As usual the Century will contain many stories by well known writers of short fiction, among them Owen Johnson, Edith Phillips, Ruth McEnery Stuart, Lucy Furman and Ellis Parker Butler.

A certain Boston office seer is entitled to a mention as having predicted that the legislature of Massachusetts would be the legislature.

MASSONIC ANNUAL.

The annual reports of Rural lodge A. F. and A. M., at the annual communication Thursday evening were most gratifying to the members, as there had been an unusual increase in the membership. A large increase on the general fund, a gain in the permanent fund, and the lodge has several thousand dollars in its charity fund.

Bro. Joseph L. Whitton attended the meeting and presented the lodge with the bequest of his father, $100, which was added to the permanent fund to be known as the Joseph L. Whitton fund.

The election of officers was unanimous, there being only one or two changes. Rt. Wor. Walter S. Pinkham, district deputy grand master, was present, and with Wor. Bro. Charles and the occasion was a happy and merry one. Among the present was State Deputy Louis A. Watson and State Warden John S. Quinn. During the evening the retiring Grand Knight Edward D. Barrett was presented with a diamond ring by Grand Knight-elect Michael T. Walsh. The presentation was made amidst great applause.

A supper was served by Burlington Martin and greatly enjoyed by visiting members from other councils. An entertainment provided for the amusement of those present was a fine success. Among those who took part were Frank Driscoll, John H. Lally of Boston, Fred McDonald, Dennis Sweeney, Eugene F. O'Connor, Cornelius Reardon of James Hayes Council of Boston.

The following appointive officers were announced: Inquisitor, Frank J. Duffy; Judge, Joseph H. Elcock; and organist, T. Byron Brown.

The installation was by District Deputy Joseph A. Foley and suite. In making the presentation of the diamond ring to the retiring grand knight, Grand Knight Walsh said that it was with a feeling of pleasure that he was able to assist at such an occasion, that the expression of satisfaction of the members could testify to the friendship they had for Mr. Barrett and said that the ring was only the outward expression of a friendship which would probably endure at all times.

Grand Knight Barrett accepted the token and said that while he held the office he did not let any opportunity go by that would be of benefit to the society or to its members, that he had seen 42 new members added to the organization since he took office and that most of them were insurance members. He thanked his associates most heartily for the gift and said that his loyalty to the past would be as strong in the future and closed by congratulating Grand Knight Walsh on the successful start of his term and personal support at any and all times.

State Deputy Quinn said that he had been watching the progress of the Quincy Council and urged a continuation of its success, and State Warden Quinn paid a high tribute to its membership.

The list of the officers for the ensuing year: Grand Knight—Michael T. Walsh. Deputy Grand Knight—William A. Carey. Chancellor—Marcus P. Mahon. Financial Secretary—Richard A. Cole.

Recording Secretary—John T. Cain. Treasurer—Michael T. Sullivan. Warden—Thomas Griffin. Advocate—John E. Lynch. Inside Guard—James C. Grant. Outside Guard—John J. Fallon. Trustee for three years—John J. Hagan.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE.

Charles W. Johnson was scheduled to give his illustrative lecture on Washington, the great American at the Parents and teachers Association of the Massachusetts Fields' school in the evening. An account of the lecture was given by the stereopticon of commission early and the program was necessarily shortened. When the lights went out a couple of discarded oil lamps were secured for service.

The program opened with a stirring solo, "The last of the old guard" by A. H. Charles Bishop with Miss Henrietta C. Gram as accompanist. As a prelude to the lecture "Marching through Georgia" was sung by a sextette of girls from the eighth grade. They were present as guests, the regulars of the school followed by a chorus. The salute to the flag was also given. The six girls were: Eleanor Stuart, Lillian Jones, Velma Haskins, Ruth Decker, Lucy Shay and Isabelle Eaton. During the song war pictures were thrown on the screen.

Mr. Johnson then gave his lecture with a brief digression on some of the early settlers, including John Smith, Roger Williams and William Penn. A picture of Washington and a view of his birthplace had been displayed when the light trouble occurred. During the wait which followed two solos "Storyland" and "Let me dream" were sung by Mr. Bishop. The meeting closed with the singing of "America."

Toward the close of the meeting, one of the neighbors, thinking the school must be in complete darkness, entered with a lighted lamp and received a hearty round of applause.

RECORDING SECRETARY—JOHN T. CAIN.

Treasurer—Michael T. Sullivan. Warden—Thomas Griffin. Advocate—John E. Lynch. Inside Guard—James C. Grant. Outside Guard—John J. Fallon. Trustee for three years—John J. Hagan.

Delegate to Boston Chapter for 5 years—John W. Lynch. Inquisitor—Frank J. Duffy. Lecturer—Joseph H. Elcock. Organist—T. Byron Brown.

THE QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Women's club on Tuesday afternoon at the club house promises to be of unusual interest with the following program: Mrs. Albert E. Avery will report the conference at Templeton; Miss Beane, Grace, will report the musical program and the speaker of the afternoon under the auspices of the Education and Home Economics committees, will be Miss Frances Nevins who will give "The Piper." There will also be an exhibition of baskets and a social hour.

The club of Boston and the home of Mrs. Walter F. Jones, 78 Winthrop avenue when Mrs. J. G. Dunning will present the charter to the chapter.

Mrs. Otho A. Hayward of Coddington street will be the hostess for the meeting of the Friday club on Nov. 15, and Mrs. Theodore Hardwick committee on program with the "Plays of Aeschylus" as the subject.

Nov. 13 Wollaston Alliance is to meet at one o'clock in the Unitarian church. The speaker will be one of the most successful in the parliamentary law which meets the first Tuesday of the month in the morning at 10:30 and the third Tuesday in the afternoon at 2:30. The current events class is another which is well attended, the literature class at the home of members. The classes which meet for active work such as dressmaking, millinery, basketing, stenciling, etc. are also well underway.

Roxana Schenkelberger, entertained the members of the Kathryn Crane Memorial club Wednesday at her home on Goffe street. Dornpart were Frank Driscoll, John H. Lally of Boston, Fred McDonald, Dennis Sweeney, Eugene F. O'Connor, Cornelius Reardon of James Hayes Council of Boston.

The following appointive officers were announced: Inquisitor, Frank J. Duffy; Judge, Joseph H. Elcock; and organist, T. Byron Brown.

The installation was by District Deputy Joseph A. Foley and suite. In making the presentation of the diamond ring to the retiring grand knight, Grand Knight Walsh said that it was with a feeling of pleasure that he was able to assist at such an occasion, that the expression of satisfaction of the members could testify to the friendship they had for Mr. Barrett and said that the ring was only the outward expression of a friendship which would probably endure at all times.

Grand Knight Barrett accepted the token and said that while he held the office he did not let any opportunity go by that would be of benefit to the society or to its members, that he had seen 42 new members added to the organization since he took office and that most of them were insurance members. He thanked his associates most heartily for the gift and said that his loyalty to the past would be as strong in the future and closed by congratulating Grand Knight Walsh on the successful start of his term and personal support at any and all times.

and thus opened the season of that organization. Miss Mary H. Ladd, Mrs. Frank K. Nash, Mrs. Horace Mann Willard of Quincy and Mrs. Trueworthy White of Arlington, the club officers, assisted in welcoming the guests who were presented by Mrs. Walter H. Bent, Mrs. F. H. Potter, Mrs. George H. Bent, Mrs. F. H. Potter, Mrs. C. D. Black, Mrs. T. M. Strong, Mrs. C. P. Washburn, Mrs. Walter H. Woods, Mrs. Albert M. Parker, Mrs. Leo Lewis and Mrs. Frank H. Hill, Mrs. E. W. Sheppard, Mrs. J. Hill, Mrs. George W. Sprague, Mrs. Frederick Lawton, Mrs. Lillian Folger, Miss Ada Hersey and Miss Clara Hersey presided at the refreshment tables. There was music by an orchestra of young women.

THANKSGIVING.

Abbie E. Judd.

The grain is garnered in,
The apples ripe are stored,
The yellow pumpkins gleam among,
The farmer's treasure hoard.

The earth is brown and bare,
That once was green and gay;
Where regal Autumn charmed the eye
Dead leaves bestrew the way.

Though clouds be dark overhead,
With wind and unshed rain,
The good that once has crowned the earth
Will make it bloom again.

Then let us thank our God
For spring-time soft and fair—
For April rain and May-day sun
And June's delicious air.

For July showers and heat,
For dreary August haze,
For cool September purple fields,
For glad October's days.

For dull November shades,
And barns with harvest filled,
We thank Thee, Lord, who richly blest,
The land Thy servants tilled.

The year to come is Thine,
Thou knowest what will be;
And rain and dew, and wind and sun,
As seemeth best to Thee.

CUBBY.
Cubby had quite a time getting in on account of the crowd. The crowd had congregated to see the Prince and Princess who were about to visit the works which were turning out locomotives for their Government.

The timekeeper, fresh from the barber, was in his best suit, with a rose in his buttonhole. All the hands were drawn up except Cubby.

"You haven't got any sense," the timekeeper told him. "I've a good mind to send you home, coming here today in your old rag."

Cubby flushed. He did not like to confess that the clothes he had on were all that he owned, and went over to the tally-board which recorded the entrances and exits of the men, as was a part of his daily duties. The timekeeper followed him.

"See here," he said, fixing the rose more firmly in his coat, "you don't look fit for decent people to see; suppose you go out to the box-room and stay there till this visit is over."

"But," objected Cubby, "I won't see the Prince and Princess if I go there."

"Go on," frowned the timekeeper. "Who wants you to see them? Go on."

Of course he had to be obeyed, and Cubby went across the yard to the frame shed where were piled up boxes in which certain parts of the locomotives were shipped to foreign lands.

He sat down on a box and felt pretty badly for being denied the privilege of seeing the exalted personages. He was very young and his ideas of princes and princesses were largely derived from the story-books his father had given him in better times, before the death of his mother.

He tremulously gorgeous men and women in remarkable costumes, in which gold and jewels had a share. Though he felt insecure about this, too; for he often read the papers and what he learned from them told him that people in these days were not unlike ordinary mortals.

And yet the story-books influenced him, and for a week since he had heard of the proposed visit of the Prince and Princess, he had been elated at the prospect of seeing them; for a week he had spoken of little else to his father in their room on the top of Mrs. Gray's house, and his father just from the hospital, and still suffering from the effects of his accident and rather gloomy over the future, had listened and made no comment.

And now he was not to see the great people! And all on account of his clothes! He looked down at his coat sleeve. The patch he had put on it was pretty bad, but it had been the best he could do. As for new clothes, how could he get them on three dollars a week and his father to look after it? It was as much as he could do to make sure of food and pay Mrs. Gray for the garret without thinking of clothes.

Listen! The crowd outside the works was laughing, and there were two men and women getting past the gate into the yard. And there was the timekeeper after them, pushing them out and losing the rose from his buttonhole in consequence.

There came a yell of derision as the gate slammed in the faces of the gathered people. The timekeeper red in face came past the shed. He glanced in and saw Cubby.

"You stay where you are," he said, "and watch that gate. If I catch you outside that box-room you're bonned."

Bounced! That meant no situation and the end of the three dollars a week. Cubby went deeper into the shed. The timekeeper came back. "Here, you," he said, "have I got any dust on my back? If I have, brush it off."

Cubby brushed it off, and the man went away.

Cubby strained his ears to listen. He thought it possible the Prince and Princess would arrive amid a cavalcade of horsemen; for all he knew cannons would be fired, and a band of music play "God Save the King." He heard only the evidences of the merry people outside. He thought it must be wonderful to be a prince or a princess and have gold in your pocket and eat chicken every day. If you felt so inclined, the doctor at the hospital had told his father that chicken would be good for him while he needed nourishment, and he couldn't get around easily on his crutches, and as it was difficult to afford it, he had an idea that chicken was the food of royalty. And oh, to see the Prince and Princess!

Look! If there wasn't the gate going down. In came the people, men and women, the foremost thrust in by those back of them, some thrown to the ground, others pressing in by the place of advantage where the expected guests might be viewed at ease. The timekeeper? There he was

CUBBY.
Cubby had quite a time getting in on account of the crowd. The crowd had congregated to see the Prince and Princess who were about to visit the works which were turning out locomotives for their Government.

The timekeeper, fresh from the barber, was in his best suit, with a rose in his buttonhole. All the hands were drawn up except Cubby.

"You haven't got any sense," the timekeeper told him. "I've a good mind to send you home, coming here today in your old rag."

Cubby flushed. He did not like to confess that the clothes he had on were all that he owned, and went over to the tally-board which recorded the entrances and exits of the men, as was a part of his daily duties. The timekeeper followed him.

"See here," he said, fixing the rose more firmly in his coat, "you don't look fit for decent people to see; suppose you go out to the box-room and stay there till this visit is over."

"But," objected Cubby, "I won't see the Prince and Princess if I go there."

"Go on," frowned the timekeeper. "Who wants you to see them? Go on."

Of course he had to be obeyed, and Cubby went across the yard to the frame shed where were piled up boxes in which certain parts of the locomotives were shipped to foreign lands.

He sat down on a box and felt pretty badly for being denied the privilege of seeing the exalted personages. He was very young and his ideas of princes and princesses were largely derived from the story-books his father had given him in better times, before the death of his mother.

He tremulously gorgeous men and women in remarkable costumes, in which gold and jewels had a share. Though he felt insecure about this, too; for he often read the papers and what he learned from them told him that people in these days were not unlike ordinary mortals.

And yet the story-books influenced him, and for a week since he had heard of the proposed visit of the Prince and Princess, he had been elated at the prospect of seeing them; for a week he had spoken of little else to his father in their room on the top of Mrs. Gray's house, and his father just from the hospital, and still suffering from the effects of his accident and rather gloomy over the future, had listened and made no comment.

And now he was not to see the great people! And all on account of his clothes! He looked down at his coat sleeve. The patch he had put on it was pretty bad, but it had been the best he could do. As for new clothes, how could he get them on three dollars a week and his father to look after it? It was as much as he could do to make sure of food and pay Mrs. Gray for the garret without thinking of clothes.

Listen! The crowd outside the works was laughing, and there were two men and women getting past the gate into the yard. And there was the timekeeper after them, pushing them out and losing the rose from his buttonhole in consequence.

There came a yell of derision as the gate slammed in the faces of the gathered people. The timekeeper red in face came past the shed. He glanced in and saw Cubby.

"You stay where you are," he said, "and watch that gate. If I catch you outside that box-room you're bonned."

Bounced! That meant no situation and the end of the three dollars a week. Cubby went deeper into the shed. The timekeeper came back. "Here, you," he said, "have I got any dust on my back? If I have, brush it off."

Cubby brushed it off, and the man went away.

Cubby strained his ears to listen. He thought it possible the Prince and Princess would arrive amid a cavalcade of horsemen; for all he knew cannons would be fired, and a band of music play "God Save the King." He heard only the evidences of the merry people outside. He thought it must be wonderful to be a prince or a princess and have gold in your pocket and eat chicken every day. If you felt so inclined, the doctor at the hospital had told his father that chicken would be good for him while he needed nourishment, and he couldn't get around easily on his crutches, and as it was difficult to afford it, he had an idea that chicken was the food of royalty. And oh, to see the Prince and Princess!

Look! If there wasn't the gate going down. In came the people, men and women, the foremost thrust in by those back of them, some thrown to the ground, others pressing in by the place of advantage where the expected guests might be viewed at ease. The timekeeper? There he was

THANKSGIVING.

Abbie E. Judd.

The grain is garnered in,
The apples ripe are stored,
The yellow pumpkins gleam among,
The farmer's treasure hoard.

The earth is brown and bare,
That once was green and gay;
Where regal Autumn charmed the eye
Dead leaves bestrew the way.

Though clouds be dark overhead,
With wind and unshed rain,
The good that once has crowned the earth
Will make it bloom again.

Then let us thank our God
For spring-time soft and fair—
For April rain and May-day sun
And June's delicious air.

For July showers and heat,
For dreary August haze,
For cool September purple fields,
For glad October's days.

For dull November shades,
And barns with harvest filled,
We thank Thee, Lord, who richly blest,
The land Thy servants tilled.

The year to come is Thine,
Thou knowest what will be;
And rain and dew, and wind and sun,
As seemeth best to Thee.

THANKSGIVING DINNERS.

The Associated Charities is making an effort to prevent duplication in the giving of Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. They have sent to heads of various organizations, whose names have been suggested to the secretary, a copy of the following letter which explains itself.

"We understand that there has been in previous years, in Quincy, at the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons, considerable duplication in relief, some families receiving more than they should, and some, in consequence not receiving any. This year we hope to avoid this, and it is our desire to think that we can do so. We ask you to send us a list of those families you expect to remember at these seasons, especially at Thanksgiving, and we will compare with our other lists and tell you how many are being looked after by someone else, doing nothing further, unless you request us to do so. You will readily see the advantage of this plan. And, also, if you have names of families suggested to you for aid at these times, whom you do not know well, or whom, for any reason, you would like a call made to, determine whether it is wise or desirable to aid we will be glad to have the call made and report to you without delay."

Any individual, societies, or others interested are cordially invited to use the Associated Charities office in the way suggested. The office will be in her office daily 11 to 1 P. M. and can be reached by telephone Quincy 1181, or inquiry may be made by letter to 148 Goff street, all information required will be promptly forwarded and considered strictly confidential.

PASTOR INSTALLED.

Before a large representative audience from Wollaston and neighboring churches Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath Ph. D. was installed as pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church, Tuesday evening.

Professor E. Hershey Sneath, L. L. D., of New Haven, Conn., brother of the pastor preached the sermon. The charge to the pastor was given by Rev. George L. Cady of Dorchester, the right hand of fellowship by Rev. Thomas W. Davison of Atlantic and the charge to the people by Rev. Edward Abbott Chase of Beverly, former pastor of the church.

The invocation was by Rev. George H. Flint of Dorchester, scripture selections by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Quincy and the prayer of installation by Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy.

The ecclesiastical council composed of the 24 churches in the Suffolk South Congregational association convened at 3.30 and elected Rev. Arthur Little, D. D. of Dorchester as moderator and Peter Carr of Roxbury as scribe.

Delegates were present from nearly all churches in the association including Dorchester, Jamaica Plain, Norwood, Westwood, Hyde Park, Roslindale, Franklin, the Quincy churches, etc.

Charles F. West, clerk of the church read the records regarding the calling of Dr. Sneath to Wollaston.

In his statement of faith and Christian experience the pastor-elect declared, the chief mission and business of the church today lay in the making of character.

At the close of his paper Dr. Sneath was questioned on a wide range of subjects by the ministers and delegates present after which the council went into private session.

At six o'clock a banquet was served in the vestry to visiting ministers and delegates by a committee headed by Mrs. A. A. Lincoln.

The services of installation opened at 7.15 with an organ voluntary "March in B flat" by Walter C. Rogers of the church organist.

Peter Carr, the scribe, announced the findings of the council and an anthem "Prepare ye the way of the Lord" was sung by the church quartette, Mrs. Clyde B. Long, Miss Ruth Hardy, Roy A. Spooner and Mr. Everett.

The invocation was offered by Rev. George H. Flint of Dorchester and an anthem "John XIV" was read as the scripture selection by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Quincy.

A congregational hymn "O Master, let me walk with Thee" was followed by the sermon of installation by Professor E. Hershey Sneath of Yale, brother of the pastor.

"Some encouragements in Christian work" was the subject taken by Professor Sneath and his sermon was one of inspiration and hope.

A solo "Judge me, O God" by Buck was sung by Mr. Everett. Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy offered a sincere and heartfelt prayer of installation.

In his charge to the pastor, Rev. George L. Cady of Dorchester urged upon Dr. Sneath the character of Elijah, the relentless rebuker of sin; that of Jeremiah the comforter and of John the Baptist the seer.

"The world," he said, "is filled with parrots but prophets never flatter the markets of the world." He flattered the pastor to be a doer of things even though mistakes were made.

"The man who never makes mistakes," said Dr. Cady, "is keeping books for the man who does." In extending the right hand of fellowship Rev. Thomas W. Davison, of Atlantic referred to Dr. Sneath as the successor of a line of able and scholarly pastors. He tendered the new pastor a delicate compliment in a couple of humorous anecdotes related.

Two scores of the choir sang by Miss Hardy and Mrs. Long.

Rev. Edward Abbott Chase of Beverly former pastor of the church in his charge to the people urged upon his audience three things.

First to stay by Jesus Christ through thick and thin "Then to stay by one another and lastly remember that Jesus Christ would stand by them. His words were of deep Christian earnestness and made a deep impression on the congregation.

Following a hymn, "We bid thee welcome in the name of Jesus" the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Sneath and an organ postlude played by Mr. Rogers.

HOUGHS NECK

Mayor Stone was the guest Wednesday evening of the Houghs Neck Associates at their regular meeting. The affair was in no sense a political one although Mayor Stone in his remarks spoke at length of the financial condition of the city, his remarks being a resume of what he said at different rallies during the recent primary campaign.

The members of the association were mild in their requests. First several residents of Rock Island spoke of the necessity of a street of some kind to Rock Island, not only that children might go to school without danger to themselves, also that in case of a fire that the apparatus could reach the island without travelling over a long out of the way route. They also urged the passage of the order for the widening and building of Sea street, which is now pending before the City Council. The only other thing they requested was a few more street lights.

Before the meeting closed Capt. O. G. Fosdick, representing the merchants along the lower part of Sea street, spoke at length of the thanks of the merchants for having the street filled with dust prevention during the past season. Several others in the audience voiced the same sentiment.

THE RECOUNT.

A recount of the votes for Representative from the Fifth Norfolk district was held by the Registrars of Voters, Saturday night in the Council chamber. Representatives of several of the candidates were present to watch the recount which was finished shortly after 9 o'clock.

There were but few changes. Representative Piper made a slight gain, but Michael T. Sullivan also made gains, the gains of Mr. Sullivan being the gains of Mr. Piper, so that the result of the recount was that Mr. Sullivan made a net gain of three votes. This makes his plurality over Representative Piper 55 instead of 52.

AUTO CHASING.

The new auto chasings for the Atlantic station which has been expected for some days arrived at the central station Friday having been run over the road from Boston. It will probably be out on commission in a few days.

The auto was sent through the City Square at a pretty good speed, and attracted much attention. It was the subject of much favorable comment all along the line.

ATLANTIC

The annual fair in Memorial church this week had the usual success with the ladies of that church generally having. The proceeds netted over 650 and a few tables expected to turn in considerable more at the ladies' meeting next week. On account of the weather the ladies have been reported to have a sale in December to dispose of the things left over, and also add to their fund.

Jesse Raynor of Atlantic street has resigned from the Lawley Boat Co., and with Mrs. Raynor sailed Saturday for England where they intend to visit for a year.

Miss Maud Reed of Squantum street spent a few days this week with her companion Mrs. Coyle Allan in Worcester.

Mrs. Charles R. Coe is still visiting friends in Portland, Maine.

Some Atlantic coast ladies have been taken in recently by magazine and book peddlers who claimed they were representatives of Memorial church and that the proceeds of their goods would go for the benefit of the church.

Miss Ida Marie Rogers who played the part of Smanth in Quincy Adams Sawyer last week in Boston was the week end guest of her former classmate, Mrs. L. J. Hayford of East Squantum street.

Mrs. B. B. Wertheimer, who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stenzel, has returned to her home in New Jersey. She was appointed up to date builder. What disposition will be made of the Thatcher school buildings is unknown.

On and after Nov. 14 the afternoon carriers delivery of the East Milton postal station will be made starting at two o'clock instead of three o'clock. An additional collection will be made at 9 P. M.

A gain of three votes for Representative elect John J. Gallagher in Milton at a recount made his showing equal to that of last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Egan of Bryant avenue are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Tuesday.

Mrs. George Choate of Martin place is rapidly recovering from injuries received by falling from the late train at the East Milton station as she was returning to her home after attending the wedding of her son at Revere, November 5.

Roland Preithy of Granite avenue has recovered from slight injuries received by falling from a tree a short time ago.

The ladies of St. Catherine's Guild held a successful rummage sale at Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon.

Quincy A. A. and Cunninghamham at Merrymont Park Thanksgiving morning offered an attractive morning's sport.

Capt. Joseph Reims' shoulder is strong enough for him to shoulder the game.

The gym basket ball season opens November 25, when Port Banks try out the floor. It was decided at a recent meeting to play independent basket ball and not affiliate with the South Shore League.

Robert Crocker of the J. J. Hamers Co. will attend the Rexall convention at the Hotel Brunswick, Boston, on Thursday.

And after all the splurging Boston is not liable to get the Grand Turk railway.

The Phillips see visions of freedom in the election of Gov. Wilson to the Presidency. They are now enjoying more freedom and prosperity than ever in the history of the islands. They should learn a lesson from Cuba.

The stepladder has arrived. Now if one would create a way to dispense with the jar and noise and flat wheels the public cup of happiness would be full to overflowing.

It would be a queer coincidence if Quincy at its municipal election in December should electing a democrat to its highest office. With a republican mayor up for re-nomination; a candidate by the new party the progressive and a democratic candidate in the field it promises to be a lively and interesting contest.

THE HOSPITAL FUND.

When the campaign which was started to raise the $35,000 for the Quincy City hospital closed, without reaching the goal, the disappointment on the part of the part of the campaigners, over their failure, but there was no note of despair sounded. The cry was ever "onward" and optimism ruled the day. Every one felt sure that the amount could be raised. There was ample field for operation and the campaign committee got busy and made it a point to see every one possible.

Then came the announcement, if the public made up about $2000, a citizen stood ready to contribute $5000 to make up the required $35,000. This was to be done by Wednesday night of last week. The response was prompt and generous. The entire amount was raised within the time specified and the total of $35,000 is now or at least will be at the disposal of the hospital trustees when needed. Every one is glad of this condition. It means that the annual movement in behalf of the hospital will not be necessary. It has placed the trustees in a position which they have not known before and every one is happy and satisfied over the result and no one but feels that the hospital is worthy the support which the public has given it.

BUSINESS MEN'S BANQUET.

The winter campaign of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. festivities and profitable campaign was successfully launched Wednesday night, by the annual business men's dinner, which was attended by about 80 of the solid men of the city, who were highly pleased at the fine entertainment provided and listened to an able address by President L. H. Murlin of the Boston University likewise a brief resume of Y. M. C. A. work and effort in America by the President, Richard D. Chase, Col. Edward Anderson was toastmaster of the evening and brought to that position all his vast experience as a soldier and preacher of the gospel and his stories to punctuate the various points he made were of a character to keep every one in good humor. That the gathering was a success and a step towards development of similar affairs is foreboded by the enthusiasm and gratification of every one who attended.

Prior to the banquet which was held in gymnasium hall, a large reception in the parlor, and a glad hand demonstration in the corridor and other apartments which offered every one an opportunity to get better acquainted and completed an atmosphere of social fellowship which was a strong feature of the affair.

The hostess and her assistants rendered an appreciative program of popular airs during the reception hour and performed similar service at the banquet, to which every one attested their appreciation by generous applause of each number.

On reparing to the banquet hall, a brief prayer was offered by Rev. Paul Hallin and then for quite an hour undivided attention was paid to the fine feast which had been provided by the ladies. Of this very important detail, Mrs. A. H. Gilson was chairman of the committee, comprising Mrs. N. B. McQuay, Mrs. F. F. Hodgkinson, Mrs. F. C. Gilbert, Mrs. Joseph A. Sedgwick, Mrs. Sidney S. Baker, Mrs. E. E. Smith, Mrs. C. A. Grage, Mrs. S. B. Wiley, Mrs. Alexander Clark, Mrs. A. F. Bromley, Mrs. F. E. Rice, Mrs. J. F. Roache, Mrs. L. F. LaRose, Mrs. E. J. Beale, Miss Sadie Wiley, and Miss Ava Elton and they were assisted in serving by Misses Marion Tirrell, Elizabeth Scouler, Esther Bickford and Ethel Beal.

When the wants of the inner man were satisfied, Edward Southward called the assembly to order and presented Col. Edward Anderson as toastmaster.

The first speaker was Richard D. Chase, president of the association, who among other things said this gathering reminded him of one seven years ago, in 1905 on the occasion of the opening of this building. For many years, the association had been enjoying the fruits of the workers, and under the guidance of Mr. Bromley and his able and vigorous assistants it was continuing along its successful journey. The object was always success. It was not always of the first kind, but the aim was never lost sight of. There are 41,000 associations in America, with investments representing $67,000,000. There were seven or eight new buildings dedicated in 1912, which represented several millions of dollars invested. Quincy Y. M. C. A. advocated and taught a spirit of patriotism and righteousness.

President L. H. Murlin of Boston University was then introduced and delivered a most interesting address. At the close of Mr. Murlin's address Col. Anderson told a few good stories of army life and then many adjourned to the bowling alley, where a lively hour was passed.

The affair was a complete success and those who attended are looking forward with eagerness to a repetition.

DR. WELLINGTON RECORD.

The funeral of the dearly beloved Dr. Wellington Record, dean of Wollaston Baptist church, Wednesday afternoon, gathering of sincere mourners filled the auditorium and many were obliged to stand through the services.

Prominent men of the community, city and school officials, local clergy-men, were all numbered among the gathering and a delegation of over 15 physicians from the Medical Association of which the deceased was a member were present, as were representatives from the Masonic order, the Odd Fellows and the A. O. U. W.

The floral tributes were remarkable for their profusion and beauty and filled the front of the church. Noticeable among them was a large spray of deep red roses from the class of 1877 of Amherst, of which he was a member.

During the funeral services all of the stores in Wollaston were closed as a mark of respect.

The exercises opened with an organ prelude by Miss Knox of Cambridge, after which "Eternal Goodness" was sung by the Wollaston quartet, E. E. Bullock, E. F. Webster, H. Y. Follett and G. E. McGowan.

The pastor read comforting scriptures from the Psalms and the quartette sang "Sometime we'll understand."

Rev. Joseph Walther took his text from Job XXIII, 10 and 11: "But he knoweth the way I take; When he has tried me I shall come forth as gold. My foot hath held his steps, I have not fallen and he has not declined."

Concerning Dr. Record the pastor said: "His departure is sincerely and universally mourned. In my four years of residence here no death has so stirred the entire community. This is because of its sudden nature, not because of its tragic features, not because he was an able physician and the longest settled in this section of the town. All these things are true but they do not fully account for his popularity. He is deeply and sincerely mourned because of his life."

"Doctor Record was more than a physician to a great many, he was an intimate friend and counselor. He was friendly, kind, sympathetic and interested in every good thing."

"He had a passion for his work. He regarded his calling as sacred. As the pastor relieves the spirit so he felt called to the ministry of humanity and the relief of suffering."

"He believed in social and benevolent orders and was a member of several. He believed in church and Sunday school and attended and assisted in every way possible. He was a member of several clubs whose object was the improvement of the mind. His place will be difficult, and with many impossible, to fill. He will be missed in his home, missed at his office, missed on the streets, missed in the homes of the people and in the church and his noble class of which he was a member."

"On this basis Doctor Record lived well, for his deeds thoughts and feelings were of the noblest."

"In the Koran this statement is made, when a man dies, who survives him ask 'What property has he left behind him?' The angel who bends over the dying man asks 'What good deeds has he left behind him?' It is true of Doctor Record that he has left behind him many good deeds."

"The Scripture tells us 'Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord for they rest from their labors and their works do follow them. Among those blessed are the laborers of the great God.'"

"Horace in one of his odes says this: 'I have executed a monument more lasting than brass, more sublime than the regal elevation of the pyramids, which neither the wasting shore, the unavailing north wind nor the unchangeable succession of years and the flight of seasons shall be able to demolish.'"

"This is what Doctor Record has done because of his interest in suffering humanity."

A prayer was offered by the pastor. "Abide with me" was sung by the quartette and the benediction followed. An organ postlude was played while the remains were viewed.

The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. No service was held at the grave. Preceding the exercises at the church a short prayer service was held at the former home of the deceased. Contralto solos will be rendered by the family and immediate relatives.

METHODIST ANNIVERSARY.

The 40th anniversary of Methodist preaching in Wollaston will be observed next week by the Wollaston Methodist church.

The exercises will open Sunday morning at the usual hour with a service by the pastor, Rev. Wesley Higgins. In the evening at 7 o'clock Rev. L. J. Birney D. D. dean of the Theological school of Boston University will preach.

Tuesday evening will be Epworth League night and at the meeting at 7:45 the president Clarence P. Cassidy will preside. An address on "The Sacrificial Life" will be delivered by Rev. W. M. Crawford of Somerville. Allen Painter will be the soloist.

Wednesday evening will be Mens club night with the president, Eric H. Ewertz in the chair. It will be ladies night and a young mens quartet and mens chorals will sing.

Thursday evening will be Sunday School night with Superintendent Jos. A. Sedgwick presiding. Rev. G. B. Dean of West Somerville will speak on "A Great Opportunity."

Friday evening will be Ladies Aid night and a banquet will be served at 7 o'clock. Contralto solos will be contributed by Mrs. Samuel Scholes and violin solos by Lee Brooks. A quartette, Miss Margaret Louise Holbrook, Miss Florence Bennett, F. A. Sutermeister and Allen Painter will sing. Mrs. George Crothers president of the Ladies Aid will preside.

PROGRESSIVE CAUCUS.

The good old town meeting days with their wisdom corners were recalled vividly to mind Thursday evening at the caucus or mass meeting in the Council Chamber, City Hall of the Progressive, sometimes called the Bull Moose party. The highest number to vote on any one ballot was 79 but there were scores of others present however, who had evidently not been enrolled, but who had come to see what took place. A large sign in front of the speakers desk gave the information that none but enrolled members of the party could vote.

While the second ballot for Mayor was in progress and insinuations of a frame up, had been made, one man raised the point that it was understood that a man was to be stationed at the door and that none who had not enrolled were to be allowed present. Chairman Whitton however said that the call invited everybody in sympathy with the movement to attend and the motion was ruled out of order.

Joseph L. Whitton presided and he proved the right man in the right place for his rulings were impartial and by his good judgment he frequently prevented a rough house. Motions came thick and fast and it was difficult to decide between what was in order and what was not.

The meeting was called to order a few minutes past 8 o'clock and the first business was to listen to the report of the committee on the platform. John H. Johnson of the state committee reported.

The platform was adopted without discussion.

The committee on Councilmen at Large was then called upon for its report. Before they had an opportunity to report however John Evans arose and declared that he wanted it understood that any man nominated will accept, and if not to let us know, "We want no withdrawal."

William E. Hingston for the committee reported the following list of names: Joseph L. Whitton, Horace W. Richmond, Charles M. Bryant, John H. Johnson, Charles L. Griswold.

To this list the committee of Lamb of West Quincy added the name of Benjamin F. Earle.

The question of a candidate for Mayor then came up and a suggestion that the caucus endorse Mayor Stone raised a cry of protest and his administration was attacked.

This brought John H. Johnson to his feet who warmly defended the administration of Mayor Stone. The Progressives were the dominant party. A copy of the platform had been submitted to Mayor Stone, and he read his reply which stated that he was in full sympathy with it and it would be several days before he would be able to carry it out. Continuing Mr. Johnson stated that Mayor Stone was on the level and all he asked was justice.

It was voted that the Australian ballot be used and that a majority vote rule.

After several ballots and an spirited contest the fourth ballot resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes	72
Necessary for choice	37
Eugene R. Stone had	18
John L. Miller had	53
Blanks	1
Mr. Miller was declared the nominee.

On motion of John Evans the vote was made unanimous.

Mr. Miller in accepting the nomination said that it was very gratifying to him. If elected he would try to do the business of the city as he believed business should be run. He would spend two hours a day to the business of the city but all day. He would arrive at conclusions before he jumped. He believed that business of the city should be done as any business house would conduct private business.

COUNCILMEN AT LARGE.

It was then voted to proceed to the election of councilmen at large and it was also voted that the five receiving the highest vote be declared nominated.

The result of the ballot was as follows:

Charles L. Griswold had	51
Joseph L. Whitton had	47
Horace W. Richmond had	44
Benjamin F. Earle had	41
Charles M. Bryant had	37
John H. Johnson had	33
Messrs Griswold, Whitton, Richmond, Earle and Bryant were declared nominated.

The chairman announced that nomination papers were ready and he hoped that everybody would sign before they left.

On motion it was voted to endorse the name of Dr. E. H. Bushnell for School Committee at Large and John D. Mackay for School Committee from Ward One.

At 10:15 the caucus adjourned and a half hour was spent in signing nomination papers.

WARD COUNCILMEN.

The matter of ward councilmen is in the hands of the several ward committees who select their own candidates. Up to the present time the candidates for ward councilmen decided upon is as follows:

Ward One—Charles A. Ericson, Robert A. Hardwick, Joseph W. Johnson, Ward Two—Albert G. Coffin, Jr., William Prime.

Ward Four—Stephen B. Little, John Vogel.

Ward Five—Charles L. Gilliat, Russell T. Anthony, Charles W. Bailey.

REBEKAH FAIR.

The first day of the George L. Gill Rebekah Lodge fair opened at Odd Fellows Hall, Adams Building, Thursday, with a large attendance.

ATLANTIC FAIR.

The annual fair of Memorial church opened Tuesday evening. The church was very prettily decorated with pink chrysanthemums, in green baskets hung on the walls. Chrysanthemums were prominent everywhere and the attendants at the tables wore pink ones in their hair. Even the tickets were pink with the same flower printed on them and the words, "At the sign of the chrysanthemum." There was a large sign decorated with pink chrysanthemums, painted by Miss Elsie Whall.

The fancy table was in charge of Mrs. Charles R. Safford, assisted by Mrs. David Hamilton, Mrs. John Fuller, Mrs. Josiah Fuller and the following: Mrs. David Hamilton, Mrs. John Fuller, Mrs. Josiah Fuller, Mrs. Edna Hanson, Mrs. Clara Lester, Dorothy Buckley, Laura Pratt, Augusta Mack Mahon, Bertha Fuller, Viola Jackson, Marion Gurney and Helina La Tour.

The twenty-first anniversary of the Bennington Fortnightly club was celebrated on Saturday last with a banquet, held in the vestry of the Second Congregational church. The president of the Vermont State Federation of Women's Clubs was the guest of honor and among the speakers was Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell, formerly of Quincy, who responded to the toast, "Our New Members." The Fortnightly is the second largest club in the Vermont Federation, having nearly four hundred members.

The Charitable Ten's Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Frank S. Davis at 25 Elm street on Monday Nov. 18th at 3 P. M.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

An attractive program brought out a large attendance Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse. Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard president was in the chair and conducted the routine business and welcomed the members. She said "The coming year seems full of promise for our club, much good being accomplished. All seem very much interested. All seem very much in earnest. We know that the club's influence for good is felt in many parts of our city and we are anxious to be even more helpful. An eminent educator said recently when the history of the last two hundred years comes to be written, that the whole period of the last hundred years that will be the most significant, the most far reaching will be the movement known as the Woman's Club Movement."

"If this be true we are making history fast these days and may we continue to do our best as the days go by. The usual reports were given by the club officers and chairman of committees."

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith of the Philanthropic committee announced that at the meeting of the Philanthropic committee to be held at the clubhouse Nov. at 3 o'clock, there will be several talks on the subject of the club officers and chairman of committees."

from the Y. M. C. A. of New Bedford and illustrated his address with stereoscopic views, taken personally among the foreign children of his city. The pictures brought forcibly to the hearts of those present the great need and helpful means needed to develop the "Little Men and Women of the Underworld" into Christian men and women and honest upright citizens for the future of our nation.

ABIGAIL PHILLIPS CHAPTER.

The November meeting of the Abigail Phillips Chapter, D. A. R. of Wollaston, was held at the home of Mrs. Kimball. The regent, Mrs. E. E. Jameson presided. There was little business to come before the chapter. Arrangements were perfected for the event of Friday evening of this week. At the business session its charter from the hands of Mrs. Dunning, the state regent, Mrs. Damon called attention to the sale of handkerchiefs and neck wear to be held Dec. 6.

Alternates were chosen for the conference to be held in King's Chapel, Boston, Nov. 22 and 23. Those appointed were Mesdames S. Clifton Crocker, A. S. Paige, W. S. Sayward and T. C. Martin.

The chapter was glad to welcome Mrs. Wood, a visitor from the chapter in Machias, Maine, who told of her experiences in becoming a D. A. R.

The paper of the afternoon, "The Little Men and Women of the Underworld," was read by Mrs. Broughton. She spoke of the two governors whose homes were in Milton, Gov. Belcher, Gov. Hutchinson, Gov. Hancock and Gov. Wolcott. We learned that Milton was the site of the first mill, the first powder mill, the first chocolate was manufactured in Milton and the first piano. Here also was made the first wooden leg and here was built the first railroad. The paper was a mine of interest and information.

Mrs. Katharine Kimball played selections on the piano and a group of young ladies from the Wollaston school, to the accompaniment of Mrs. F. A. Page, sang songs. The music was in charge of Mrs. Royal Turner.

Mrs. Clara Bancroft Beatty of Boston delivered an interesting talk on "Our boys and girls in the home."

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Anti Tuberculosis society was held Tuesday evening at the office of the president, Henry M. Faxon on Granite street.

The report of the treasurer showed that the cost per patient per day at the Mt. Pleasant camp was $1.38, and the approximate expense of the camp for the year had been $3,800.

Mrs. N. S. Huntingdon reported that the camp had been full all the year and that during the summer time a tent had also been in use. This had been replaced by a shack given by William Deacon which was fully occupied. Dr. Huntingdon also spoke of the need of a larger and improved shack for women and girls for which $200 had already been subscribed.

In all 23 different patients had been cared for during the year, making 44 since the camp had been opened a little over two years ago.

CASTORIA

A BOY'S SOLILOQUY.

Alas no Thanksgiving at our house
Since daddy's gone away.
An' mamma says we mustn't fuss,
'Cause she can't find 'em.
For turkey an' the fixins' now—
Takes all that she can scrape.
She says, to buy 'em common things,
An' keep us kids in shape.

She said to me, "You don't mind,
dear,"
An' I smiled so nice an' kind,
That I just give her one big kiss.
An' said I didn't mind a bit.
But when I come back, sudden like She wasn't smiling. She Crying, though she tried to stop,
When I climbed on her knee.

I told her I'd take daddy's place.
An' mamma she said "Bless You dear," an' then she kissed me most.

A hundred times, I guess.
Of course a turkey's lot of fun.
An' nuts an' cakes are fine,
But I am thankful just to have A mamma dear, like mine.

NEWS OF INTEREST.

As he laid aside the batch of letters, Grandfather Hilditch sighed.

"Here, Janie, don't you want to read them?" he asked the young girl, who sat at his feet reading her own mail.

"The weekly book from the uncles and aunts? We are a methodical family, aren't we? Your children are faithful about these Monday letters, aren't they, grandpa? I know that every Sunday father reminds mother to write. He isn't much of a hand at letters, but he certainly wants you to hear from him—and mother has so much time."

She read them through, and then read them again.

There was one from her mother, hoping that Father Hilditch was quite well, and that Janet's visit of a week would not prove troublesome to him.
She concluded with the information that all were well, that the weather was unsettled in Atlanta, and that there was no news of interest.

There was a six line note from Uncle Sam, stating that it was raining in Jacksonville, and the mosquitoes still bad, but that all were well.
No other news of interest. Aunt Isabel wrote briefly that she was suffering from a cold, that they were having lovely weather in Asheville, and that nothing worth mention had transpired since her last.

Uncle Tom's letter was comprised within a very few typewritten sentences, hoping that his father was well and comfortable, and requesting to be notified at once should there be anything to the contrary. He added that his family was well, and taking advantage of the fine autumn weather to make a little cruise on their yacht.

There was nothing else worth telling except what father had already seen in the newspapers.

"Grandfather!" Janet sat up very straight, at a few moments of deep consideration. "I wonder what people think they mean when they say, 'No
news of interest?'"

"Eh?" He laid down the paper and regarded her over his glasses. "News you say, honey?"

"Yes, news. These letters seem to have so little in them."

"Oh, yes yes! Except for the dates they are pretty much the same every week, but I am so thankful to hear from the children, and to know that they think enough of me not to neglect to write on the appointed day. I have good children—and good grandchildren, too." He smiled at her. "I tell you, it pleased me mightily that my young lady granddaughter should come to the old place in the country in her rounds of visits, when the other places are all so gay and lively for young folks."

"I think it is lovely here," replied Janet, absently; and then, returning to the subject of the letters, "Do you write every week to the others, as you do to us at home?"

"Oh, yes, indeed!" said grandfather; and then he proceeded to look over the death notices in his paper.

Janet sat with folded hands, trying to remember just what was in those thin letters that came weekly to her home, in their ready-stamped envelopes. It had been a good while since she had even taken the trouble to glance over one of them, and she knew how careless the others of the family were. On Tuesdays her father would sit at dinner, "Hear from father this morning?"

"Yes, he is quite well," her mother would answer. "There was nothing else of any importance." And yet Janet recalled that the homely epistles told of the thriving and garnering of crops on the old farm, or neighborhood happenings of the housekeepers tribulations with her feathered flocks, and of the outlook for the cattle and swine—little things, that made up so much of life to the lonely old man, who preferred the independence of his own vine and fig-tree to a place in his children's homes.

And these don't tell him a single thing," said Janet, indignantly to herself and wondered why. A mischievous twinkle crept beneath her lowered lids, after she had pondered awhile.
"Grandfather," she exclaimed, suddenly, "I am going to stay four weeks with you instead of one!"

"So? You think you can stand the country that long?" He put his hand softly on her head.

"I'll love it, if only you will let me feel that I am helping you."

"Helping me, little daughter? Why, of course. You shall do anything you like—you can drive me around the farm and read to me in the evenings."

"And I want to be your secretary, too. See how your hand shakes. Let me do all your writing—farm accounts and all."

"To be sure, to be sure."

"Well, then, this is your day to answer these letters. Tell me just what to say to them all."

Grandfather hesitated, and Janet looked away. She knew well that she was asking him to give up to her one of his greatest pleasures.

"Why, let them know that I am well, and tell the news about the place.

You know that as well as I do," he said, slowly.

Janet left him to his paper, and wrote four letters exactly alike, informing the second generation of Hil-ditches that their father was in his accustomed health, that the weather was auspicious for the cane crop, and that there was no news of interest.

"And there isn't any of interest to them," she mused, cynically, as she sealed the letters, and then put them in the mail box beside the road.

It was not very easy at first to either of them, for Grandfather Hilditch was not accustomed to being assisted about everything he did, and Janet had to compel herself to discuss her own affairs with him; but as the days went by they gradually found common ground. Janet discovered that there was a certain fascination in driving through the fields, watching what changes a day and night had made there, and it was quite exciting to count over the big flock of turkeys every night to see that not one was missing. The bronze on their wings glowed and glowed.

"This is a pine mat year, honey," grandfather explained, when she remarked upon their beauty. "You know it falls only every second year, and it makes the finest turkey meat in the world. See those four great two-year-olds? I shall ship them to the children for Thanksgiving. I save the pick of the gobblers in each year's hatch to keep over. At two years old they are at their best."

"Where shall you go for Thanksgiving this week, grandpa?" Janet inquired.

"To Tommy's I reckon. You remember, I was at your father's last year."

Janet did remember. She had not thought of it at the time, but she now recalled that, although there was a holiday dinner, out of respect to the old time, her father had gone back to the office immediately afterward, her mother had entertained callers all the afternoon, and she had gone driving with a party of young people. How grandfather had put in the time she had not the remotest idea. At Uncle Tom's it would be actually the same way, for the Tom was the busiest of men, and his wife and daughters supplied a great amount of material for the society papers.

"Stay at home this time, grandfather, and you and I will have Thanksgiving all by ourselves, with maybe some of the neighbors," she cried, impulsively.

"All right, honey, all right!" he agreed, heartily, and she saw a sudden leap of brightness in his blue eyes.

The two began planning at once, and for the next fortnight there was no lack of common interest. Miss Lindy, the old housekeeper, entered warmly into the conversation. "But I won't say a word about it to them," thought Janet, the next Monday morning. So the letters which she wrote and mailed were the exact duplicates of those of the week before except that circumstances demanded a report of chilly weather. In one or two of those which came from the children she was more inquisitive as to where grandfather would spend Thanksgiving, so in her next communication Janet stated laconically that her grandfather had decided to stay at home.

"Something must surely be the matter with father," said Mrs. Isabel Hilditch, musingly, when she read her letter. "He hasn't spent a single holiday at home since mother died—fifteen years ago. I don't like these little notes of Janet's. She says father is well, but I don't believe it, for if he was he would be the writing. Himself! 'I'm going home!' She can't write a number of engagements and went at once."

"Spending Thanksgiving at home!
Why, that is queer!" mused Tom Hilditch. "I thought he was coming to use this time. There is something wrong, or he never would let Janet be attending to his correspondence this way."

He sighed, and she slipped into his pocket, and called up his brother Sam over the long-distance telephone.

"So you don't know that anything is wrong? Well, I am not taking any chances on it; I shall go tomorrow.
What? Meet me in Macon? Good. If he is all right, we can have a day of it together. If he isn't—Well, goodbye!"

At Janet's home there was consternation. "I don't know what on earth to think, Magnus," her mother said.
"Janet was to have spent Thanksgiving with Sam's daughters. She has written such provoking little notes, anyway, ever since she has been at the farm. Something must be the matter.
Sam's girls are giving a Thanksgiving ball for her, and yet—"

"Will you just pack a few things into a bag for me?" said Magnus Hilditch, abruptly. "Janet has already remained with father three weeks longer than she intended—she has written all his letters. The probability is that he has had an accident of some sort, and will not allow her to tell us. You know his independence, and his reluctance to give trouble. It is a particularly inopportune time for me to leave, but I must look after him."

Thanksgiving morning found Janet up bright and early. She and Miss Lindy had made the old home spick and span from roof to floor, and Janet's artistic fingers had decked the rooms with autumn foliage and fruits.

Strange to say Aunt Isabel had descended upon the household in the middle of the night. There had been no explanation, but she entered at once into the spirit of things, and tried her rich dress through room after room of her girlhood's home, as if with her father and niece she gave a last look to see that everything was ready for the coming of the neighbors.

Big oak trees burned in every room, in the open fireplaces, and the cherry flames were reflected upon the brick hearth and andirons, white washed in the old-fashioned way, that always re-mined Janet of snow and of frosted cane.

"They're a-comin' a-ready!" called Miss Lindy, and sure enough, down the road a team was kicking up the dust. The three went to the gate, expecting to greet some of the invited guests, but lo!

"The boys!" The boys!" shouted grandfather Hilditch, and three big-bearded men climbed down from the wagons.

The old man's voice broke as he welcomed them, and there was something that made the three sons and the daughter avoid each other's eyes, and look tenderly upon the old man and the young girl who stayed so close by his side. They went within, and gathered about the fireplace in
"mother's room," with its memories.

"How did it all happen to come?"
Mrs. Hilditch asked her brothers.

"Why, it seemed a spontaneous uprising of filial affection," responded Magnus Hilditch. "We all felt a little anxious about father—it isn't easy to telegraph ten miles from the railway —and when we found he was spending Thanksgiving at home, we just came.
And how about yourself?"

"Oh, I had missed his letters! I was sure he never would have allowed Janet to write for him if he was able to do it himself."

Grandfather looked deprecatingly down at Janet.

"Since it served to bring you home,
Isabel, I don't regret it," he said, "but I'll have to own up that I have probably missed the writing of those letters more than you have the receiving them. My little girl wanted to help me."

"Our little girl needs to take a course in correspondence," laughed Uncle Tom. "I never in all my days read such unsatisfactory letters—"

"Nor I!"

Janet could bear no more. Halflaughing, half-crying, she sprang up, and from the corner of the mantle she took down a budget of letters. The children's letters had always lain there from week to week.

"You needn't say a word—not one of you!" she cried. "I've taken my share in the correspondence. I have learned right here—from these very letters—that there isn't anything worth writing about except the weather, and the family health. I told you grandfather was well, and I told you the kind of weather."

She flew out of the room, and down to her key to help Lindy.

"She'll not misunderstand, either," she thought. "Father will give me a lecture, but I suspect that he will do his own writing after this, and the others won't dare not to do better.
But oh, they do love him—they do love my sweet old grandfather, even if they don't write to him as he wishes. He was a real live man, and that it was of interest to me, and I shouldn't wonder if it is to him, too!"—Southern Presbyterian.

CHARTER RECEIVED.

Mrs. Walter F. Jones of Wollaston, Founder and Ex-Regent of the Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter, D. A. R., opened her home, Friday, Nov. 15, to the Chapter, for the formal presentation of its charter. The house was tastefully decorated in the national colors.

After singing America, prayer was offered by the Chapter, which she called one of her babies. She told in a very familiar, interesting way of the founding of the D. A. R. Society, of Memorial Continental Hall, and of Mass. Contributions toward it, and called attention to the field of opportunity for patriotic work right at our doors—that is, in the mind of the newly arrived immigrants, especially the children, the love of this country, its flag, and its government. She then presented to Mrs.
Jones the charter of the Chapter.
Mrs. Jones accepted it in the name of the Chapter, and in turn gave it to the custody of Mrs. Jones, who is present Regent. As a souvenir of the occasion, Mrs. Jones, in behalf of the Chapter, presented to Mrs.
Dunning, a spoon suitably inscribed to add to the collection Mrs. Dunning is making.

Refreshments by Miss Grace Wells of Medford followed and songs by Miss Martin of W. Quincy, Miss Sayward, accompanist, enlivened the occasion.

During the evening, Mrs. Rand, Founder of Old Blake House Chapter of Dorchester, gave to the Chapter two books, one on the history of Dorchester, one on its places of historical interest.

An opportunity followed to personally meet Mrs. Dunning, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Waterhouse, Vice Regent, assisting the Regent in receiving.

An adjournment to the dining room followed, where daughters of the Chapter were present, serving.

The lecture in the course by Mrs.
Gurney under the auspices of the Chapter, which was to be given Dec.
5, is postponed to Jan. 16. The next lecture, therefore, will be Dec. 19.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

The Governor's Thanksgiving Day proclamation is as follows:

By his Excellency, Eugene N. Foss, A Proclamation for a Day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise.

By and with the advice and consent of the Council, I appoint Thursday, the 23rd of November, as a day of Thanksgiving and Praise.

Our Commonwealth is blessed with prosperity and plenty, and we have great cause for thanksgiving in that temporal blessings have been so richly bestowed upon us. It therefore behooves every one, in the thankful recognition of these gifts, to share with others; giving, as we have received.

The foundations of the Republic were laid in the conviction that Divine guidance was essential to its permanence and the fulfillment of its high destiny. We reaffirm this truth; and our people, now strong in the possession of self-government, may well return thanks to Almighty God for all that citizenship means in individual responsibility and collective power.

Thanksgiving Day, which is set apart for public and private praise, may also most fittingly be observed by renewing our individual efforts toward higher ideals of personal and civic responsibility, and by rendering thanks that there is a quickened public conscience as to our responsibility for the dependent, the defective and the so-called criminal classes.

Therefore, upon this day, let us meet in our accustomed places of worship reverently giving thanks to God, and seeking, in humility and faith, the pathway of duty.

G. A. R. INSPECTION.

The annual inspection of Paul J. Revere Post 85 G. A. R., was held Thursday evening. The inspecting officer being Col. William L. Gage of Post 87 South Braintree, who was accompanied by Commodore North, Belcher, Peterson, Gurney, Adjutant Curtis and others. Commander Jones and his adjutant from Randolph Post 110 and visiting comrades from Weymouth and Maine.

Asst. Inspector Gage complimented Commander Lound and the comrades upon the excellent condition of the post and the prompt manner with which the work of the evening was performed.

Speeches were made by nearly all the comrades present and Past Commander George L. Phillips was held for the first time since his illness and gave one of his old time recitations after which all enjoyed an excellent clam chowder and fixings prepared by Commodore Pierce, Pope, Dunbar and Bird.

THANKSGIVING APPEAL.

Overseer of the Poor James H. Elcock makes his annual appeal today to the philanthropic citizens of Quincy for contributions to assist in providing Thanksgiving dinners for the poor of the city. Under the will of the late C. C. Johnson the income of a bequest of $2,000 is used annually to provide Thanksgiving dinners for the poor of Quincy. The demands of late however have been so great that the $20 interest is not sufficient.

Overseer Elcock in his appeal says: "Thanksgiving is coming and the appeals to this department are many from the poor of our city to send them a basket on that day. Last year we delivered over ninety baskets, the size of the basket depending on the number of persons in the family, each basket containing a turkey or chicken, potatoes, celery, cranberries and turnip."

"December 24, 1887 Cotton Centre Johnson bequeathed to the Town of Quincy, two thousand dollars, the interest of which was to be used to supply turkeys to the worthy poor of Quincy. The interest amounts to eighty dollars and this sum is very inadequate owing to the growth of the city."

"I, therefore, appeal to your charity to make the poor people happy on Thanksgiving Day."

JAMES H. ELCOCK,

Overseer of the Poor.

FOREIGNERS ATTENDED FUNERAL.

The funeral of Michael Cuniff was held Friday morning from his late home 159 Liberty street. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. John's church. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Rev. Matthew McDonnell of Braintree, a cousin of the deceased was celebrant of the mass. Rev. John J. Casey was deacon. Rev. Fr. Sharkey, sub-deacon and Rev. John J. Coan was master of ceremonies.

Musical was by the regular choir assisted by Mrs. Mary Burns Kink and Miss Eva Rice, under the direction of organist John Mahon.

A large delegation of Quincy Court, 76, M. C. O. F., of which the deceased was a member attended the funeral. There was a profusion of floral tributes.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN.

The Quincy High school Cross Country team, won the annual cross country run with Weymouth High school at Weymouth Thursday afternoon. Each school was represented by four runners. Captain Fred Kinsbury Q. H. S. came first, Albin Anderson Q. H. S. 2nd, Sweet W. H. S. 3rd, Edward Newcomb Q. H. S. 4th, Captain Haviland, W. H. S. 5th, Albin Anderson Q. H. S. 6th, Eddy W. H. S. 7th. The course was between 2-1/2 and 3-1/4 miles and was made in the good time of 14 minutes, 49 seconds. Kinsbury won a fine race and did just what was expected of him.

Conor was the surprise of the Quincy team by finishing a close second to the winner and he looks like a future high school star.

Both Newcomb and Anderson for the little experience they had had creditable work for the team. The track team had to pay their expenses, the Quincy High school would not pay even one half of the expenses of sending five men.

The beautiful lighting fixtures, comprising the new Equaleto, for homes and public buildings, are shown in variety at the Show Rooms, of McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin St., corner Congress, Boston. All fixtures lighted to the desired effect to meet all decorations, at prices unequalled in our market.

BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Tapley of Haverhill were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Collins of Merrymount road.

The Quincy High school did better than was expected of them in the interscholastic cross country race at Tech Field, Brookline, Saturday morning. This was the first competition since the race for four years ago. Quincy, Fred Kinsbury, Captain came in 6th, Albin Connor, 21st, Edward Newcomb 23rd and Albin Anderson 36th in a field of some 50 contestants.

William Kelley elected chairman of the Democratic city committee in place of A. J. LaCroix who recently resigned. Edward Hixon was chosen secretary. The election took place Friday evening at the new headquarters, over Shelton's barber shop in the greenleaf block. It was the sentiment that a full ward ticket be prepared where candidates were not chosen at the primaries.

The local basketball season was opened Saturday night when the Association Employed Boys defeated the Melrose Five, by the overwhelming score of 46 to 4. The visitors had already won four games and were confident of taking Quincy into camp, but the game had not been going more than three minutes, before it was shown that the victory was coming Quincy's way.

Timothy J. Collins the well known newspaper correspondent is to be the acting Probation Officer at the district court for the balance of the week during the absence of Probation Officer Fahy who is to take a few days vacation. "Tim" was at court on Monday morning learning the ropes and says that if any of his newspaper friends should happen to come before him this week he will use them kindly.

Miss Dorothy Evelyn French, 75 Bay View avenue, Hingham Neck celebrated the seventh anniversary of her birth by entertaining her chums, Misses Dorothy Wodbury, Dorothy Gray, Gertrude Maloney, Flora Hardwick, Sally Piper, Grace Harvey, Harriet Rink, Marion Williams, Ruth and Charlotte French at her home Monday afternoon. Lunch was served at 5 o'clock.

The Piton A. C. of Roxbury will play the Quincy A. A. at Merrymount Park this afternoon and a strong game of football is expected. The visitors met the Cunningham gym team at Milton Saturday and played a scoreless game. Manager Flynn has the assurance that the Piton team will positively appear and not duplicate the poor sportsmanship of the Ft. Banks eleven on Saturday.

As an appreciation of his granddaughters many delightful attentions to him, Napoleon B. Fernald tendered her a check for a substantial amount, which she became Mrs. William Warrington on Sunday afternoon. She was Miss Elizabeth Fernald before her marriage ceremony and lived with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Fernald, senior and his wife celebrated their 62nd anniversary a short time ago.

WEST QUINCY

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. T. C. Martin of the Hall Place M. E. church, secretary Bromley of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. conducted the morning service, assisted by A. C. Bates, General Secretary of the Naval Y. M. C. A. at Charlestown.

At the weekly night party at the rooms of the Ave Maria Council, Knights of Columbus, Tuesday evening, Edward Barry, Martin King and John Wash were the winners.

"Our Sunny South" was well described and fittingly illustrated by Rev. L. W. Adams of Winchester, in his stereoscopic lecture at the Hall Place M. E. church Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Adams showed a fine collection of beautiful pictures, some taken during the war, some before and some after, and some showing the spirit of peace and love which has come to unite the North with the South, the South with the North.

An invitation has been received by Ave Maria Council, Knights of Columbus to attend the Memorial Service at St. Edward's church, Montello on Sunday evening, for the departed members of Seville Council of Brockton.

MONTCLAIR.

Mayor Stone attended a meeting of the Montclair Improvement association Wednesday evening and gave a talk on city affairs. Charles E. Cherrington, candidate for Councilman at Large and ex-Representative, Louis P. R. Langelier were also present and spoke on local affairs.

K. of C. PLAYS.

Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus successfully presented "Captain Racket" at Music hall, Thursday evening. An original sketch called the "Widow's Strategy" was also presented by Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis and Ernest Osgood. A concert was given by Cuffie's orchestra between the acts.

John A. Duggan, who has appeared in all of the musical productions given by the council made a decided hit by his easy interpretation of Capt. Robert Racket, and carried his situation to the very end.

Miss Ethel Blair as "Clarice" made a most charming wife and was up to "anything" and in the second act she carried out the dark eyed scheme of acting intoxicated as a punishment for her husband and brought down the house.

Miss Anna Walsh as Mrs. Tolman, found her husband Timothy, which part was taken by John J. Shay, a most vexatious spirit and as a lady with a temper, she displayed fine judgment and made it rather a hard life for her "Tim." In moments of repentance she hugged "Tim" and obtained forgiveness.

Miss Mary McCormack as "Katy," a mischievous maid kept the house roaring with laughter, particularly when she grabbed "Tim's" coat tail after a flying leap. She sang about her trials in securing a man because she was not tall and received three encores.

"Obadiah Dawson," an uncle of Erastus, was John A. McGowan and he made a delightful old sinner by telling yarns and complicating situations.

Michael T. Walsh as Mr. Tolman's father and James Grant as the waiter from the cafe who let the cat out of the bag did well in their parts.

Act I covers the sudden appearance of Obadiah, and the captain's troubles commence. In the second act complications arise and the adjustment of difficulties occurs in the last act.

Erastus Osgood coached the players and the furnishings were loaned by Henry L. Kinsdale & Co.

Capt. Robert Racket—A lawyer with nothing to do, and a liar.

John A. Duggan.

Obadiah Dawson—His uncle.

John A. McGowan.

Timothy Tolman—Sorrow-filled, married for money.

John J. Shay.

Mr. Dalroy—His jolly father-in-law.

Michael T. Walsh.

Hobson—A waiter, who confuses.

James Grant.

Clarice—The Captain's wife, out for a lark.

Ethel Blair.

Mrs. Tolman—A lady whose blarney is vexatious.

Anna Walsh.

Katy—A mischievous maid.

In the "Widow's Strategy," Mr. Davis and Mr. Osgood acted in their usual pleasing manner and although Hiram "Square" Agar was keen at a bargain he found the "Widder" Bartlett a trifle keener. Both are well known in theatrical circles and have coached a number of Quincy shows.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS.

A change has been made in the coming high school theatricals and the curtain raiser will be the "Quiet Family" instead of "The Bookings Office." The minstrel circle will follow as the afterpiece, no change being made in the "Rainbow." Under the direction of Headmaster Collins and Teacher Frank Mansur the progress is good and the cast will be ready, during the second week in December, to face an audience.

Several female parts will be taken by the boys and it is said at the school that some of the "minstrel" will show that they are stars in their line.

The cast will be as follows: Benjamin Bibbs, Edward Brown, Barnabee Bibbs, Leonard Randall, Peter Carter, Sam Prout, Grumpy, Roland Ester, Mrs. Ben Bibbs, Edward Bullock, Mrs. Barnabee Bibbs, John Martin, Mrs. Selma Summers, Willett Crocker, Smarty, Tod Elwell.

Miss Costanza D'Angelo of 23 Field street, the 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giorgio D'Angelo and Rocco D'Angelo of this city, were married Nov. 10 at Hartford by Rev. Francis Bertl. The bride is one of the youngest girls to be married this year.

A New York candidate filed his expense account with the endorsement for "renewing old acquaintances." As it was only a small amount, he did not have such an extensive acquaintance as candidate Bird.

Waterfront has added its tragedy to the labor situation of the day.

That torpedo boat destroyer contract for the Fore River Company looks good to Quincy.

Gov. Wilson had a smooth sea to Bermuda. Wonder will he find the conditions so smooth on the Potomac.

The Chicago girls who want to play football should receive a liberal portion of the old fashioned type of discipline.

Now is an admirable time to do your Christmas shopping. Before you decide to go out of town to buy, look over the stocks of our local merchants. They may have just what you want, and if they haven't got it we know it will be a pleasure for them to order it for you. By adopting this plan you will be saving yourself considerable worry and some expense and you will have shopped at home, an act that deserves the consideration of all.

THE TAX PROBLEM.

The question of the tax problem suffered by Hon. Joseph Walker, seems a reasonable one and would prevent much of this tax juggling, which has existed for some time and enable communities to be more conversant with the real conditions. The $12 tax limit law, was never effective. It was never lived up to. It only created a means of covering up real issues, real conditions and the real state of affairs.

The average voter pays little or no attention to the loans that are created, but he knows and feels the rise in the tax rate. It is all very well to spend money on error and waste, but to do so means that it has got to come from somewhere. To levy it immediately upon the taxable property raises a howl of protest and the City Councils quickly to see that, shifted it to loans. This meant that for years after, cities were paying for current expenses of the years which had preceded. Interest was going on year after and the expenditure in this department is enormous. With the system of creating loans, then creating other loans to meet those loans, when they became due and the constant repeating of error and waste, meant that tax payers were paying three or four times and possibly many more in the form of interest account than the amount actually needed or extended. A change in the law, with a state supervision of cities, might tend to improve conditions. The most disastrous of all comes, the better it will be appreciated, but in reaching this change the people must be satisfied that the reduction in taxes cannot come immediately. It is an intricate problem and will require time and trouble to solve.

Thanksgiving is only a week away. There are many things which people should be thankful for, but it is doubtless true that many of those who have the most grounds for thankfulness are the most dissatisfied and least thankful. Many who outwardly have it all that is desirable to make life one rosy sunset find many things against which they rail in the most unreasonable manner. If they had felt the burden of some other fellow they would conclude that life was not worth the living.

The person who has health and strength, and the taste for and power to provide three square meals a day has much to be grateful for. At this time, in the gratefulness and thanksgiving which should come from those who are abundantly provided for they should not forget that there is another class not quite so fortunate. The Salvation Army is taking steps to alleviate the wants of this latter class at this Thanksgiving time. While some may differ on the means employed, there are many who can find an objection to the object. There it is quite well for the ones who have a little to think of those who have nothing and aid the Salvation Army in performing the Master's work according to their lights.

GOOD GOVERNMENT.

A large number of ward four taxpayers held a meeting at Evans' hall, Wednesday night to discuss the situation in the ward politically and otherwise.

The outcome of the gathering was a permanent organization under the name of Ward Four Good Government association. John Evans was unanimously elected president, John Casey, Treasurer and A. I. Toombs, Secretary, a large campaign committee was elected including: T. Fallon, P. J. Tagney, C. Johnson, T. F. Cahill, Louis J. White, John C. Ballou, P. J. Mannix, John C. Kapples, Bernard Donaher, Frederick Baller, Rev. John L. Lillback, George Badger, Charles Clair, Ernest Bizzozero, Charles Kristina, J. P. Rizzi, Wilbur Lakin, Neil McDonald, Thomas J. Lark, H. Reynolds, John Burke, W. Mortenson, Harry Lark, John Vogel, R. Farquhar, and Adam Vogel.

NAMED FOR GOVERNOR.

Eugene Noble Foss O'Connell, son named because of his father, William F. O'Connell's admiration for the governor, has just turned out his first month of life and is doing well.

In a letter to Governor Foss, Mr. O'Connell related how the child had been named for the first man in the state and cherishes a kindly worded letter from the "Old Boy" in acknowledgment of the compliment. The little Democrat was born, Oct. 7 and is one of three children.

His parents Mr. and Mrs. William F. O'Connell live at 85 Babcock street, Houghs Neck, where they are permanent residents.

Unanimous confirmation was given by the executive council Wednesday night to the appointments of Norman H. White of Brookline and of Francis X. Tyrrell of Chelsea as members of the new commission on economy and efficiency. Both men qualified and this morning the commission will hold its first meeting. State Auditor John H. White, ex-officio, a member of the commission.

FORE RIVER-HARVARD.

The Harvard Varsity soccer team played the Fore River Draftsmen at the ward two playground, Wednesday afternoon and were defeated 4 to 2. The game had its exciting moments and a number of men were knocked out for short periods. No one was obliged to retire from the game.

The stars of the game were Shaw and Campbell, who played in their usual classy style. The hit of the afternoon was Shaw's scoring the second goal in the first period after carrying the ball from the centre of the field alone.

SHIPYARD FIRE.

The alarm from Box 723 at 3.46 A. M. Friday was for a lively fire in a barn on Sargent's lane, Quincy Point used as a store house for patterns of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. The fire was discovered by William Solomon, who runs a boarding house adjoining. He was awakened by the glare of the light in his room and looking out saw the building was a mass of flames. He immediately rushed to the box and pulled the alarm.

The apparatus was remarkably quick in arriving on the scene but as the blaze was all on the inside it became necessary to pull out a large quantity of the patterns in order to get at the fire.

The light dry material of which the patterns are made furnished excellent fuel for the flames and the inside of the building seemed like a roaring furnace and it was an hour or more before the recall sounded.

According to Mr. Solomon the building has been used by tramp workmen for some time as sleeping quarters and it is supposed that the fire was caused by some of the fraternity who occupied the building Thursday night.

It was thought for a time that some of the occupants of the building must have been smothered or burned to death but Chief Litchfield and the firemen made a thorough search after the fire but could find nothing.

The intense heat scorched and set fire to the house of Mr. Solomon once or twice during its progress but this fire was quickly extinguished with little damage.

The building was owned by the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., and at the plant this morning it was said that the loss could not be determined until a thorough examination had been made. The property however was insured for $2,500.

It was also said that it was not patterns which the building was stored but templates, such as are used to mark plates, etc.

GOOD FIRE PROTECTION.

With the addition of the new auto chemical to the fire department which is stationed at Atlantic, that section as well as the Squantum section is much better protected. There is no department of any kind at Squantum although there is much valuable property in that section of the city. In addition to two chemical trucks the new piece of apparatus carries 200 feet of hose, and as the machine is geared to make 35 miles an hour it can be readily seen that it will not take many minutes for it to reach Squantum or the most remote point in the section to which it responds.

The new piece of apparatus was made by the Kissel Co. and is up to date in every particular. As has been previously stated Richard Williams the Chief's chauffeur is temporarily stationed at Atlantic as driver of the car, while Faxon Billings the regular driver is breaking in. Faxon is quick witted and it will not be many days before he will be able to handle the apparatus with as much skill as he handled the three horse hitch with which Combination No. 2 was provided.

MORRIS-JOSS.

Miss Ellen Hastings Joss and David Hugh Morris were married Wednesday evening by Rev. J. A. Matheson of the First Presbyterian church. The ceremony took place in the parlor of the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Joss, of 33 Benjamin street.

Miss Mary Joss, a sister, was the bridesmaid and Edward Jenkins attended the groom. The maid of honor was Miss Alice Forbes Joss. The bride was given away by her brother Lewis D. Joss.

As the bridal party entered the parlor, the bride's father, Mr. Joss, played the Lohengrin wedding march. The bride was dressed in white satin and carried a blue rose de chine and carried pink tulle.

Following the ceremony there was a reception and wedding supper. Mr. and Mrs. Morris were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Mary Joss and Mrs. S. Hughes. The ushers were Miss Alice E. Collins and Miss Lois Stearns both of Lawrence.

The couple received a large number of presents from their many friends who called during the evening to wish them joy.

Guests were present from Cambridge, Dorchester, Milton, Lawrence and Brockton.

Mrs. Morris attended the Quincy high school and has been prominent in the younger set of the First Presbyterian church. The groom is well known in this city. They will live in Quincy.

AUTO EXCURSION.

Members of the Rand class of the Western Baptist church together with their sisters, wives and sweethearts as the case might be, took part in a merry jaunt, Wednesday evening, when an excursion was made to Bridgewater Inn and an oyster supper enjoyed.

A jolly crowd of over 30 piled into a Murray of 2000 at 7 o'clock and started before 8 o'clock. The evening was a pleasant one and the trip was ideal. J. Arthur Sparrow teacher and Charles M. Roach president of the class were among those taking part in the event.

The party reached Wollaston about one o'clock on the return trip.

Eugene Noble Foss O'Connell, son named because of his father, William F. O'Connell's admiration for the governor, has just turned out his first month of life and is doing well.

In a letter to Governor Foss, Mr. O'Connell related how the child had been named for the first man in the state and cherishes a kindly worded letter from the "Old Boy" in acknowledgment of the compliment. The little Democrat was born, Oct. 7 and is one of three children.

METHODIST ANNIVERSARY.

The celebration of the fortieth anniversary of Methodist preaching in Wollaston was continued at the Wollaston Methodist church, Tuesday evening, Epworth League night being observed. Clarence P. Cassidy, president of the league presided and the meeting opened with a praise service in charge of Storer R. Wignin with Mrs. F. G. Bennett at the piano.

Rev. Herbert A. Cassidy, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of North Easton and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cassidy of Wollaston, read the scriptures and offered prayer. A solo "Face to face" was sung by Alan Painten.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. William M. Crawford, pastor of the Broadway M. E. Church of Somerville, who took for his subject "The sacrificial life," and text "The saved and others; himself he cannot save."

Wednesday evening was in charge of the Men's club which observed ladies' night.

A lively business meeting of the club was punctuated at various intervals with popular songs by soloists, quartets and choruses and concluded with the trial of one of its members for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Eric H. Ewertz, president of the club, opened the meeting with an address of welcome. But a small part of the address was original the president falling back on a speech written for him at his inauguration over a year ago. President Ewertz declared he was out for third term as president and hoped to win in spite of certain methods practiced by certain politicians in the club.

A letter of protest from Rev. Wesley Wignin was read by the secretary. At the last club meeting Rev. Mr. Wignin had placed a bet of seven dollars on Fatty Cassidy in a bout against Farmer Bennett. Notwithstanding Cassidy obviously had the advantage. Referee Saunders was alleged to have deliberated on the decision to Bennett for a considerable time.

President Ewertz considered this a serious matter and appointed a committee consisting of A. N. Murray, H. B. Dimmick and W. A. Seiders to investigate the matter and report later in the evening.

The following interesting edition of the Wollaston Herald was read by T. E. Perley, the new editor in chief. The issue contained many knocks that kept the audience rocking with laughter.

Several numbers by a quartet consisting of Storer Wignin, Leon Randall, Raymond Cassidy and Frank Dunham were enjoyed. Among the selections were "Marching" and "Sit-in" by the fire.

Secretary Wilson (J. A. Sedgwick) was called upon for a report of agricultural condition and told a vivid tale of mammoth cornstalks and giant pumpkins.

Theodore Roosevelt (L. E. Crosscup) spoke on "Why I was not elected. He told of various adventures of his trip abroad and gave reasons for his defeat.

Referee Saunders was put on trial, and despite the strong defense put up by Abe Hummel the noted criminal lawyer Chairman Murray succeeded in so browbeating the jury that they declared referee Saunders to be guilty.

He was sentenced to dismissal from the club and those present adjourned for refreshments as a relief from the heartrending affair. Many popular songs were sung through the evening.

Sunday school night continued the observance of the fortieth anniversary of Methodist preaching in Wollaston at the Wollaston Methodist church, Thursday evening.

J. A. Sedgwick, superintendent of the Sunday school presided and F. A. Sutermeister led the praise service. Prayer was offered by W. C. Sanders a former superintendent.

A message from Albuquerque, New Mexico, was received from Samuel A. Kay another former superintendent, expressing his interest in the work and wishing the school continued prosperity.

An address on "Character building" was delivered by Rev. G. B. Dean, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of West Somerville.

A mass meeting of the Quincy Young Men's Hebrew Association is called for Sunday at the Congregation Ahavath Achim. The object is to stimulate a new interest in the association.

President A. W. Kibbuck of Boston will deliver an address and other speakers will attend.

Joseph B. Grossman and Edward Berman will be the delegates to the third annual convention of the association at New Bedford on Dec. 1st and 2nd.

The committee in charge of the mass meeting is Edward Berman, Joseph B. Grossman, Sydney Litchman, Allan Ames and William Wolf.

CHINA SHOWER.

Nearly 120 yards of ribbon of all colors were wound around Miss Bella H. Murray, Thursday evening as she stepped into the presence of 15 friends who gathered at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Murray, 200 at 7 o'clock.

She was escorted to a large basket and after extracting her arms was tendered a china shower. Miss Murray was greatly surprised and managed to thank her many friends.

Miss Murray is a teacher at the Codding school and is to be married to Percy Bates of East Milton in the near future.

An entertainment was provided by Miss Margaret Gill, Miss Anna Gill and Walter H. Murray. Miss Murray and Miss Jennie Grassick received loud applause for a highland fling and sword dance.

Mrs. Murray served refreshments and the committee was Miss Florence Williams and Miss Belle Stronach.

PUBLIC DOCK.

Mayor Stone has called a meeting of the special committee of the City Council and the citizens committee appointed to consider the site for a public dock, for this evening at his office at City Hall. This committee is working under an order adopted by the City Council for a special committee of the council to act with a committee of citizens to be appointed by the Mayor to consider the site for a public dock in Quincy. The report of Dock and Water Front Commissioner Frank Fessenden Crane, presents two desirable sites one of which is recommended. That is the Faxon property on Town river which he recommends be leased for a term of years.

NOMINATION PAPERS.

There was quite a rush Wednesday evening shortly before 5 o'clock to file nomination papers for the municipal election. One or two papers came in early in the afternoon but it lacked but a few minutes of 5 o'clock when the great rush came. Of the papers filed but one man failed to get by. That was Harry Pennington of Houghs Neck who filed papers for Councilman from Ward One. His papers were filed early in the afternoon and he was notified shortly after that his paper did not contain sufficient names. No attempt however was made to remedy this defect.

Horace W. Richmond one of the gentlemen nominated by the Progressive for Councilman at Large did not file papers and the citizens papers of James H. Pennington for Mayor were not filed.

The full list of papers filed was as follows:

FOR MAYOR.
John L. Miller, two sets, Progressive and Citizens.
Charles M. Bryant, two sets, Progressive and Republican Independent.
Benjamin F. Earl, Progressive.
Charles L. Griswold, Progressive.
Albert N. Murray, Independent.
Joseph L. Whiton, Progressive.

WARD COUNCILMEN.
Ward One.
Charles A. Ericson, Progressive.
Robert A. Hardwick, Progressive.
Joseph W. Johnson, Progressive.
Archibald Thayer, Independent.

Ward Two.
Albert G. Coffin, Jr., Progressive.
William M. Prime, Progressive.

Ward Three.
Robert B. Craig, Republican Independent.
Walter G. Ferguson, Progressive.
August V. Johnson, Progressive.

Ward Four.
Stephen B. Little, Citizens.
Daniel P. Shea, Progressive.

Ward Five.
Russell T. Anthony, Progressive.
Charles W. Bailey, Progressive.
Charles L. Gillatt, Progressive.

John R. Nelson who was defeated for the nomination in Ward Six came to City Square Wednesday evening in the vicinity of 10 o'clock looking for nomination papers but, of course the City Clerk's office was not open at that hour and he did not appear to take out papers Wednesday, so he lost what chance he may have had for being a candidate.

William T. Shea nominated for Councilman at Large at the caucuses by having his name written on the ballot. Shea was defeated by the O'Connor nomination for Republican Councilman from Ward Four has also officially withdrawn.

The filing of the nomination papers noted above makes it certain that the contest on election day is to be a merry one all along the line. At the present time it is hard to predict how the election will go on the matter of members of the City Council.

As for Mayor it is also quite difficult to predict at the present time although it looks very favorable to the re-election of Mayor Stone.

CANDIDATES HEARD.

Three candidates for Mayor, several prospective councilmen and others spoke at the meeting of the Wollaston Park Improvement Association held at the Wollaston Yacht club, Tuesday evening.

Among the speakers were: John L. Miller, Progressive Mayoralty candidate, James H. Pennington, Democratic nominee, Mayor Eugene R. Stone, John H. Johnson, Ex-Councilman Joseph L. Whiton, Councilman Charles L. Gillatt and Russell T. Anthony.

The hall was packed and those present showed enthusiasm over the remarks of the various candidates. President Edward O. Woodward presided.

At the business meeting the building committee reported in favor of cooperating with the "community house" committee of Wollaston in its larger project than to continue in planning a separate building.

A nominating committee consisting of Frank Coe, B. F. Chase, Joseph K. Barber, M. B. Capron, Frank C. Blake, William H. Spooner and Charles R. Hendrie was elected. Reports of several committees and officers were received.

The following candidates have been nominated for office at the annual meeting of John A. Boyd Camp, U. S. W. V.

Commander—John S. Blagden, Wilbert H. Doyle.
Senior Vice Commander—Joseph McKennan, Thomas F. Gould.
Junior Vice Commander—Ernest U. Whipple.

Chaplain—Frank A. Gammon.
Officer of the day—Henry J. Nicolas.
Officer of the guard—Herman F. Uhlig.

Trustee for three years—Vern G. Brooks.
As will be noticed there are only two contests.

NEPHEW SUNG THE MASS.

Mrs. Bridget M. Beard, widow of Bryan V. Beard and a former resident of West Quincy, was buried Wednesday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ella M. Kellihir, 15 Highland street, Neponset.

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church, West Quincy, by Rev. Francis J. Hart of Canton, a nephew of the deceased. Rev. Henry T. Grady officiated as deacon and Rev. William J. Duffy was subdeacon.

The Gregorian chant was sung by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Frances Cronin. Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery where prayers were said by Father Hart and Father Grady.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Massachusetts Teachers' Association will hold its 68th annual meeting, Friday, Nov. 29 at Huntington hall, Rogers Building, Boston. The programme this year is one of the finest that the association has offered in a long time and includes the following:

Superintendent Franklin B. Dyer, Boston, "The Larger View of the Meaning of Education"; President Flavel S. Luther, Trinity College, "The Easy Mark"; Hon. David Sneed, "Teachers' Annulment"; Principle William MacAndrew, New York City, "The Increasing Value of the Teaching Service"; Prof. H. H. Home, New York University, "Educational Faith"; Dr. Charles W. Eliot, "The Tendency to the Concrete and Practical in Modern Education."

For the benefit of the many enquirers, the Arts and Crafts committee would say that any lady may join a class or classes, whether a member of the Women's Club or not, by the payment of a small fee.

SQUANTUM WOMEN'S CLUB.

The Quantum Women's Club held its regular meeting Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Charles Bostwick, Bellevue road.

This was the last evening session as it has been decided to meet the first Wednesday of December, the first of February and March, in the afternoon.

Reports were heard from the finance and improvement committees.

Plans for a Club house were discussed, this coming Spring ought to find a club house well under construction on the corner of Huckins avenue and Richfield street where the Charitable Ten Circle of King's Daughters is to give a literary and musical entertainment this week Friday evening for the benefit of Pond Home for aged people. Mrs. Charles Bickford of Hancock street is giving use of her house for the hour and he did not appear to take out papers Wednesday, so he lost what chance he may have had for being a candidate.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh and Mrs. Theophilus King are receiving numerous enquiries about the children's play to be given Friday afternoon, Nov. 29 at the Shubert street, Boston. The play is "The Naughty Little Princess" and will be given by the Children's Players, who are not being commercially organized will give the profits to union for educational work.

Members of the Junior Friday club were entertained Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Clara Leavitt exactly to the plan of last week. The club has completed its membership of sixteen, the new members being Mrs. Albert H. Wright of Saville avenue and Miss Mary Holden of School street. Ireland is proving an interesting subject for the winter's study, the subject on Monday being made especially so by the kindness of Miss Alice G. White of the public library who loaned the club a fine collection of photographs of Ireland which had been on exhibition at the library.

John Orth's lecture-recital on "Personal Reminiscences of Liszt at Weimar," will be given before the Quincy Women's club at its next meeting, Nov. 26. Mr. Orth spent two years in the Liszt circle at Weimar, and had abundant opportunity to appreciate and understand the wonderful qualities of Liszt's great genius. Mr. Orth enlivens his spoken word with many delightful anecdotes, besides interpreting the piano compositions with a rare poetic charm.

PROMPT ARREST.

Several of the boarders at the house of James Shea at 350 South Street awoke Sunday morning to find that while they had slept someone had made the round of their rooms and had carried off a lot of their wearing apparatus. It was also noticed that one of the boarders, known as Thomas Doyle and sometimes as Joseph Murray was missing, and the conclusion reached was that the clothing and Murray had disappeared at the same time.

Police headquarters was notified and an immediate search was made for the missing man. Captain McKay went to Boston and soon located a man trying to dispose of some clothing, who proved to be the missing boarder. He was placed under arrest and brought to Quincy, and on Monday he was arraigned in court charged with the larceny of the clothing.

Business, of course business is going

DO IT EARLY.

Do your Christmas shopping early,
do it early, mother dear.
For you know you were exhausted with the hurry yesterday.
Please go out and get the trinkets for the prattling little ones—
Get the engines and the candy and the pistols and the guns.
Better start right out to-morrow with your money and your list;
But at 10 o'clock on Christmas eve you'll think of one you've missed.

Do your Christmas shopping early,
do it early, sister dear;
Get a card for our rich uncle that will put him on his ear.
Get a tie that is hand painted for your one and only beau—
He will say it is too splendid for a man to wear, you know; Work a pillow for the preacher, and get something for each friend;
But you'll find you've overlooked one when your shopping's at an end.

Do your Christmas shopping early,
do it early, do you hear?
Let the higher cost of living give you neither fret nor fear.
There are friends in other countries who are very sure to write Ere the first day of December leaves serenely into sight.
So be ready to remember all the people far away—
But you'll find you've failed to get one for some one on Christmas day.

Do your Christmas shopping early,
ere the drifting snows are here.
For the day before the madder than all others of the year—
At no odds how soon you do it, when the final days have come.
You will be right in the struggle showing how to make things bam.
And on Christmas eve, dear sisters,
all of you, including me,
Will exclaim: "Well, goodness gracious. We had quite forgotten pat!"

FRANZ'S SISTER.

Both troubled and perplexed looked John Liebert when he came into the house that day with a bill in his hand.
"What do you think, mother?" he exclaimed. "Mr. Carson charged me one hundred and eighty dollars for that foundation-board! How you s'pose it was, boy? I paid that fellow more the time while I was helping him build it, and I think to pay him no more than seventy dollars or sixty!"

The palling fence along the front of Liebert's farm was an improvement that had interested all the family. John Liebert, who had helped the carpenter build it, had taken special pride in the work, but neither his wife, his daughter Louise—Weezy—nor his son Franz had been backward about admiring it. That the carpen-ter's bill should come to three times as much as Liebert had planned was a serious blow to the sturdy German, and his wife saw the need of soothing words.

"Maybe Mr. Carson makes a mistake," she suggested.
The farmer shook his head. "William Smith figured it up mit a lead-pencil and paper, and said the bill was right."
Still Mrs. Liebert, although mystified and distressed, clung to the hope that her husband's original estimate was correct.

"Shust wait till Franz comes home from school," she said, as she put away the bill and the paper on which their neighbor had worked out a result. "Maybe our Franz can figger better as William Smith. He's real good in multiplication tables now."
"Ach, so!" A gleam of relief crossed the father's face. Vexation displaced it a moment later, however, when he thought of the money he had lost from her knitting and said, timidly:
"Won't you let me try the sum, father? I can cipher as well as Franz."

"Hush, Weezy!" her father said, impatiently. "Tain't for you to be speakin' out so bold—and figgerin' is for me!"
"Anyhow, I could learn to do it if you let me go to school like all the other girls do," the little girl persisted. She was not a wilful or a forward child, but this matter of schooling lay very near her heart. She had practically taught herself to read, and she had learned a good deal by listening to Franz when he studied his lesson aloud; but she longed for more knowledge. Unhappily for her, John Liebert was not a progressive man—and this was fifty years ago.

"Hush, Weezy!" he said again, and with a touch of anger in his tone.
"My mother didn't have no book-learnin'; your mother ain't got no book-learnin'; what for should you have book-learnin'? You shan't go to school. It couldn't make no difference of you but a girl? What for should a girl be foolin' mit books?
But Franz," he added, a moment later,
"he shall after supper figger."

Accordingly, that evening Franz was set at work on the problem of the fence. His mother stood ready to snuff the candle. His father paced the floor restlessly. "Figger mit great carefulness, Franz," Mr. Liebert would say every now and then, stopping to look over the boy's shoulder.
After a while it became evident from Franz's mutterings that he had found something the matter with the work he was examining. Mr. Liebert's breath came faster.

"Well, Franz, you found the mistake?" he asked, eagerly.
"Wait a little yet," answered Franz, deliberating.
The family interest, stimulated by growing hope, was becoming momentarily more intense.

"I knew our Franz could figger better as William Smith," declared Mrs.
Liebert, proudly, while Weezy smiled from her corner by the chimney.
The family interest, stimulated by growing hope, was becoming momentarily more intense.

"No—yes, here it is! I've found it now!" Franz's tone was full of triumph.
"And I am right! Of course I am right!" shouted his father. "I know-ed all the time I was—"
"No, you ain't right, father," corrected Franz. "Neither one of you is right. It's one hundred and

CINDERELLA IN FLOWERLAND.

One of the prettiest and most complete entertainments ever given by children in Wollaston was the extravaganza "Cinderella in Flower-land" by the pupils of the Wollaston school in the school hall, Friday evening. Charming costumes, perfect acting, pleasant music and beautiful scenery combined to make the piece most effective for the audience that filled the large assembly room.

The extravaganza, in four acts, a prologue and tableau tells a pretty nature story of the birds and flowers, under guise of the well known tale of "Cinderella."
The little tots who took part were excellently cunning and acted with skill and absence of self-consciousness.

As the prologue, Katharine Pollett as the fairy, singing a song of the birds and flowers. The stage setting which remained the same throughout was that of a beautiful flower garden.
The action opens with the appearance of Robin Red, Prince Sunshine's lover, who calls the flowers and the birds to the May day ball. The discussion is on what shall be worn, the flowers being attired in quiet costumes of brown. After singing
"What shall we wear to the ball" the flowers flock off to prepare, leaving Cinderella the Daisy disconsolate at having no costume and being unable to attend. Cinderella decides that she will help them, and she will help them as they are going and when her proud sisters Hollyhock and Tiger Lily enter in radiant costumes she assists them.

MUSICAL.

Lovers of good music and fine elocution, enjoyed a rare treat Friday evening, when Professor and Mrs.
Charles Bickford opened their charming home on Hancock street and entertained under the auspices of Charitable Ten King's Daughters. The program which was varied and interesting pleased the audience and called forth repeated applause.

Professor Bickford who introduced the artists by his ready wit and keen sense of humor kept his listeners in heartily sympathy with him.
The first number was a reading by Mrs. Bickford, "The Wishless Land," read in her accustomed graceful manner.

The Quincy Patriot

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1912

IN MEMORIAM.

On Friday, Nov. 23d, there passed from the city of Quincy to the city eternal, in the heavens, one who, for half a century, had been deeply interested in all good works for Quincy, and who will be especially missed in Atlantic, which had been her home since her parents came there from Boston in her girlhood.

Isabel Frances Pratt Emery was of the best Maine and Massachusetts stock. She counted among her ancestors, General Pratt of Revolutionary days and was an early member of the Boston Tea Party Chapter, D. A. B. She was a long-time member of the Quincy Charitable society, and of several Atlantic societies.

Of an extraordinarily happy, cheerful, and ever gay disposition, she kept always a youthful spirit, and a warm love for young people and children, and her loss will be felt by friends of all ages from those in the nineties down to the child of tender years.

She was educated in Boston, and for about twenty-five years served as head-teacher in the Minot school, at Neponset. As teacher, and as friend and neighbor, she had an especial sense of duty and an especial gift in wisely counselling young people as to the course of their education and the vocations to which they might be suited. Several persons who have been successful in a musical career, owe much to her influence and encouragement. Her efforts were always to aid others to have faith in themselves, and to get all the education possible to their circumstances, while her unselfish devotion to the interests of others, sometimes led her to see in them abilities of which the possessors themselves were, in a measure, unaware.

Perhaps this was partially due to some consciousness, on her own part, of possessing many more talents than it was possible for her to develop, yet desiring conscientiously to use all she could.

That all human beings are so full of possibilities, that our short earthly life can be at best trifling but a part of our mental and emotional powers, has long been one of the chief grounds for a reasoned belief in a future life.

Our friend, with her manifold talents and enthusiasms, crowded into a busy life of daily care, "great riches in a little room," was an unusual illustration of the hidden wealth of the human spirit, and of the likelihood of a larger and grander life to come.

She was by nature of the artistic type, and her taste for the beauty of the outward world. Flowers, trees, waterfalls, mountains, inspired her with a joy that remained to be a deep pleasure to the "inward eye," during the darkest days of winter. Few have ever appreciated as did she the beauty of Atlantic's shores and the hills of Quincy and Milton. The late Professor Nash of Cambridge once said, "I should like to have a little bit of this earth to carry with me to Heaven." I think she would like to look from Heaven to the Blue hills and across the sunlit sea to Quincy.

She had not only the artist's appreciation, but something of what Browning calls, "the craftsman's hand." She loved drawing and painting, and was very skillful in all the womanly arts of the needle, by which she often, in gifts of her own work, expressed her friendship.

Possessed of much dramatic faculty she was a good reader and mimic and in earlier life something of an amateur comic actress. But all her liveliness and fun was compatible with a deep earnestness.

She had the pure and simple religion expressed in the poems, so valued by her J. G. Whitier, and she believed heartily in many of the reforms of her day and aided in the causes of temperance, woman-suffrage, and the betterment of social conditions so far as she had opportunity, and with the most unwavering steadfastness.

While the exigencies of life obliged her to lay aside the exercises of many of her gifts, which in recent years, she found little time for the studies, or the journeys, in which she delighted, there was one gift, her greatest, in whose use she was unceasing, an absolute talent for kindness.

Her friendly spirit was like a never-fading spring of sweet waters, beneath which her perfect loyalty and her unselfishness lay, ready to spring forth to some of us in time of deep and tragic trial, she has been indeed "the cup of strength."

She has made the love of God seem real and near. Feeling the warm-hearted, sunny nature of this sincere woman and true child of God, we could but believe as we must, now, on believing, that behind all clouds of pain and sorrow the sun of a great love beams ever, and the heart of the Eternal is most wonderfully kind.

REGULAR PARTY.

A jolly time was experienced Wednesday evening in Brasse hall at the masquerade of the "Reglers," a Wollaston social organization. A large number of fancy costumes were in evidence including those in lace and silk, clove, yama yama girls, hobos, policemen, sailors and many others.

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Pinkham's orchestra and at intermission a flashlight picture of the dancers was taken.

The matrons were Mrs. Samuel Knapp and Mrs. B. Frank Wood. Composing the committee in charge were Miss May Knapp, Kenneth Wood and William Flahive.

QUINCY OPERATOR DEAD.

Nicholas Reinhardt died at the Quincy City Hospital, Tuesday evening. The funeral was held from his late home 29 Bunker Hill street, West Quincy, Friday morning. He leaves eight children.

The deceased had been a widower about 11 years and was well known in West Quincy. A few years ago he was in the granite business, and in company with his brothers operated a quarry.

One need not go further to secure a holiday remembrance, than McKenney & Waterbury Co., 151 Franklin street, corner Congress, Boston, where is shown the grandest display of lighting fixtures in the world, consisting of floor and table lamps, with latest novelties in lace and silk shades, also art shades, all lighted to show effect, at prices unusual. Over Six Hundred styles lighted at once.

Miss Eva Kimball of 963 Hancock street, is at Southern Pines, for the winter months.

Mayor Stone returned Tuesday evening from a three days business trip to Maine.

William F. Sidelinger, who underwent an operation at the City Hospital has returned to his home, Washington street.

Paul J. Revere Woman's Relief Corps has awarded the turkey dinner to Edward Baxter, of North street North Weymouth.

Frank Fessenden Crane is a delegate to the National Harbor Congress to be held at Washington, D. C., Dec. 4, 5 and 6, representing the City of Quincy.

A waltz and dancing party was held Friday, Nov. 22, in Colonial and Hancock halls by the Order of Eastern Star Dramatic Club and there was a good attendance.

Officer Henry Corbett who had his leg fractured while attempting to stop a runaway horse in City Square some weeks ago is about again although he has to use crutches.

Quincy lodge of Elks in accordance with its usual custom will hold its annual memorial service in memory of departed brothers at the club house on Foster street, next Sunday.

The first assembly of the Waseca Social club was held at Alpha hall, Friday, Nov. 22. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight and music was furnished by Wilson's orchestra.

The third degree was worked on four candidates by the Mount Wollaston Lodge, I. O. O. F. on Tuesday evening. The work was under the direction of Degree Master Jones.

Mrs. Louis La Rose entertained the Visiting Ten at her residence, Upland road, Tuesday evening. A large number was present and Mrs. La Rose was a hospitable hostess.

Mauder's Cantata will be sung at Christ Church next Sunday evening with Mrs. James H. Slade, William Carter and J. W. McLeod as soloists, and the church choir. Organist and director, F. Wrigley.

Have you sent your subscription toward the expense of the Citizens No License League for the annual campaign against having saloons in Quincy? Possibly you may have forgotten it. If so let this be a reminder.

In one of the cleanest games of football ever played at Merrymount Park, the Quincy A. C. beat the Pittsford A. C. Saturday afternoon, 13 to 0. Cummings made both touchdowns on forward passes when the periods were nearly up.

The Hull Beacon has the following under the heading: "Marshallfield: The handsomest autumn foliage is to be found on the grounds of Mr. Horace Spear, cashier of the Mount Wollaston Bank. It is gray and bright cardinal and keeps well."

Hamilton, J. Davidson, J. Nimmon. The leaders were John J. Fallon, William Mitchell, A. H. Philbrick, James Thompson, W. J. Fiegan.

Despite the rainstorm there was a large attendance Sunday evening at Bethany church being more than three quarters full. There was singing of old, familiar hymns by the congregation. The choir of Love Shepherd is rendered by the choir, the solo parts being beautifully sung by Mrs. Moore. The pastor's topic was, "Come over from Worry-land," and, as usual, he gripped the attention of his audience and held it throughout.

To make the Unitarian church a "dominating influence for good in the community" was the expressed ambition of the Rev. A. L. Hudson on accepting a call to the pastorate last year. If the people of the parish would only always strengthen his heart by their presence as they did at Sunday morning's service, he might reasonably expect to realize his hope, for he can be depended upon to do more than his part. There was an unusually large attendance. The pastor preached an able sermon from the text "Who is my Neighbor."

It is reported that when the city takes possession of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., property on the corner of Coddingdon and Washington streets, that the company will have its office on the Faxon property near the county court house, on Coddingdon street. The corner of the insurance lot will be taken off and thrown into the street so that Temple street will run straight into Coddingdon street, thus doing away with the bad curve at present at that corner. Some of the literary grounds will also be taken. The building will be given over to the appearance of Quincy's civic center.

QUINCY POINT

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Addison of Washington street, entertained a family party Thanksgiving day.

The regular social meeting of the Quincy Women's Riverside club which occurs Nov. 27 has been postponed to Dec. 4 owing to the Thanksgiving holiday. The program will be musical and literary including a paper by Mrs. Miriam Watts on "The life and work of L. W. W. He has taken a great interest in the trial of the three men who were indicted for the death of the woman during the Lawrence strike. As the youngest son of the house of Howard arrived on the very day that the jury had reached a verdict not guilty in the case of the three men, Howard senior decided that it was a good omen and named the youngest, Arthur Joseph Howard, for two of the defendants in the case, after Arthur Giovanniotti and Joseph J. Etor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Gelotte has resigned as a member of the Republican city committee from ward three.

A party of friends of Edward Bernan surprised him at his home, Franklin street, Sunday evening and presented him with a travelling bag. The presentation was made by William Wolf.

The Redmen A. C. Jrs. of South Quincy defeated the Granite A. C. at Ward Three playground 6 to 0. The game was fast and well played. The score came in the second period on a blocked kick right under the goal posts. Kemp falling on the ball and scoring a touchdown, but he failed to kick the goal. The rushing of Favre round for the winners and the all round playing of Clark for the losers were the features.

A 60 yard run by Carlson who broke through the left side of the Pastime A. C. line and made a touch-down started a score which reached 19 points for the Red Men against a goose egg for their opponents at the three point playground Thanksgiving morning. The game was the best yet seen by the visitors who had drawn from the most available men living in the Upham's corner district, and although they made a grand showing in practice they lost confidence on the first play.

PARK AND DOWNS.

The Pythian whist club held its last meeting with Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hancock, 23 Freeman street. The evening was awarded to Mrs. Abbie Stockford, Mrs. Jessie McCall, Frederick Stockford and Frederick DeWitt. Refreshments were served.

SNOW ADDED ZEST.

Quincy in common with other parts of the state received its first real touch of winter on Thanksgiving day. The indications as given out by the weather man were that the weather would be not hot but cold. The weather man did not lie. The air during the early morning hours felt cold and damp. There was a few flurries of snow but it was not until about 10:30 that it really began to come down in shape. It was the damp kind of snow that sticks where the flakes alighted with the result that when one had faced it for a few minutes it resembled a snow man.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and two children, Hollis avenue spent the Thanksgiving recess with friends in Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Fuller and daughter, Bertha of Botolph street are spending the Thanksgiving vacation with relatives in Plympton.

Mrs. Charles L. Baker of Botolph street left Thursday for a visit with her sister near St. John. She will be away about three weeks.

The Thanksgiving service held in the Memorial church, Thursday morning at seven o'clock, was well attended. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Fr. J. P. Cuffe, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, and was a beautiful evening.

As usual in Quincy there were many family gatherings. There were some families who journeyed to other cities to spend the day with their relatives and friends but by far the larger part remained at home and the gatherings about the family hearth in Quincy were numerous.

Thanks to the Overseer of the Poor and charitable organizations there were no families who were in need of food or clothing. The day was a happy one and a few families offered up their heartfelt thanks because of the existence of these societies.

At several of the churches in the morning and in the city there were inter religious services during which, morning and notice of these will be found elsewhere.

At Quincy's institutions all possible was done to make those in their happy. At the City Hospital the patients were allowed to receive friends who came to visit and try to make them forget their sufferings. Those whose condition permitted of their having a taste of the Thanksgiving goodies were supplied, and those who were denied this pleasure were made to forget as far as possible, by friends who had called that it was the day of an abundance of good things to eat.

At the National Sailors Home where some of the old salts who fought that we might enjoy a free and united country are domiciled all unnecessary work was omitted. At noon they were given a dinner which included turkey and everything the good cooks could do. After dinner the sailors gathered in the main room and smoked the pipe of peace while they fought over again some of the battles of the days of old.

At the Quincy Home Overseer Elcock said it that there was nothing lacking to make the Thanksgiving dinner all that a Thanksgiving dinner implies. There was an abundance of things good to eat including turkey, and vegetables of all kinds. Only work absolutely necessary was performed in the kitchen at the home.

The Sailors' Snug Harbor at Germantown there was also the usual Thanksgiving dinner and the pensioners only performed work absolutely necessary. At noon as in other institutions a genuine Thanksgiving dinner with turkey and all the fixings was served. Then the old salts gathered in the smoking room and whiled away the time with checkers and other games.

The patients at Mr. Pleasant camp were not forgotten, and here as in other institutions of the city a genuine Thanksgiving dinner was served.

Notes and Comments.

—The Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving has been organized in anticipation of Christmas. We hope all the members will hasten to attend their membership so that their friends can scratch them off their lists.—New Bedford Standard.

—Having refused to abolish capital punishment, the Vermont legislature must be getting ready to substitute the electric chair for the hangman's noose. Such a substitution will be a marked step in advance.—Barre, Vt. Times.

—The government can't compel the building of railroads, it has not the very limited success in its efforts to make two roads compete with each other. But it can prevent any railroad from charging extortionate rates or making discriminations in its rates or affording inadequate facilities for traffic.—Philadelphia Record.

—Snowshoes for horses will be ready at Chicago for the first fall snow or frozen streets. The shoes, furnished by the Society of Humane Friends, are of carpet and canvas and are intended to be slipped over the feet of a fallen animal so that he can get up. Traffic policemen will carry sets of four for the use of drivers whose horses go down.—Herald-Examiner.

—A doctor who advised his patients to go back to the farm to regain perfect health and physique must be bothered by the report of a physician, the instructor of the University of Missouri. The latter says that farm boys are not usually as well developed as city boys. He says the farmer's sons have overdeveloped arms and shoulders, but the rest of their bodies are not "up to par." The city boy is found by this instructor to be a more trim and generally well balanced citizen.—Brooklyn Enterprise.

—The scheme to have the children of the New York public schools keep their hands and faces clean by furnishing them with soap and towels is likely to fall through on account of the cost of it. According to the education board, soap is cheap enough but the laundry bills alone for the towels would be $217,000 a year and the cost of the towels from $70,000 to $700,000 according to the kind furnished. Why not give newspapers to wipe their hands and faces on?—Tribune Herald.

—Temperance reformers take courage, as signs increase that their labors are prospering. The first tea house was opened in London just fifty years ago. Now tea-taverns are universal and have proved themselves a great factor in the direction of temperance. The cup of afternoon tea has taken the place of something much stronger, and it is no longer supposed to be the especial prerogative of woman. At the Pullman car factories milk bottles have driven out beer bottles. Two peddlers at the main gate, one of the seven entrances, writes Graham R. Taylor in the Survey, alone sell nearly half a thousand bottles each noon.—Christian Register.

—At the meeting of the Brockton aldermen recently the committee reported an ordinance on billboards. This ordinance was passed to be enrolled. It provides that no billboards shall be erected or maintained without a permit from the aldermen and kept in good condition to the satisfaction of the superintendent of buildings. Also that the superintendent shall be authorized to inspect and to require repairs or removal as the public good may require. This is a very useful idea. It is likely to keep from the view of passersby in future days old and weatherbeaten and decrepit billboards, likely to fall over, seeming to the first brawler, but alas, often times seeming to have eternal life. There will be, no doubt, excellent judgment used by the aldermen in granting permits for billboards in the future and by the superintendent of buildings in seeing that they do not become an offense to the eye and remarkable specimens of old age at its worst estate.

CALL EXTENDED.

Rev. Gerhard W. Palmgren of the Swedish Congregational church in this city has been called to the Swedish Congregational church of Hartford, Conn.

The Hartford church is one of the strongest in Connecticut, with a rapidly increasing membership. The Swedish population of the city is 6,500 and growing rapidly. The offer is a very tempting one, but Rev. Palmgren has found his duties in Quincy so congenial, his associations so pleasant and the work of building up the local church so agreeable to his energies that he could not decide right off just what he would do. He will keep the call under consideration for a little while, at least, before coming to any decision. His parishioners and the many friends he has made in Quincy during his five years resident here would be sorry to have him leave this city.

OLD RESIDENT DEAD.

Mrs. Hannah Gearin, widow of the late Frank Gearin, died Sunday at her home 162 South Walnut street, in her 82d year. She was one of the original settlers in that part of Quincy Point known as Dublin, having lived there for about 45 years. She was an active member of the St. John's church in her younger days and had a large acquaintance throughout the city.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Dennis Ford and Miss Elizabeth Gearin, and one son, John Gearin.

CHURCH HISTORY.

The closing services in observance of the 40th anniversary of Methodist preaching in Wollaston were held Sunday in the Wollaston Methodist church.

In the morning the pastor, Rev. Wesley Wiggins, preached on "Christ's commands imperative." Special music was sung by Miss Margarette Holbrook and the quartet. In the evening a ladies quartet was enjoyed with solos by Miss Holbrook. The pastor preached the historical sermon which concluded the observances.

He took his text from Psalm 126-3: "The Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad." He said:

"These are the words of the Psalmist uttered in appreciation of the Lord's benefits to himself and the people. It is good to remember God's gracious dealings with His people in every age of the world and to note the blessings received from His hand."

"When we review the past and consider the influence, the power and the result of the Church in the world we are led to say in the language of the Psalmist, 'The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad.' The history of our local church is also noteworthy. Wollaston is beautiful for situation, picturesque in scenery, unsurpassed as a residential section of Quincy and from the commanding view from its Heights takes in the sweep of the horizon, the Great Hills, Hingham, Nantasket, all of Boston Harbor, and beyond, Boston Light, across to Lynn and Marblehead, across to Wachusetts. It is the Fifth Ward of Quincy, a city of two of our honored Presidents, the home of Granite Industries, and the great Fore River Shipbuilding Company, the Tabular River Company and the Boston Gear Works. A city that for the past ten years has made the greatest gain in population with but one exception and yet about 45 years covers its period of greatest growth."

"In this great growth the Churches have been without their share of the benefits given and received for they have acted well their part. The Methodist church has been a part of the forces for righteousness in the city for thirty-eight years and Methodist preaching has been a power for good for forty years."

"The first service without their share of the benefits given and received for they have acted well their part. The Methodist church has been a part of the forces for righteousness in the city for thirty-eight years and Methodist preaching has been a power for good for forty years."

ST. JOSEPH'S HALL.

The recently completed St. Joseph's hall, formerly the St. Mary's Catholic church, was formally opened Monday evening by the St. Mary's Guild, the occasion being a whist and dancing party.

The attendance was large and the majority stayed to the close of the affair.

The trophies were donated by Rev. William J. Duffy, Dr. J. T. Reynolds, George A. Berry, Mrs. Robert J. Teasdale and John Casey.

After two hours play they were awarded to Miss Nora Reardon, Miss Mary King, Joseph Garrity and Martin King. The general prize was presented to Miss Annie Ogle.

Dancing followed the whist, music being furnished by Morrisettes orchestra. The floor was in charge of Grand Knight Bernard J. O'Neil of the Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus.

Henry T. Grady, pastor, whose efforts had made it possible for the parish to have a well appointed hall, and Rev. William J. Duffy, his assistant, were the guests of the evening.

The committee in charge of whist consisted of Misses May Sweeney, Mollie Galvin, Grace Elcock, Ethel Burns, Sadie Monahan, Mary King, Josephine Grignon and Katherine McKenna.

Refreshments were served in a corner of the hall by the entertainment committee, consisting of Mrs. James L. White, Mrs. Alice T. Ash and Mrs. J. D. MacKay, of 550 Franklin.

The officers of the Guild are: President, Miss Catherine Shea, vice president, Mrs. Robert J. Teasdale; treasurer, Miss Anna Burns; secretary, Miss Elizabeth J. McNeil.

The building was for many years used as a church for the Catholic people of West Quincy. It is situated on Crescent street, close by the new St. Mary's church. After the congregation took possession of the new church, the old one was practically abandoned.

CITY NOMINATION.

The time for filing nominations, declarations and the time for withdrawal for the municipal election has now expired and no changes in the list of candidates to be voted for at the election can be made.

SHIPYARD FIRE.
 John Desmond, a fireman attached to Combination 1 received a severe electrical shock Sunday morning while at the fire at the Fore River shipyard. Desmond was directing a chemical stream onto the fire when the stream struck an electrical sub-off box. The liquid formed a conductor and a current of 250 volts was carried through it to the man at the nozzle. Desmond's right side was paralyzed for a time and he was immediately taken to the central station where his injuries were treated.

The fire was over the boiler house at the Fore River plant and the department had been summoned to the yard by an alarm at 3:40 from Box 78, which is located inside of the yard. The roof of the boiler house is made of two inch half iron plating, tongue and groove. The intense heat from the boilers had thoroughly dried these planks so that they were like tinder and they took fire.

It was necessary for the firemen to do considerable tearing away in order to get at the fire. They were assisted by the work by the fire crew at the yards. It was while directing a chemical stream onto the fire that it struck an electrical sub-off box. It was fortunate that Desmond did not receive a more severe shock than he did. The loss according to Chief Litchfield will not exceed $200.

HANCOCK MEMORIAL.

Walter Gilman Page is chairman of the committee in charge of the proposed John Hancock Memorial to be placed in Doric Hall, State House, Boston, by the Massachusetts S. R., and other members are Talbot B. Aldrich, president of the society; Charles Dana Burrage, a former president; Charles Irving Thayer, treasurer, and Herbert Messenger Leiland, secretary.

The following circular letter has been sent to the members:

"John Hancock left no direct descendants. So far as Massachusetts history is concerned, the name Hancock is not to be found upon her public records after the first Governor under our state constitution was laid the family vault in the Old Granary burial ground."

"The commonwealth has erected no monument to his memory, with the exception of the shaft, which marks his last resting place, and this was done a century after his death; furthermore, this action was brought about indirectly by our society."

"No memorial is to be found in our State House. His splendid mansion on Beacon street, which he intended to leave to the commonwealth, has long since been torn down, a source of never ending regret to the generation of today, but none an opportunity for a suitable and dignified memorial offers itself. Therefore, your board of managers has appointed a committee to take the matter in charge and raise the sum needed to carry out the plan."

"Our society occupies a post of distinction through its work of perpetuating forever the memory of the patriots of revolutionary days, and it is in harmony with that honorable record that we grasp this best and greatest opportunity of placing a bust of John Hancock, together with a suitably inscribed tablet, on the walls of Doric Hall in our Massachusetts State House."

"By concurrent action at its last session, Congress has granted for the first time our request for the privilege of having a cast statue of the head of the full length statue of Hancock, which stands in the Senate wing of the Capitol, and the only statue of Hancock in existence."

"As president of the provincial congress, as our first chief executive under the state constitution, as president of the continental congress and the first signer of the Declaration, where he wrote his name where all men could behold it and all could not efface it; this honorable record demands from our society such recognition as we can give."

"The cost of the proposed memorial to be placed in Doric Hall will be $800. Trusting that your contributions will be liberal, we hereby request you to send them at once to Charles I. Thayer, treasurer, Equitable building, Boston, by whom due acknowledgment will be made."

BIG MEMBERSHIP.

Clan MacGregor, No. 5, held a largely attended meeting Monday evening at Clan MacGregor hall, which was honored by a visit from Clan MacKenzie, No. 2, of Boston. The MacGregors were out in full force and a splendid evening was spent.

Chief Stewart of Clan MacKenzie outlined the work intended to be done by his clan during the coming winter, and his remarks were very ably seconded by Past Chief Frank Abercrombie.

The amusement committee then got busy and passed around sandwiches, coffee, and cigars and the evening was spent in songs and stories and an excellent entertainment was the result.

Chief Alfred O. Diack of Clan MacGregor informed the visitors that less than two years ago the Quincy Clan had started out with the idea of increasing its membership to 500, the results were far beyond the most optimistic expectations. At present the clan has a membership of almost 700, and the work of committees led by James John Kennedy and Thomas Johnston, continues it will not be very long before the 1000 mark will be in sight.

James P. Reid announced that all the details, in connection with the coming entertainment and dance on New Year's Eve had been attended to and a great concert had been provided for the members and their friends.

The clan feels gratified with the work done by its committee in connection with the monument to be erected on the clan lot at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. This lot has been used by Clan MacGregor to furnish a burial place for Scotchmen, a men of Scottish blood, who have died while in Quincy without leaving a necessary amount to furnish a decent burial, and Clan MacGregor has decided to place a monument on the graves of these men so that their last resting place may not be unknown.

The clan feels that the act in itself is a reward for the interest taken and work performed in connection with same. "As ye have done unto one of these, the least of my children, so ye have done it unto me," rings just as true now as it did when spoken by the lips of the Master.

Next meeting of Clan MacGregor will be election of officers and a large attendance is assured. Much conjecture has been made as to who the new board of officers will be, but it is the feeling among clanmen generally in this vicinity that the present board would be hard to beat, particularly Chief Alfred O. Diack, whose work in connection with Clan MacGregor speaks for itself.

It was also decided to continue the lectures and socials which were inaugurated by Chief Diack last year, namely that of having prominent men give lectures and talks to the clan.

NOT UNDERSTOOD.
Thomas Bracken
Not understood. We move along asunder. Our paths grow wider as the seasons creep. Along the years we marvel and we wonder. Why life is life, and then we fall asleep.
Not understood.
Not understood. We gather false impressions. And hug them closer as the years go by. Till virtues often seem to us transgressions. And thus men rise and fall, and live and die.
Not understood.
Not understood. Poor souls with stunted vision. Oft measure giants by their narrow gauge. The poisoned shafts of falsehood and derision. Are oft impelled against those who mould the age.
Not understood.
Not understood. The secret springs of action. Which lie beneath the surface and the show. Are disregarded with self satisfaction. We judge our neighbors, and they often find us so.
Not understood. How trifles often change us. The thoughtless sentence or the fancied slight. Destroy long years of friendship and estrange us. And on our souls there falls a freezing blight.
Not understood.
Not understood. How many breasts are aching. For lack of sympathy. Ah, day by day. How many cheerless, lonely hearts are breaking! How many noble spirits pass away.
Not understood.
Oh, God! that men would see a little clearer. Or judge less harshly where they cannot see.
Oh, God! that men would draw a little nearer. To one another, they'd be nearer Thee. And understood.

A CERTAIN THAT NEVER WAS DOWN.
"Yes, ma'am," he said, picking up his two-foot rule, "I'll take the measure directly. This is a nice room. I like a room where the sun shines all day. Two feet six, by—let me see. Yes, you've a nice room here; your plants look fine. Do you ever leave your shades up of evenings?"
Mrs. Mason laughed, then questioned her face flushing slightly. "Why do you ask? Did you ever pass in the evening?"
"No, no, no! I never went past here of an evening, but I was just a thinkin' what a pretty picture it would make to any one a passer-by."
"Well," Mrs. Mason said, "I do leave the shades up often, especially on dark or stormy nights. I always felt as though every one would make fun of me, but I wanted a little of the pleasantness should go out to those who were obliged to face the cold."
"Well, ma'am, that's just it, and I suspect that that very spirit is what goes outside and sort of cheers up passers-by more than the pretty picture does; but unless you've been homeless and kinder lonesome, you have no idea what a sort of a lift such a window is to a fellow. Dunno but I'll tell you a story 'bout myself. Some ten years ago or more, I was workin' in the foundry down here, and it was pretty steady work an' lots of it, and we fellows got heated and grimy, and we couldn't get very good board—see, first-class boardin'—houses don't open doors to men as come in black with smut—and we were crowded into small, bare rooms, and had pretty dry pickin' at table, usually. Well, you see, in such a case a fellow wants to get off in the fresh air soon as supper's over. In summer, there's the parks and the street corners, and dry-goods boxes in the alley ain't high so bad a place to sit and gas, as you'd think; but when it comes winter, there's nowhere but the saloons. At first a fellow sits around and chats, then he pays five cents for a glass of beer, and is glad of the little snack, cold beans and brown bread, mebbe, that's set out for a free lunch. 'Tain't much, but a fellow that's always underfed gets to sorter hanker after something, he don't just know what. There's light and warmth, and sometimes music, and always a jolly crowd, and it ain't much wonder fellows drift into the saloons. Well, I used to pass every night a pretty little brown house; on the north side, just the way I live in now, and the curtains in the sitting room windows was always up. There were lots of plants in the window, just big geraniums and ivies and things; I didn't know the names of 'em then, but they looked awfully nice to me. The windows were high from the walk, so all I could see was the heads of folks sittin' about, but it looked light and warm and cheery, and I used to stand there night and night with my hands down in my empty pockets, a kickin' my toes to keep 'em from freezein', an' just stare into the window. I was gettin' along first-rate at the foundry, and I'd just made a sort of a contrivance that I found out afterwards the mornin' papers had all been talkin' about and the boss had given me twenty-five dollars in cash for it, and on this particular night I had it in my pocket, and was on my way down to treat the boys and have a big old blow out.
"I stopped as usual and stared up at the window, sort of wishin', in a vague way, that I had such a home, feelin' a little homesick, and mebbe playin' possum like myself, who went to the dogs because they had no where to stay but in the saloons; when a fellow about my size came trampin' along, and near run into me. He fetched up with a round turn, and yelled: 'Hello! What you doin' here?"

WOLLASTON FORUM.
"Revision of the City Charter," was the subject of Walter P. Nichols before the Good Government Forum at the Wollaston Unitarian church, Sunday.
He spoke as follows:
"What are the specific matters with which we have to deal? We will start with the water department. A worthless plant was saddled on the city with an enormous permanent debt, and which cost the city $34,000 in unnecessary attorney and expert fees, to buy something the company was only too anxious to sell. It is claimed there is mismanagement of this department, that there is waste and extravagance in the laying of water pipe extensions, that there is an equitable and unprofitable assessment of water rates. It is claimed that with a thorough meter service and good business methods, the department could be made to pay for maintenance, maturing bonds and interest account and furnished consumers at a fair price.
"Unbusinesslike management of the sewer department, apportioning the cost of extensions and house connections, is also claimed and the borrowing of money for current expenses.
"There is a movement to abolish the $12 tax limit. There would be to be any of this question. Failure to collect the annual tax levy, creating a deficit for which no provision is made, favoritism in the assessing of valuations and collections of taxes is also charged.
Violations of the Charter by heads of departments in over-running appropriations is charged. Awarding city contracts without advertising and to irresponsible persons, and the participation, directly or indirectly of city officials of the profits and city patronage have been done and yet they say there is no graft in Quincy.
There is unlimited opportunity for the mayor to control. If the laborer in the street is a loafer, the clerk at city hall inefficient, heads of departments remiss, in their duties, if the police, fire and other departments are not managed in a business like and economical manner, there is just one man to be blamed. There is no division of responsibility the fault is with the man who have elected mayor.
The requirements of the office are broad, calling for a fearless, capable, disinterested honest citizen, not over politically ambitious. To say you cannot find such a man is to confess defeat. With a council of 25 men of the same caliber and type of man for mayor there is no doubt but the city business would be carried on in a perfectly satisfactory manner. A two years term of office for mayor seems desirable, but not longer. It is also suggested to curtail the duties of the mayor of public works, by conferring some of the duties upon a commission of three. It is claimed that with a smaller council the personnel will be improved.
In the discussion that followed P. W. White inquired the objection to a three year term for mayor and Rev. Carl G. Horst spoke in favor of advertising for an expert as mayor as is done in German cities.
John Morgan spoke in favor of a three year term for both mayor and city council. Chandler W. Smith spoke of a movement organized in Wollaston for the revision of the charter.
Mr. Nichols said two years was a very long term for mayor. Levi H. Turner spoke in favor of proportional government and urged that the question be taken up at the meetings of the Forum.

RAILROAD FATALITY.
Phillip Rossi aged 25 years of 104 Canal street a track walker employed on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. was instantly killed last Saturday morning on the main line between the Atlantic and Squantum street bridges. Rossi was walking on the outward rail toward Atlantic so that he could see any train approaching. An inward bound train however screened his view for a minute or so and he was struck by the engine. He was thrown some distance and when he reached him he was dead having been instantly killed. Examiner Jones was called and after viewing the body turned it over to the coroner. The unfortunate man was not married.

FALSE ALARM.
Two late hour citizens of Quincy were startled by the sounding of the No. 2 last night. The alarm was given at 1:15 Sunday morning, and one ran back for Officer Olson who had just passed them after examining the premises in the rear of the Welch and Faxon blocks. He returned and made another examination but everything appeared to be all right. The ringing alarm which attracted Officers Ford and Phillips who hurried to the place and they also made an examination. It is supposed that the bell arrangements was not in good order and some of the plugs loosened as the door was tried.

RED CROSS SEALS.
The Christmas Red Cross seals for this year are the prettiest ever issued by the National Anti-Tuberculosis Society and should carry the real Christmas spirit all over our land. Seals for sale in Quincy, to aid in the local anti-tuberculosis work, have not arrived but the committee hope to have them next week. Wait for the Quincy seal for it will aid Quincy needy cases, and when you buy, buy liberally as it is a worthy cause. This bright little seal makes a Christmas letter or package look very attractive.

THE ASSEMBLY.
One of the leading social events of the city is the Assembly, which has been an annual event for some years. It is an affair to which Quincy's social set look forward with real pleasure, for with exceptionally good music, a fine floor for dancing and congenial company, nothing more is needed. This year's event, which was held Nov. 29, was no exception to the rule. As usual it was held in Muehl and Pool's orchestra furnished the musical accompaniment.
The attendance was fully as large as in other years. The ladies vied with each other in the exquisiteness of their gowns and there were many beautiful creations and the scene on the floor during the many waltzes or more lively two step was indeed pretty to look upon. The assembly was held under the auspices of the Civic committee of the Quincy Women's club, while the ladies' faces among the participants in other years were missed their places were taken by a newer and perhaps somewhat younger set.
In the receiving party stationed in a cozy corner on one side of the hall near the platform, were Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, president of the Quincy Women's club, Mrs. Charles R. Safford and Mrs. Theophilus King. Mrs. Sheppard wore a gown of pale lavender, what deeper shade and Mrs. King a cream silk. They made a charming and stately group.
During the half hour previous to the dancing there was a reception during which the following well-known men ushered, George E. Pfaffman, C. Eaton Pierce, Ambler Welsh, Moreton T. Swallow, Horace R. Drinkwater, John H. Johnson, Edward E. Jameson, Laurence Sturtevant, Deleware King, Morton Smith, John S. Pfaffman, William L. Dewson, Hobart Lawton, Albert M. Parker, F. G. Thayer, William P. Thompson, Harry W. Porter, Lucien Thayer, John O. Scott, Carol Bill, R. Sibley, Herman F. McIntire, H. Currier, Jesse L. Litchfield, Joel F. Sheppard, Carl Sheppard, Arthur Thayer and Dr. W. G. Kendall.

Dancing commenced shortly after 8 o'clock and continued until 11:30, without intermission. The patronesses, many of whom were present and actively participating were the following well-known ladies:
Mrs. H. B. Barker, Mrs. W. S. Plinkham, Mrs. J. O. Short, Mrs. E. H. Sprague, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. H. A. Stevens, Mrs. E. B. Bird, Mrs. C. M. Bryant, Mrs. A. P. Homer, Mrs. F. A. SONG OF THANKSGIVING.
The customary evening service was modified Sunday evening to permit of the rendering by the choir of Mauder's "Song of Thanksgiving," an elaborate work in five sections, each descriptive of certain phases appropriate to the subject; the soloists were:—Mrs. James H. Slade, soprano; Mr. W. Carter, tenor; and Mr. J. W. McLeod, bass.
Both Mr. Carter and Mr. McLeod are well known as soloists to Quincy Episcopals, and fully maintained their reputations. The bulk of the solo work, however, rested with Mrs. Slade. This lady is well known in our city and many here have heard her sing at some time or other, but it is doubtful if many have heard her to such advantage, her solos called for an unusual amount of expression and were rendered delightfully.
The choir as a body did splendidly and much praise is due Professor Wrigley the organist and choirmaster especially so when it is borne in mind that but a few weeks ago he was a very sick man.
The pastor, Rev. R. E. Armstrong, announced an organ recital by Professor Wrigley, assisted by Mr. J. W. McLeod, vocalist, Wednesday evening December 11th at 8 o'clock, to which all denominations are invited. No tickets will be required and all seats will be free.

GOOD ADVICE.
Miss Floretta Vining of the Hull Beacon has some advice in this week's paper which is timely just now and to the point.
Do your Christmas shopping early. It will save a lot of worry aside from giving you a better opportunity for selection.
Better a simple gift in loving remembrance than an elaborate present given grudgingly.
Have the courage of your convictions and join the "Spring Movement." Christmas is running like wild-geese all over the country in the determination to stop the wicked extravagances at Christmas time. Get back to the simple and satisfying observance of the days as our grandfathers remember it.
There is neither "Peace on Earth, nor good will to men," when the women are all fagged out chasing after Christmas presents, and the men are in a chronic state of grouch at being expected to shovel out money for a lot of useless clap-trap things which ought to go for food and fuel.
It's a travesty on common sense to greet the "old man" on Christmas morning, with an "I wish you a merry Christmas," when you know full well that he's "dead broke" with a feeling in his heart that he'd like to kick all future Christmas days into a climate hotter than Hull.

NO-LICENSE.
President Cummings of the No-License League faced a large gathering in Music hall as he sounded the battle cry Sunday evening for the people of Quincy to vote and continue the city in the no license column. Many women were in attendance. Simultaneously, rallies were held in other parts of the city with good results.
Seated on the platform were Mayor Eugene R. Stone, James H. Pennington, and John L. Miller, candidates for mayor; George H. Sidelinger an officer of the league and A. F. Bromley of the Y. M. C. A.
Between the speaking, selections were rendered by the Nevin male quartette, and they were handsomely applauded.
Philip H. Emerson of Lynn was the principal speaker. Rev. B. A. Willmott of the Bethany Congregational church and Charles H. Johnson also spoke.
Rev. B. A. Willmott was the first speaker and said that to license liquor was as dangerous as licensing a doctor to practice who inoculated a patient with a tuberculosis germ. He said that liquor would always be with us, but by keeping it out of a city the gain could be more than the loss, from the financial standard as well as from the moral.
Charles H. Johnson said that the church and state united in fighting the issue. In his opinion the men of today seemed to be filled with a burning desire to tear down and he said that he expected to see the city, particularly the younger men, to perform their duty and vote against it. He thought a word should also be said to the older men, closed by quoting the French axiom, "With responsibility goes duty" and asked the assistance of all the citizens in removing a stumbling block from their path.
Mr. Cummings in introducing Mr. Emerson said that Lynn fought a life and death fight annually and Mr. Emerson received considerable applause.
He said he was glad to be in Quincy to repay the debt Lynn owed Quincy for a few years ago a Catholic clergyman, by a fine speech, was instrumental in keeping Lynn in the no license column. He reviewed the changes in Lynn since then and said that until the ballots were counted the people would not know the city's stand.

He said the brewers association poisoned the mind of the people against each other in trying to win. He urged that the new residents of Quincy be informed about the situation else sooner or later the city would be within the clutches of the dealers.
He said the argument was advanced that it was better socially to have it, but he found that people have provided their own amusements and frequent the theatres. As to illegal sales, he said that the police department was so busy looking after the saloons they could not enforce the other laws and he also mentioned that an investigation showed that horse meat sausages were on the free lunch counters.
He said he knew of a Lynn man who did not believe in license but would secure a permit if the city voted for it because he needed the "easy money."

The conditions of the city he said helped him favor the absence of liquor and he told of a wretched sight which he witnessed in a Lynn hotel.
He said Lynn was paying $1 extra in taxes to repair streets which were neglected during the license period and that no license cities generally had the lowest rate.
He spoke of the inefficiency of the workmen with liquor on sale in the city and said that the men who went to Boston to shop usually bought wet goods. The Lynn dealers admitted they were receiving more money and 90 per cent would favor no license if they dared come out openly.

Aside from the increase in drunkenness, the over taxing of the station and the home conditions, he said that the fire losses were greater, but that under no license conditions the conditions changed, the city assumed a different aspect and the school attendance was increased.
He closed by saying that in Lynn no license made good and he asked all to establish the habit of voting in its favor to keep it if you have it already.
The Quincy dealers will know that there is no hope in forcing on Quincy what had been faced year after year in Lynn.
The temperance rally in Memorial church, Sunday evening was presided over by Lynden T. Gurney, Rev. A. Wright of Cambridge expressed views in regard to temperance, no license and woman's suffrage, all of which he expressed as necessary for the best good, and the equal rights of all.

Mr. William T. Davy, who has recently come from London, England, made comparisons between the public house of England, with its bar-matens, and degrading influences, and the no license city of Quincy. He also said that the American ways are coming into English life.
Theophilus King, of Quincy spoke of "Capital Efficiency" in the liquor trade. He illustrated that capacity and efficiency were destroyed by the use of liquor. He gave statistics showing how in different tests, the non-user of liquor surpassed the drinker in every scientific test that could be made.
A no license rally of all the Wollaston churches was held in the Wollaston Congregational church, Sunday evening.
The speakers were R. C. Drinkwater, Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath Ph.D. and Rev. Carl G. Horst. Wendell H. Hull presided. A quartet, Samuel King, Miss Florence Burr, Miss Teresa Keating and Charles H. Everett sang selections and Clarence W. Rodgers was the organist.
Rufus B. Tobey spoke briefly on the no license question and through his kindness copies of "Ten nights in a barroom" were presented when the meeting adjourned.

R. C. Drinkwater of the Fore River Company favored no license from a business standpoint. He contrasted the evils of Pennsylvania's former home, where license rules with the present desirable conditions in Quincy.
Dr. Sneath spoke of his pleasure in coming from New Haven, Conn., where license reigns to Quincy which is in the "no" column. He was a feeble word when it came to the liquor question.
"I am not to speak tonight on 'What's the matter with Quincy,'" said Rev. Carl G. Horst, "but upon some of the good things we already have." He declared his pride in the fact that Quincy had been no-license for so long. He urged that it be kept so. Eternal vigilance, he declared, was the price of no license in this city.
The service closed with the singing of America.

ELKS SERVICE.
In compliance with the general law of the State of Massachusetts, and in order of Elks, Quincy lodge in common with other lodges throughout the country held a service Sunday in memory of brothers who have been called to the higher lodge above. The exercises were held in the clubhouse on Foster street at 8 o'clock. In the evening and were very largely attended. The rooms were decorated for the occasion with large American flags and two large portraits of Frederick W. Tirrell and William J. Coleman, Past Exalted Rulers of Quincy lodge who have passed, were draped in mourning.
The exercises were confined to the ritual and were conducted by Exalted Ruler Philip H. Sullivan and Clarence L. Quincy the chaplain of the lodge. During the exercises the Temple quartette sang three selections "Our Absent Brother," "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Lead Kindly Light."
In addition to the ritual and music Alphonse E. Leclair read "Thanetopsis" which was made unusually effective by the electric light effects arranged for the occasion.
Quincy lodge has lost two members since the last memorial services. James F. Burke, one of the trustees of the lodge and Dr. George R. England, making seventeen members who have died since the lodge was instituted in 1905.

ST. JOHN'S MISSION.
The Jesuit mission for the women of the St. John's parish closed Sunday afternoon. Under the direction of Rev. Fr. Condon, there was a renewal of baptismal vows. The papal blessing was also conferred on those present. Arrangements were made to start a sodality for the women of the parish, to be organized immediately. Fr. Condon delivered a short sermon on the fruitful results of a good mission and said that he was pleased with the attendance at all times. Benediction was solemnized by Rev. Fr. Conon, pastor of the church.
The first mass of the men's mission was celebrated at 10:30 Sunday morning by Rev. Fr. Scannell. A sermon on Purgatory was delivered by Rev. Fr. Coyle. In the evening both the mission fathers spoke. Masses will be said for those making the mission at 5 and 9 o'clock and the regular masses will be at 7 and 8 o'clock. Evening services will be 7:30 o'clock.

PRESENTATION.
When David Wolfe, foreman of the No. 2 last night, was in the W. L. Douglas shoe factory at Brockton, was eating his lunch, Nov. 29, the employees of the department gathered around him. John J. Daley, foreman of the No. 1 making room stepped forward and in behalf of the boys presented Mr. Wolfe with a beautiful ring set with a white heart stone and a leather covered Morris chair. Although completely surprised Mr. Wolfe responded briefly and thanked the friends for their kindly act and invited them to his home in North Weymouth. He assured them that he should have a pleasant holiday dream bring back old memories while taking his after dinner nap in that chair.
Mr. Wolfe is very popular with the employees of the company.

The death of Robert Collier is the passing of one of the most remarkable characters in American history.

Now that the war is over we may expect some thrilling stories from men who were not within miles of the real theatre of the events.

The inaugural ceremonies may be postponed but at the same time the president must take the oath of office on March 4 and that it seems is the crux of the whole situation. The social events should cut very little figure as they have no part or parcel in the government.

Every one will from Boston. Fine! But who wants to take the trip from New England to New York to make the journey across the Atlantic when they can save time and money by taking a shorter route.

Why should the Port directors of Boston offer $25,000 and a bonus of $1000 a day for the fulfilling of a legitimate contract on time? That seems to be a needless expenditure of the people's money.

There should really be no need of admonishing people to keep to the right. They should be familiar with the rules of the road and study their own comfort and convenience along those lines.

Another billion dollar congress in sight which of course adds its portion to the high cost of living.

The same trip to cities, Brockton, Quincy and Waltham remained in the dry column of the fourteen cities held elections yesterday.

The military drill in the public schools is condemned by Edwin D. Mead because he believes it is unnecessary. If he had added that it was likewise very expensive he would have struck another objection which many parents feel.

THE MAYORALTY.

With the closing of the polls Tuesday came the climax of the war of the three cornered mayorality contest in the history of the city, and one which was marked by many peculiar features. Every one predicted that the contest would be close. In fact so close did many figure the result that none would dare hazard a guess. Richards, Dorothy Stevens and Helen Moulton.

The lighting was by Roy C. Baker. Mrs. A. R. Moulton was the accompanist. The fair will continue the afternoon and evening.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET.

Plans for the Father and Son banquet at the Y. M. C. A. are nearly completed and the expectations are that it will be a very enjoyable affair. One of the features of the evening will be bowling matches between the fathers and sons after the banquet. The speaker of the evening will be H. W. Gilman, president of the Boys in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. His subject will be "A Father and His Boy." The toastmaster is to be Sturgis Hunt. A committee of ladies from the Auxiliary is arranging a splendid banquet. The affair is to take place on Friday, the thirteenth which is supposed to be an unfortunate day by many, but it is the intention of the Y. M. C. A. boys to break the hoodoo on this occasion.

GUILD SUPPER.

Escalloped oysters were the main feature at a largely attended supper of the Women's Guild in the vestry of the Park and Downs church, Wednesday evening. This started the campaign to raise $900 to meet a donation by Andrew Carnegie for a church organ. A check which already shows $145 has been put up in vestry.

The next event is the sale of handkerchiefs and cooked food at the store of A. E. Walker, Newport avenue, Wollaston, Tuesday.

The officers of the Guild are Mrs. Charles F. Bryant, president; Mrs. Catherine Robinson, vice-president; Mrs. Harry Dunham, recording secretary; Mrs. Helen Boynton, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Fred Robinson, treasurer.

The supper committee consisted of Mrs. Alonzo V. Bissett, Mrs. Frank Knowlton, Miss H. C. Gram, Mrs. W. K. Brown, Mrs. L. I. Mosman, Miss Fannie Fraser, Miss Marjorie Brown, Mrs. Henry Letson, Mrs. Arnetus Dingwell and Mrs. Lyons.

QUINCY POINT ENTERTAINMENT.

A supper, entertainment and sale was held at the Quincy Point church Thursday afternoon and evening. The affair was in charge of the ladies and was a fine success. The young ladies of the Bethany Church gave a two act farce "When Women Vote" which was a take off on the time when Woman Suffrage will be a factor in affairs.

Miss Esther Beckford as Mrs. Jamieson an apostle of suffrage was sincere and eloquent and Miss Esther Slinger as her 17 year old daughter was sentimentally perfect. Miss Esther Wetherall as Mrs. Delano, a wealthy widow who was homeless from choice, presented a rather pathetic picture and Miss Florence Subean as Mrs. Brownell and a mother of six was marooned and gay with her family. Miss Marjorie Welch, as Hannah, an old fashioned helper, did her part to perfection.

The first act opens in the Jamieson house and a month elapses, during which time difficulties are overcome and tangles straightened out.

The young ladies were assisted by Miss Gertrude Shaw and Miss Roberta Smith.

Music between the acts was furnished by Mrs. Arthur B. Foster and Miss Helen M. Lincoln.

WOLLASTON ALLIANCE FAIR.

A large number attended the opening of the fair of the Wollaston Unitarian church Alliance, at the vestry Wednesday afternoon and evening and the patronage at the various attractive booths was quite liberal.

As one entered, the first feature was a Japanese table, the material loaned by a Boston Japanese goods merchant, tea was served and articles of Japanese manufacture on sale by ladies in the daytime costume of that land.

Situated in one corner was a novel grab. This consisted of a large wheel from which a train of cars, bearing the grab, came upon a system of the requisite fee. The magic words and the mystery box were other features here.

At a pair of accurate scales two keen witted young men, Axel Nelson and Harold Green, came remarkably near missing the weight of those who submitted themselves.

The stock net with ready sale and the booths displaying them were most attractive. Among them were, the delicatessen, candy, household, handkerchiefs, neckwear, toys, children's clothing, bags, ice cream, etc.

A pleasing entertainment under the direction of Mrs. William E. Rowe was given both afternoon and evening. In the afternoon a series of fancy dances were given by Ramah Baker and Florence Crowell, including the sailor's hornpipe by the former and the waltz by the latter.

The evening entertainment opened with a fancy dance by Miss Edith Pratt of Braintree followed by a flower dance by six diminutive young ladies. This was very pretty and closed with a song "Pretty little flowers" by Doris Turner in the costume of a flower girl. Those taking part were Verna Carr, Mildred Giddes, Judith Page, Sidney Simmons and Hope Robinson.

Miss Ruth Jones gave a very pretty fancy dance. A stereoscopic entertainment which included a lecture on Mexico by Frederick H. Bishop was the next feature. Between the pictures, artistic advertisements of local dealers from the brush of Miss Edna Sanborn were cast on the screen.

The minut was danced with grace and coquetry. The ladies in elaborate costume with full skirts and powdered tresses, the gentlemen brave in knickerbockers and white wigs, the group made a picture not soon to be forgotten.

Those taking part were Stanley Cummings, Horton Jones, Ned Taylor, Gordon Ross, Louise Emery, Helen Richards, Dorothy Stevens and Helen Moulton.

The lighting was by Roy C. Baker. Mrs. A. R. Moulton was the accompanist. The fair will continue the afternoon and evening.

The committee in charge were: Delicatessen—Mrs. A. C. Armstrong, Mrs. C. H. Brigham, Mrs. Edmund S. Taylor, Miss Maria Weston, Mrs. George R. Thompson, Miss Gertrude Lacey, Miss Nina Lacey, Mrs. Mortimer Harris, Mrs. Charles E. Monroe, Mrs. Charles T. Baker, Mrs. Chas. M. Bryant.

CHURCH DEBT CLEARED.

The mortgage on the Finnish Congregational church was cleared last week on Thanksgiving evening when the congregation gathered at a celebration service in the church, which was cremated. With only one bill of $150 unpaid after 2 years, the church and furnishings, valued at $8,000 are free and clear from debt.

Mayor Eugene R. Stone, in an able manner delivered an address relating to the church and its future, which was well received by the congregation.

Rev. K. F. Henrikson a former pastor and now at Lanesville, Mass., was the principal speaker. He reviewed the history of the parish, recalling many incidents that had become but a hazy remembrance to many members.

When Rev. Mr. Lillback called for the original mortgage, only 19 stood up. At the present time there is a congregation of nearly 400.

The program for the evening was opened by congregational singing and selections by the choir, directed by M. Leppanen. A series of announcements were made by Rev. Mr. Lillback and a chorus of young ladies rendered the Sparrow Song, conducted by Miss Esther Kokkinen.

The Thanksgiving greeting, reading of the Proclamation, and prayer was by Rev. Mr. Lillback. Scriptural lessons were read by Rev. Mr. Lillback, and guitar selections by P. Talikka, a young missionary, followed.

M. Riikiniemi, chairman of the church, read from the first record book and gave an account of parish.

The Finnish Congregational church was organized Sept. 8, 1866, with 12 members by Rev. A. Group of Fitchburg. Rev. J. K. Lindroos, shortly after his arrival from Finland, became their leader and in 1896 Karl F. Henrikson was called to Quincy after he graduated from the Theological Seminary at Chicago.

The church was commenced Feb. 1, 1898 and dedicated Jan. 25, 1899. Rev. J. E. Lillback was called from Maynard to serve as pastor to take the place of Rev. Mr. Henrikson who resigned.

Rev. Mr. Lillback accepted the call and during the past few years there has been a most marvelous growth in membership, and prosperous development.

Charity, temperance and all the social questions are discussed by the members, and political matters receive their share of attention. A fertile field for naturalization has been opened up and is being rapidly cultivated by Rev. Mr. Lillback who is today assisting five countrymen to secure their certificates of citizenship.

The church is now too small for the congregation and steps will be taken in the near future to make the necessary enlargements.

AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Ernest L. Collins, headmaster at Quincy High school will speak at the boys meeting, Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock on the subject "Play Fair."

The meeting is to be held in the gymnasium before the regular Junior class work. Admission to the floor is by tag only.

CITY ELECTION.

Mayor Eugene R. Stone was re-elected by the close margin of 90 votes over his nearest competitor, James H. Pennington with John L. Miller, in third place but by the size of his vote a strong factor in the race. The vote was Stone 1742, Pennington 1652, and Miller 1605. A blanket of 150 votes could be thrown and cover the three candidates. Stone led Miller by 137 votes, and Pennington led the third man by only 47 votes.

The majority against License fell off somewhat this year from a year ago. Last year the majority for No was 1758 while this year the No majority was cut to 1445. Every precinct in the city with the exception of two gave a majority for No. The two to favor license were Ward 2 precinct 1 and Ward 4 precinct 2. The silent vote was 344 as against 323 last year.

The two questions of interest were the question of extending Civil Service rules to the Chief of Fire Department, and the days off for the firemen.

The vote on this question was 1936 yes and 2082 no, a majority of 146 against accepting the amendment and thus taking the fire department head out of politics.

The question of days off for firemen was carried by a majority of 634. This means that the firemen will receive one day off in every five and that quite an additional sum will be required for the year for pay of men in the Fire Department.

The question of accepting the building act also won out by a large majority. There was no opposition to John D. Mackay for School Committee from Ward One or William G. Curtis for School Committee from Ward Five. There was a contest however for School Committee-at-large, but Dr. Edward H. Bushnell was re-elected by a majority of 1209.

RECENT WANTED.

James H. Pennington, Democratic candidate for Mayor at the recent Municipal election, stated Wednesday evening that he should ask for a recount of the votes cast for Mayor in Ward Five. Speaking of the vote in that precinct one of his ward he said that there was a mixup of some kind in the returns and even now the election officers can not seem to explain it. According to some of the election officers 50 votes have gone astray. Continuing Mr. Pennington said in the interest of all persons, it should be definitely settled what the vote of that precinct really was and that the man entitled to the votes should have them placed to his credit.

NOVEL SCHOOL PLANNED.

The annual social of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union will be held in Bethany church, Monday evening, Dec. 9 at 7.45 o'clock. The committee in charge headed by Miss Agnes A. Fisher, chairman, has planned a fine program. The event is not to be the usual cut and dry social but is a "Trip through the Mountains."

The committee is planning for 250 people. The contest for the Union banner promises to be keen at this meeting. The Atlantic Memorial society is striving hard to retain it but there are several dark horses among the twelve contestants.

FIRST CHURCH FAIR.

The annual sale and supper under the auspices of the Treatment society of the First Church was held Wednesday afternoon and evening in the chapel. There was a good attendance of ladies during the late afternoon and many sales were made from the various booths where articles, suitable for Christmas, were on sale.

The several booths were very attractively decorated with green crepe paper and crepe paper poinsettias, and they were presided over by members of the society. Mrs. Edward B. Marsh was in charge and the booths were presided over and attended by the following ladies.

Mystery booth—Miss Mary Nightingale, Mrs. Ralph L. Lovell, Mrs. Alfred H. Remick, Miss Ada M. Nightingale, Miss Maria Whitney.

Grab bag—Mrs. A. E. Abel Davis, Mrs. Joseph L. Whitton, Mrs. Mary Holden, Mrs. Warren Anderson, Miss Nellie Nightingale.

Fancy and remembrance booth—Mrs. William B. Nichols, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Mrs. Frederick H. Smith, Mrs. George W. Abbe, Mrs. Samuel T. Macquarrie, Mrs. Albert H. Wright, Mrs. Brooks Keyes, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, Mrs. Archer Nickerson, Miss Harriet Pierce, Mrs. Harry L. Rice, Mrs. Eugene Atwood, Mrs. James H. Stetson, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Charles A. Price.

The ladies of the Alliance headed by the president Mrs. George G. Saville had charge of the tea room which was located on the platform. Mrs. Saville being assisted by Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. John Christensen, and Mrs. Minnie Manchester. The young lady servers were Miss Priscilla Ring, Miss Margaret Magee, Miss Dorothy Kilton, Miss Margaret Atwood and Miss Alice Parmeter.

During the afternoon the ladies in charge of the supper were busy in the kitchen and dining room, planning to provide supper for the hungry ones that were sure to appear on the scene at 6.30. Mrs. E. Granville Pratt had charge of this part of the affair and she was assisted by the following ladies:

Mrs. Nathaniel S. Hunting, Mrs. Osborne Rogers, Mrs. George T. Maguire, Mrs. Frank S. Patch, Mrs. Joseph Walker, Mrs. Robert R. Smith, Mrs. Horace G. Crooker, Mrs. Walter E. Piper, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. William F. Hodgkinson and Mrs. John Christensen.

The afternoon for the supper included cold ham, tongue and lamb, potatoes in various styles, macaroni, several kinds of salads, rolls, coffee and pie of several varieties.

The seating capacity of the dining room is about 120 and so many were present to partake of the good things that a second table was necessary, something like 200 in all participating in the supper.

The tables looked particularly attractive with numerous potted plants, which were sold later in the evening. The sale was a great success and a large sum was netted.

RIVERSIDE SOCIAL.

The monthly social of the Women's Riverside Club took place in the clubhouse Wednesday afternoon. A program was given and well received by a large number who attended. The opening number was a piano solo by George O'Donnell. D. M. Baker gave a hortative solo and responded to an encore.

A paper on "The Life and Letters of Charles Lamb" was read by Mrs. Winnie Watts of Winthrop. The paper was mostly biographical and contained several references to his life and work. The paper was comprehensive and greatly enjoyed by the members.

R. D. Green rendered a tenor solo and Mr. O'Donnell closed the program by another piano solo. Refreshments were served at the adjournment.

The afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Annie F. Harmon, who was assisted by Mrs. E. R. Stone, Mrs. T. L. Williams, Mrs. Thompson B. Crane and Mrs. E. R. Blanchard.

The officers of the club are: President, Mrs. C. W. Guy; Vice-President, Mrs. C. W. Guy; Secretary, Mrs. Margaret D. Mitchell; Treasurer, Mrs. Margaret D. Mitchell.

NEW MASTER.

The annual communication of Wollaston Masonic lodge was held in the Masonic apartments at Wollaston Tuesday evening. The annual reports of the treasurer, secretary, finance committee and trustees of the permanent fund showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition. The following officers were elected:

Worshipful Master—Charles E. Cherrington.

Junior Warden—Carroll E. Bates.

Senior Warden—John Morgan.

Treasurer—Alfred H. Richards.

Secretary—Woodbury Pinkham.

Senior Deacon—George A. Smith.

Junior Deacon—Hugh H. Ralph.

Trustee of Permanent Fund—Frank P. Waterhouse.

Associate member board of Masonic Relief—Walter S. Pinkham.

Proxy to Grand Lodge—Albert W. Fay.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

Junior Friday club had a pleasant meeting Monday afternoon with Miss Abigail Baxter Wood of School street. Mrs. Alfred P. Thompson was in charge of the program which dwelt with the Scottish invasions of Ireland, the sub topics being Effects, Statute of Kilkenny and War of Roses. Two members were missed, Mrs. Jesse L. Litch who is in Buffalo, and Mrs. L. H. Sturtevant who is in Georgia. The new members were both present.

The Christmas meeting of Wollaston Alliance on Dec. 15 is to be in charge of Mrs. Atwood.

Mrs. Ralph of 39 Elm avenue is to be the hostess, Monday afternoon for the December meeting of the Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. L. B. Titus will read a paper on "Reminiscences of old houses."

The meeting of Quincy Alliance on Monday afternoon in First Church chapel will be the only one for the month and will be a Christmas meeting with a program in charge of Mrs. Frank S. Davis, Dec. 23. The Alliance will hold a Christmas party for children following the custom of previous years.

Plays of Sophocles will be the subject for the next meeting of the Friday club on Dec. 13. Mrs. Frank A. Day of Wollaston will be the hostess and Mrs. Ernest Cockayne, the committee.

Miss Elizabeth Cook will be chairman for the Dec. 12th meeting of the Atlantic Shakespear Society when act three of King John will be taken up for study.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney of the Quincy Women's club and State Federation is a very busy woman these days having no less than a half dozen lecture courses under way among the clubs in and about Quincy.

Junior Alliance of First church is doing a very practical work at its meetings this winter in sewing for the Visiting Nurses, who find need of the garments as soon as made. The next meeting will be Dec. 9 at half past seven in First Church chapel.

At the meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery Association Tuesday afternoon the absence of any one of the following donations were reported as received during November: Mrs. Geo. E. Pfaffmann one dozen dish towels and kettle; First Church Sunday school basket of vegetables; Dorcas Society Universalist church odds and ends; a rummage sale; Quincy Home turkey and vegetables; Mrs. W. H. Doble two dozen oranges.

Notes and Comments.

—With half a million dollar appropriation in prospect for a new City hall and park improvement, and asking congress for $100,000 for a federal building, Malden is a little ambitious.—Salem News.

—France has spent $4,000,000 this year, and will spend $5,000,000 next year on flying war machines. So far the only practical use of aviation seems to be in preparation for war and for stunts at amusement parks.—New Bedford Standard.

—A Brooklyn justice sentenced a man convicted of manslaughter to contribute to the support of his victim's widow for one year. This was a common sense penalty, but the judge probably went outside his strict authority when he imposed it.—New Bedford Standard.

—President Butler of Columbia university calls for $16,000,000, mainly to carry on the work the university has already undertaken. Since its resources have been increased by nearly $19,000,000 during the past eleven years, the scope of Columbia's educational activities is thus emphasized.—Tanton Herald.

—Why criticize the charges for second class mail matter when the rubbish sent out during the last fiscal year under the franking privilege, by politicians, would have yielded the government $500,000, if proper postage had been paid? Here is a real abuse that should be remedied without delay.—Banker and Tradesman.

—His leg burned until a six-square inch skin graft was necessary, did not prevent John Kelly from making a 150-mile trip from Montana to Spokane under a box car. Kelly suffered the injury when his tent burned over him in a mining camp. Having no money, he boarded the first freight and made the perilous trip in spite of the terrible blizzards. Kelly is recovering rapidly, following an operation.

—When you hear a man sneering at your local paper because it is not big like the city papers, you can safely bet he does not squander any of his wealth to help build up the town or work in the interest of anybody but his own selfish being; and more than this, that generally the paper has done far more for him than he has for it. The man who cannot see the great benefits arising from a local newspaper is about as much value to a town as a last year's bird's nest or a delinquent tax list.—Foxboro Reporter.

—The Ellis milk bill will come up before the legislature next year, and is receiving greater support than before, because it is better understood. Massachusetts milk must be inspected, and it is to the advantage of our own producers as well as the consumer, to compel the dairies of other states to conform to the same standard of cleanliness. The consumers simply want the plainest milk to keep their places as clean as the great majority of consumers here, and nothing fancy or expensive is desired—just ordinary decency.—Old Colony Memorial.

—The "prominent member" of the National Retail Druggists' Association, who wishes to have the Sherman Act amended so as to permit of combinations of retailers to fix prices, may as well make up his mind first as last that the thing won't work. The time has gone by when such an idea could be considered for a moment. Furthermore, if such a form of "trust" was legalized, it would not work. It is unlikely that all dealers would voluntarily come in to the "trust," and if they did, it would completely exterminate competition. That anyone in these days should think of such a thing is absurd.—Banker and Tradesman.

—It seems very likely that the cause of Woman Suffrage in Massachusetts will win out very shortly. To amend the constitution allowing this, it is necessary that the state legislature vote favorably for two successive years, after which the matter is submitted to the voters for a referendum vote and a majority vote in favor is all that is necessary. As all three of the big political party's platforms were in favor of passing it along to the people as soon as possible it seems inevitable that the coming legislatures will vote favorably, so as to allow the people to pass upon it. It is possible, therefore, that the women may be voting within three years, and let us hope they will be.—Framingham News.

OLD HOUSE RAZED.

A pile of debris is all that is left of the old building on Hancock street which has been for the past three years an eye sore, a bill board, and a firetrap. Years ago, the place was one of Wollaston's best residences, but through neglect and the buffeting of the weather, it has furnished an opportunity for complaint from residents and the fire departments alike.

The property is owned by William Faxon of Buffalo, New York. His agent in this city is H. T. Whitman and the property will be developed. The wreckage is being disposed of by Knox S. Ruggles who razed the building.

CITY COUNCIL.

Forty-five minutes sufficed to transact all the business that came before the City Council Monday evening. The absent members were Councilmen Able, Cunningham, Devaney, Mahoney and Sodergren, who, under a venire was received for the drawing of traverse jurors for the December sitting of the superior court. The Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Richards drew the following according to law:

Paul P. Poland, John Williams, John J. Fallon, Albert W. Finley, Henry T. Gallagher, Charles W. Read, Andrew J. Fahey.

A communication was received from the City Auditor asking for an increase in salary. Referred to Finance Committee.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Chief of Police asking for an additional appropriation of $246 to pay the Telephone Co. for work done. This amount is in addition to the sum of $1,200 appropriated earlier in the year to place the Wollaston and Atlantic police signs.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works asking for an appropriation of $1,000 to retube the boilers at the High school. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

A communication was received from the School Committee asking for the following transfers:

$150 from Operation to Administration.

$225 from Operation to Miscellaneous.

$90 from Operation to Maintenance.

$150 from Industrial Day school to Industrial Evening school.

The unexpended balance remaining to the Instruction account on Dec. 30, to Stationery.

The unexpended balance of Text Books appropriation to Stationery.

All referred to Finance Committee.

Petitions from the New England Telephone Co. for attachments on Kendrick avenue, Federal avenue, East Squantum street and Fayette street were granted.

Petitions from the Electric Light Co. for a relocation of poles on Avon way, Whitney road, and Cranich street were granted.

Petitions from the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles on East Elm avenue, Quincy street and Dixwell avenue were referred to Committee on Streets.

The Finance Committee reported ought not to pass on the order for $1,000 for suppression of the Gray Mole. The report brought out quite a discussion in which Councilmen Studley, Richards and Bailey participated. During this discussion it was brought out that in order for the city to get any return from the state it was necessary to expend some $5,000 in any one year for the gypsy moth work. That the amount expended on private property was not included in that state financial year closed Dec. 1, and even if an appropriation was made at this time it would not benefit the city by getting any return from the state. The report of the Committee was then accepted.

The Finance Committee reported no legislation necessary on the communication from the Mayor and Board of Health relative to an appropriation for Miscellaneous Board of Health. Report accepted.

The Committee on Ordinances reported an ordinance prohibiting hanging the course of brooks, etc., and the filling of natural water ways with refuse, etc. Ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on the petition of the Hayman Sochet for a license to conduct a slaughter house. Report accepted.

The same committee reported orders granting a common victualler's license to Gertrude Hill and a Sunday fruit license to Mrs. A. Anderson. Orders adopted.

The Committee on Sewers reported reference to the Executive on the petitions for sewers on Hancock street, Atlantic and Arnold street. Report accepted.

The Special Committee on Financial Investigation reported an order for a public hearing Dec. 9, at 8 o'clock on the resolution that the Mayor petition the legislature for a date appropriation for a public bath house on the Quincy Shore reservation. Adopted.

The School Committee on Financial Investigation reported a substitute resolve for the resolve requesting the Mayor to petition the legislature to exempt Quincy from the amount it can raise by taxation for current expenses. The amendment authorizing the Mayor to petition the legislature that the City of Quincy be given authority to raise $14 per $1,000 valuation for current expenses instead of $12 per $1,000 valuation for a period of three years.

Councilman Richards said that there was a copy of opinion on the advisability of this matter. He reported the question as fully as it could. He did not believe that the City Council was sufficiently informed to vote intelligently on the matter and he therefore moved the order be laid on the table. The motion prevailed.

A public hearing was held at 8:15 on the petition to have the old building on Greenwood avenue Wollaston removed as it was a menace to public safety. No one appeared for or against the order. Councilman Barker however spoke briefly on the question stating that the building had been partly burned and it was a fire menace. He was interrupted by President Hobbs who stated that it was a little out of form for a member of the Council to argue the question at that time.

Miss Higgins gave an incident replete with interest and startling circumstances and with her audience in a highly nervous condition brought happy cries of what appeared to be an inevitable blood curdling fatality.

The other members added to the general entertainment with various stories and anecdotes making the evening pass all too quickly. Miss Helen Cunningham's musical selections were much enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served. Should any one in the city desire to organize a magazine club and wish for any particulars concerning same, each and every member of this one at the Point would gladly give all help possible.

NEW ADAMS SCHOOL BUILDING IN WARD THREE

OLD MAGAZINE CLUB.

Saturday evening, the Quincy Point Magazine club observed its twenty-fifth anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Smith, who entertained in a most hospitable manner. The report brought out quite a discussion in which Councilmen Studley, Richards and Bailey participated. During this discussion it was brought out that in order for the city to get any return from the state it was necessary to expend some $5,000 in any one year for the gypsy moth work. That the amount expended on private property was not included in that state financial year closed Dec. 1, and even if an appropriation was made at this time it would not benefit the city by getting any return from the state. The same committee reported orders granting a common victualler's license to Gertrude Hill and a Sunday fruit license to Mrs. A. Anderson. Orders adopted.

The Committee on Sewers reported reference to the Executive on the petitions for sewers on Hancock street, Atlantic and Arnold street. Report accepted.

The Special Committee on Financial Investigation reported a substitute resolve for the resolve requesting the Mayor to petition the legislature to exempt Quincy from the amount it can raise by taxation for current expenses. The amendment authorizing the Mayor to petition the legislature that the City of Quincy be given authority to raise $14 per $1,000 valuation for current expenses instead of $12 per $1,000 valuation for a period of three years.

Councilman Richards said that there was a copy of opinion on the advisability of this matter. He reported the question as fully as it could. The other members added to the general entertainment with various stories and anecdotes making the evening pass all too quickly. Miss Helen Cunningham's musical selections were much enjoyed by all.

NEW ADAMS SCHOOL.

One of the campaign issues this year has been the new Adams school building in Ward Three, work upon which has already been commenced. At the present stage however, but little can be seen of how the building and grounds will look when the building is completed and the grading of the lot finished.

It will be of much interest therefore to the residents of Ward Three and the children who will later on occupy the building to see just what the citizens are to get for the money expended. The accompanying picture will be studied with interest as it gives a true view of the building and grounds as they will appear when completed.

Much has also been said first and last about the stone wall that is necessary to build on one side of the building. The fact is that the school committee set the building on a side hill which made it necessary for a sustaining wall but will be seen by the picture however the wall will add to the fitness of the building. It is thought that entrance was effected through the pantry window which the occupants are not sure was locked.

The break was probably made after 9:30 as the delivery clerk of Crothers and Selders, Wollaston grocers, who said everything appeared to be all right when he left some goods on the back porch at that hour.

The other break attempt occurred Tuesday night when someone tried to cut through a panel of the rear door at the Park Pharmacy, corner of Beach and Hancock streets.

A fine supper was served by a committee consisting of Mrs. L. Wendell Gammons, Mrs. George Charnock and Mrs. Henry Pletsch.

At the entertainment piano solos by Ernest Ruth Cahill and cornet solos by Miss Pletsch were enjoyed.

"Whipping a boy" and other selections were recited by Rachel McTeague, and Maize, telling how the little town of Round Pond, in the Pine Tree State figured quite conspicuously in the home life and happiness of a number in that distant territory.

Mr. Thomas contributed a bit of interesting history of this section of old Quincy and exhibited a copy of the early deed recorded in the town showing the purchase of the land from the Indians.

Miss Higgins gave an incident replete with interest and startling circumstances and with her audience in a highly nervous condition brought happy cries of what appeared to be an inevitable blood curdling fatality.

The other members added to the general entertainment with various stories and anecdotes making the evening pass all too quickly. Miss Helen Cunningham's musical selections were much enjoyed by all.

WOLLASTON BREAK.

The second attempted break in Wollaston within a week was successfully pulled off at the residence of Dr. B. F. Bowles, 72 Brook street, Saturday evening. The house was thoroughly ransacked but the burglars were evidently after cash as they carried away about $10 belonging to Mrs. Bowles.

Dr. and Mrs. Bowles attended a dinner in Jamaica Plain Saturday evening leaving home about 6:30. On their return about 12:30 the doctor went to the kitchen for a drink of water and found the back door open.

This aroused suspicion and upon investigation it was found the house had been thoroughly searched. The rooms were strewn with burnt matches, the majority of the curtains had been pulled down and bureau drawers were tipped over. The pantry window was ajar and one of the chamber windows had been opened, probably with the intent of making escape over the piazza roof easy in event of being surprised.

The money was in a desk, the contents of which were missing. It is thought that entrance was effected through the pantry window which the occupants are not sure was locked.

The break was probably made after 9:30 as the delivery clerk of Crothers and Selders, Wollaston grocers, who said everything appeared to be all right when he left some goods on the back porch at that hour.

The other break attempt occurred Tuesday night when someone tried to cut through a panel of the rear door at the Park Pharmacy, corner of Beach and Hancock streets.

GRAHAM-CORLIS.

Robert B. Graham, treasurer of the Graham Shoe Co., at 266 Washington street, Boston, called his brother "Jack" at Milton on the phone Nov. 29 and informed him that his stenographer, Miss Alice Corliss of Dorchester "was through." When "Jack" asked why he was told that on Thanksgiving eve they had been married and that they were en route to New York. The groom is well known in this city and his marriage was a great surprise.

UNCLAIMED LETTERS.

Letters addressed to the following persons remained unclaimed at the Quincy post office for the week ending Nov. 30:

Annah L. Batchelder, Anton Belkiewicz, Edmund Bayson, Mrs. Samuel Brough, E. W. Davis, Mrs. P. A. Fagan, Maize Ferry, Miss Violet Hilliard, Mrs. John Holland, (two letters), Roy Horsman, Mrs. Frida Hultquist, Hurd Manufacturing & Distilling Co., MI Jarden, Miss Edla Jansen, Ernest Johnson, Mrs. Lillie Johnson, Ernest Klein, A. The Quincy Patriot

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1912

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

Quincy, Nov. 4, 1912.
Mrs. Mary E. Addison, Secretary.
Quincy Charitable Society.—
After thirty-one years of continuous service as treasurer of the Quincy Charitable Society, I feel it is best for me to relinquish the work, and ask that my resignation be accepted.
Helen L. Bass, Treasurer.

Quincy, Dec. 6, 1912.
Mrs. Helen L. Bass:

The Quincy Charitable Society, receiving with almost regret, your resignation and honoring your treasurer for the past thirty-one years, and showing their appreciation for her faithful services, resolved at the monthly meeting Dec. 5, 1912, the society present this testimonial of their gratitude.
Mary E. Addison, Secretary.

THE WOLLASTON FORUM.

All who keep in touch with city affairs are aware that one of the most important questions to be submitted to the voters in the near future is the question of revising the city charter. To prepare the citizens to vote intelligently on this matter the Forum, which meets Sundays at 12 o'clock in the Wollaston Unitarian church, invited ex-Mayor Charles M. Bryant, one of the best qualified men in Quincy to speak on this subject, to address its meeting last Sunday. Mr. Bryant spoke for nearly an hour on "A practical review of the revision of our city charter for better government." DOCK HEARING.

There was about an attendance of 200 citizens at the public hearing held in the Council Chamber Thursday evening by the special committee of the City Council and citizens committee on the public dock question. Under the new order passed Monday evening the scope of the committee was enlarged so that they could consider the advisability of establishing a public dock as well as to consider the question of site. Hon. William T. Shea presided and in opening said that the committee would divide the question of site and then the question of advisability. A number of facts however, were heard developed into a question of site. The hearing was a lengthy one and it developed that there was considerable opposition to the establishment of the dock.

The speakers were Peter T. Fallon, John Gallagher, Ex-Mayor Charles M. John D. Smith, Councilman-elect Joseph L. Whitton, Robert F. Claffin, Senator-elect John P. McDermitt, John Q. A. Field, Capt. Daniel C. Higgins and Dr. John F. Welch.

The committee deemed the question so important that it would continue the hearing until next Wednesday evening at 7.30.

The man who was struck by every member of his family for a ten dollar Christmas shopping spree, understands why it has been called Xmas.

People who have to rush for the train every day should learn to get up a little earlier mornings, providing they can make good use of the time.

It is up to the Citizens of Quincy to say if they want a public dock. The responsibility should not be shirked. It should not be decided by a couple of hundred people when there are nearly 6000 registered voters who have an equal interest in the enterprise.

By the way let every one who can do their shopping right here at home. They will find prices reasonable and patronizing home industry is one of the first principles of patriotism.

As President-elect Wilson has declined the Panama Trip President Taft is of the mind that it would not be a bad thing for him to take an official farewell look at the big ditch.

DO YOUR SHARE. Red Cross Christmas Seals are now on sale in Quincy. These seals go to fight tuberculosis right here in Quincy.

Seventeen and one half percent of the money received goes to the state and national Anti-tuberculosis association, but 87 1-2 percent is used right here in town for needy people who are tubercular.

CABARET SUPPER. A large number turned out at the cabaret supper held by the men's club of St. Christopher's church, Tuesday evening.

The supper was served by members of the club and span in white coats and red carnations. The waiters were: A. E. Holland, Archibald Briggs, George B. Curran, Mr. Walters, J. A. Severance, George P. Parker, Percy L. Davidson, George Parlee, George Poch and W. L. Purdom.

The parish rooms were decorated with Japanese lanterns and streamers. Between the numbers of the entertainment popular songs were indulged in by the diners. The program included songs by Miss Ida Sanford of Somerville, selections assisted by Master Theodore Smith accompanied by his sister Violet, both of Wollaston, songs by Charles Wade and piano selections by James Wickham, the accompanist of the evening.

A clever exhibition of ledgerdom and sleight of hand was given by Lewis Carter of Roslindale, assisted by Roy Perkins. The usual handkerchief and hat tricks were performed. Stereoscopic pictures were thrown on the screen intermingled with slides of popular songs. The program closed with the "Star Spangled Banner."

The committee included Edward F. Parlee, Mr. Walters, F. G. Schahor, A. E. Holland, George B. Curran and Archibald Briggs, much credit is due Mr. Schahor who instigated the affair.

PROCT-THOMAS. One of the prettiest weddings that Quincy, has ever seen took place Wednesday night at the home of Miss Julia Irene Thomas who was married to Roy Proct.

The young couple are well known in Quincy. They were married by the Rev. R. E. Armstrong of Christ church. An exquisite gown of white satin trimmed with velvet lace was worn by the bride who carried a shower bouquet of lovely white bridal roses.

Mrs. Carrie E. Jones, the matron of honor, wore a pretty gown of pink marquisette over pink messaline and carried a large bouquet of beautiful pink roses. George F. Purinton of Winchester was best man.

The bride was given away by her brother, P. W. Thomas of Worcester. Wilson's orchestra orchestra during the evening, while Chester Broome kept time to its sweet strains in the capacity of us.

From Augusta the family moved to Quincy, where they resided for fourteen years. During their residence in Quincy, death entered the home in 1904 taking the youngest daughter, (Nellie Louise) Mrs. William H. Young.

On account of failing health Mrs. and Mrs. Snow left Quincy three years ago and settled on a farm in Vassalboro, Maine.

For the last six months his health had been steadily failing but death came as a shock to relatives and friends.

A widow and daughter survive him.

TEACHERS ASSOCIATION. Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald spoke on "What women can do for the schools, and what the schools can do for our girls," at the regular meeting of the Wollaston Parents-Teachers Association, Monday evening.

At the annual meeting Walter S. Pinkham called attention to the death of Dr. Wellington Rogers, and Walter S. Pinkham, Chester J. Campbell and J. Harry Hooper were appointed a committee on resolutions.

Samuel Bates of Cohasset sang several songs accompanied by Mrs. Herbert Y. Follet including "The white blacksmith," "Green sleeves" and "The rosary."

A social hour followed in which refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Carroll E. Bates, Mrs. Waite, Mrs. Nathan S. Bates, Mrs. Charles S. Adams and others.

MUSIC LOVERS PLEASED. One of the treats given lovers of music in Quincy, was Prof. Francis Gray's organ recital at the Christ church on Wednesday evening. By request, he played "The Storm," and his interpretation exceeded the expectations of those present. Members of the parish and friends attended in large numbers.

Solo numbers were rendered by J. W. McLeod of London, England, who is visiting here, he sang "Lamb of God," "Ever Safe with God," and "The Psalmist."

Do not fail to see the exhibition of holiday remembrances, beautiful table and floor lamps, for electric gas and oil, also handkerchiefs, beautiful shades, andrums, fenders, fire screens, etc., the largest display in the country at McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin street, corner Congress, Boston.

SCHOOLS OF TODAY.

A large number attended the meeting of the Parents-Teachers Association of the Wollaston school in the assembly hall Wednesday evening. Arthur C. Boyden, Principal of the Wollaston Normal School spoke on "Schools of Today."

The Quincy high school girls club sang the "Winter Song" and a double quartet rendered "The Rosary" by Miss Lawrence Martin as the soloist. Miss Emma A. Perkins, director of music in the public schools rendered three solos. "The Four Leaf Clover," "The Night has a Thousand Eyes," and "The Nightingale has a Lyre of Gold."

Mr. Boyden opened with a description of teaching by the old system and compared it with the present day. He said that vocational suggestion was the idea on which the pupil developed.

The schools, are trying to open the door of life to every child so that he may get as much as possible out of it. Parents are striving and working hard to give children more education than they themselves had.

The main idea of teaching is to get the child to think straight. All large questions can be solved if the essentials are figured out and the child is being taught this principle.

The schools are also trying to aid the pupils by having them do something, the exhibition of which is a source of gratification to the observers and satisfaction to the performer.

To have children appreciate the best things in life is another feature of school life on which Mr. Boyden dwelt at length. He spoke of the back to nature studies, the observation classes conducted by teachers in general, the explaining of the beauties of music and the lecturing on art.

He said he believed that a Victor talking machine, producing the best selections of noted composers would have a good effect on school children in classes that would never be effected.

In closing he said that teachers were trying to train the children in the things which are necessary to success. He spoke of building up character so that punctuality, silence, obedience, order and industry would be the rule of life.

Mr. Boyden said the teaching of religion was barred from school rooms but that truth, justice, patriotism, sympathy and self control was very close to religion and a man possessing such qualities could not be a bar to the progress of his neighborhood.

Refreshments were served by Miss Elizabeth Pope, Miss Mary Bragdon, Miss Ethel Marsh, Mrs. Cyrus T. Sherman, Mrs. Alex Russell and Mrs. C. F. Rasmussen.

ELKS CHRISTMAS. That the new officers have entered new life into Quincy lodge of Elks was manifest by the unusually large attendance at the regular meeting Tuesday evening. There was considerable business which included the initiation of five candidates into the mysteries of Elkindom. At the close of the business session an adjournment was made to the club rooms where several artists presented a pleasing program. The Quincy lodge band, directed by the Glider sisters; songs and monologues by William Baker with Miss Bessie Beasley as accompanist.

At the conclusion of the entertainment a salad supper was served. A collection was made among the members of the lodge and the Elks Christmas baskets which are to be distributed to people in the district. It required but a few minutes to raise $80 for this most worthy purpose. Contributions will be gladly received by the members of the committee at any time.

DANIEL B. SNOW. Quincy friends will regret to learn of the death of Daniel B. Snow, which occurred at his home in Vassalboro, Maine, December 1. Mr. Snow was born at Madison, Maine, Jan. 16, 1841. He enlisted for the civil war at Augusta, Maine, June 6, 1862 in the 16th Maine Infantry, Company G.

He was in the battles of Gettysburg, Chancellorsville, Antietam, and others, was taken prisoner and sent to Libby Prison where he remained six months.

The close of the war brought his discharge. He was twice wounded in battle. In 1868 he married Ellen C. Folson of Augusta, where they made their home for several years and where their children, two daughters were born.

From Augusta the family moved to Quincy, where they resided for fourteen years. During their residence in Quincy, death entered the home in 1904 taking the youngest daughter, (Nellie Louise) Mrs. William H. Young.

BOY PROBLEM.

"The Boy Problem" was the topic discussed at the meeting of the Parents-Teachers Association of the Adams school at their assembly hall Tuesday evening, by Frederick M. Dukes, Field Secretary of the Federal Boys' Clubs.

The meeting opened with songs by Miss Herman's class who sang "The First Christmas," "Song of Home Work," "Santa Claus," and the "Doll Song."

President Robert E. Foy introduced the speaker who related his experiences with this problem.

Mr. Dukes said that there were as many problems as boys, that we had the parent's, policeman's, neighbors' teacher's and boy's problems. He said that the three causes were leisure time, broken homes and defective children.

Mr. Dukes was given fine applause and a vote of thanks. A short business meeting followed, and there was a short talk by School-committee men Arthur Newcomb and Joseph H. McPherson.

Refreshments were served by Miss Elizabeth Ross, Mrs. Roderick McLean, Mrs. Benjamin Blinn, Mrs. Mrs. David Muckle and Mrs. Alfred Pinel.

DOUGLAS FAIR. Wednesday night in the Universalist vestry the Weymouth Dramatic club presented the farce in one act, entitled Done on Both Sides, with the following cast of characters: Mr. Whiffles, Leonard C. Williams; Mr. John Brownjohn, Fred Phillips; Mr. Pygmalion Phibes, Franklin P. Whitten; Mrs. Whiffles, Carrie S. Robinson; Lydia, P. Adelaide Whitten.

Frequent applause greeted the performers and all carried their parts well. The role of Pygmalion Phibes played by Franklin P. Whitten was a difficult part to portray but he was extremely successful in his conception of the character. This was the last night of the Douglas society fair and the remaining articles on the tables were quickly sold. Mrs. Geo. F. Spooner, president of the society had general charge of the fair, and through her faithful and untiring work and that of her assistants the success of the undertaking is due.

MUSIC SUPERVISOR RESIGNS. Miss Emma A. Perkins for the past three years, supervisor of music in the Quincy public schools has resigned her position to take effect at the close of the present term. Miss Perkins has worked hard and faithfully in the schools of the city and has successfully inaugurated the Weaver or individual method of teaching in elementary grade. The several musical organizations at the High school have come in to being under her leadership and are doing earnest work. Miss Perkins resigns to teach or train college classes in the Weaver method of teaching.

EAGLES IN OFFICE. John Adams Aerie, the local organization of Eagles, elected officers Wednesday evening at Electa hall. Final arrangements for the annual ball Jan. 24 at Alpha hall were completed. The Quincy lodge band, directed by the Glider sisters; songs and monologues by William Baker with Miss Bessie Beasley as accompanist.

At the conclusion of the entertainment a salad supper was served. A collection was made among the members of the lodge and the Elks Christmas baskets which are to be distributed to people in the district. UNITARIAN CLUB.

"Our state institutions" was the subject of Hon. Elmer E. Stevens, state treasurer, at the monthly meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club, Tuesday evening.

At the head table were: President, Louis F. R. Langelier; Hon. Elmer E. Stevens, Rev. Carl G. Horst, Rev. W. S. Key of South Carolina, first pastor of the church, Hon. Eugene C. Huston, Rev. Alfred Cross of Scotland, Rev. Archibald Howe of Cambridge, Walter J. Wellington, W. E. Simmons and Otto A. Hayward.

President William A. Mann of the Wollaston Congregational club on the proposed federation of men's clubs announced a meeting early in January.

Mr. Stevens said that besides the duties of the office he is a member of several committees including the board of appeal for tax cases, the board of appeals for the state house, and the state house commission under whose supervision plans for enlarging the state house are being prepared.

At present $75,000 a year in rentals is being paid for extra rooms outside the statehouse. In 20 years this would amount to about $1,500,000. The new addition will cost $800,000 and in payment of bonds and interest less will fall due each year than is now paid in rentals.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES. The Public Library has gradually been adding to its shelves copies of the Musicians Library, which many people have been anxious to see. The library has been arranged and it promises to be one of the best ever held.

Junior Friday club goes to Wollaston Monday afternoon to meet with Mrs. Alfred P. Thompson of Brook street. Miss Abigail B. Wood will have the program in charge, subject: "Elizabeth's Reign: Plantations and Rebellions," in continuation of the study of Ireland.

The state society of the Daughters of the Revolution is to observe Ten Party day on Monday, Dec. 16 at Hotel Vendome, Boston, at 2 P. M. Mrs. Mary A. Chapman will read a short paper pertaining to the day and there will be music, songs by Miss Eleanor Fox Allen, solo songs by Miss Mildred Ridley and piano solos by Mrs. Florence Starr Robinson and Marion Whitton. Tea will be served by member s of the Dolly Madison Chapter gowned in old-time costumes.

The Philargians of Braintree are to debate at their next meeting, Dec. 17, "The right of the child to be educated." Those in favor will be Mrs. William Gallagher, Mrs. Harry W. Hall, Mrs. George G. Ellsworth, Mrs. Walter A. Poore and Mrs. Lily B. Porter. Those against: Mrs. William F. Rogers, Mrs. Henry F. Knight, Miss Jane F. Edgcomb, Mrs. N. K. Gould, Mrs. George E. Stevens, Mrs. J. G. Schuyler, Mrs. Arthur W. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Walter E. Morrison and Mrs. Otis B. Oakman.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB. Another early session of the Quincy Women's club was held Tuesday afternoon at the club meeting, when the consideration of the by-laws as recommended by the committee. Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, president, called the meeting promptly for reports of the secretaries, treasurer, and committees and then proceeded to take up the by-laws section by section. They were read and approved, and unanimously, the only discussion being over the guest privilege and the removal of hats at all club meetings, the club voting that all hats must be removed.

The new by-laws increase the club membership from 30 to 50, which goes into effect on Jan. 1, so that 150 out of the 161 on the waiting list may enjoy most of this season's program.

By vote of the club the annual musical day at Music hall will be held Monday Jan. 28 instead of the regular afternoon as scheduled.

Owing to the Christmas holidays the next meeting of the club will be on Jan. 14, when Mrs. Christobel Kidder will read "The Blot on the Scutcheon."

In the absence of Mrs. Robert E. Park, chairman of the Legislative committee Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham introduced the speaker, E. Schuyler Matthews of Cambridge whose subject, "Wild Birds and Their Music," proved an hour of delight.

Mr. Matthews showed remarkable versatility as an artist, musician and naturalist, which combined with a pronounced literary style and delicate touch, made his presentation of the speaker one to interest old and young, even those who thought they knew nothing about birds and could not learn.

In Mr. Matthews the winged minstrels of the field and woods have an enthusiastic interpreter of their songs, and his presentation was most marvellous. When to this is added the ability to produce the songster in his true colors as illustrated by some forty water-colors exhibited by Mr. Matthews it would seem that nothing more could be desired, but that was not all for Mr. Matthews to further illustrate his lecture and received a showing remarkable ability and artistic temperament in his interpretations.

The piano selections were a pleasing feature, in which were shown the similarity of several bird songs to passages from the great composers as heard in Beethoven, Chopin and Schubert and club members have liked more than the mere illustration called for.

A fitting close to the lecture was the group of songs, sung by Mrs. Minnetta Dyer Long of Boston with Mr. Walter Rogers at the piano. Mrs. Long is contralto soloist at the Wollaston Congregational church and received a warm welcome from Wollaston club members. She sang "Rose in the bud," "Till I wake" and "Goodbye sweet day" and in response to the encore a "Bowl of Roses." Mrs. Long has a voice of remarkable depth and strength and sings with clear enunciation and appreciation.

Mrs. Barker of the hospitality committee served delicious hot chocolate, the pourers being Mrs. William Wilson and Mrs. Frederick Barnicot. The committee presented a large bunch of cosmos to the president. During the social hour many were interested to talk "birds" with Mr. Matthews and to inspect his water-colors at closer range. It was a very delightful afternoon in every way.

Notes and Comments.

The government experts have found that the fly carries infantile paralysis. The information comes too late for this year, but should be borne in mind during the next swatting season.

A Chicago policeman put on women's clothes and with a gold mesh bag dangling to his waist set out to find some one to snatch it. He volunteered. Perhaps the cop forgot to shave.—Taunton Herald.

Well, that $50 as salary for members of the Medford school board has been abolished, the officials may say that the sum is not big enough to set them up in business, while its loss will not invite bankruptcy.—Salem News.

In these gusty days the man who throws loose paper into the streets blows around in front of nervous horses, eager to run away in cold weather, deserves six months. He's no better than the prize idiot who throws a burning cigarette into a mass of inflammable stuff in a factory or loft room.

Some of the methods employed in what is known as intensive farming are now being used with good results by the poultryman. His hens are housed in clean and well-appointed living and sleeping quarters, carpeted with chaff and lighted by electricity. Compulsory exercise is provided, and the increased hours of light produce an increased laying power in the hen. As yet, however, this increased production has not reached such proportions as to affect the market price of eggs.—Milford Gazette.

After two score years of teaching newcomers to pronounce Spokane with a short "a" residents of this city have received a decided shock in the announcement by Edward S. Curtis, noted Indian authority, that the "a" should be long. Battle lines are drawn closely and the argument grows warmer as the days pass. Back east nearly all people call it "Spokane" with the "a" long as in "cane." When they come west with the pronunciation they are frowned down as tenderfeet, and are educated to say "Spokane." Now comes the edict of the Indian expert, and orthographers and etymologists have had their two score years of peace shattered. The old times are clinging tenaciously to the short "a," lest they be designated as tenderfeet by extremists. A board of arbitration has been suggested to settle the dispute.

THE CHAPERON.

A three act comedy, "The Chaperon" was presented to an appreciative audience at the New Colonial hall Friday, Dec. 13, by the St. Margaret's Guild of Christ Church. The production was under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabella Davis and the cast showed unusual ability.

Miss Elizabeth Dickie as Miss Morong, the principal of Cranford, every inch a conscientious school matron, and Mrs. Dymoncor's part was taken by Miss Adeline McDowell who acted in a most natural way the part of a woman whose distressed life could be brightened. The Mademoiselle Jeanne of Miss Marion Bolster was of the real French variety.

Miss Cora Barnicot was fetching as Joyce Dymoncor and Miss Florence Ford's Nora, Mrs. Dymoncor's maid was ludicrous, but true to life. The part of Miriam, the Gypsy was taken by Miss Olive Smith and Jill, the missing child was presented by Miss Lizzy Ross.

Miss Ethel Schools, one of the pupils who was threatened with appendicitis was able to appear although she was rather nervous.

In the second act Miss Ruth Dahl and Miss Ruth Ford depicted the Minnet and were accorded fine applause.

Those who assisted the members of the guild were Mrs. Byron Miller, Miss Edith Fox, Miss Isabella Walker, Miss Ruth Dahl, Miss Helen Schools, Miss Helen Crane.

Musical during the play was furnished by Miss Margaret Carruthers, Miss Hannah Litchfield and Miss Adelaide Spencer.

CHILDREN CRY FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

CITY COUNCIL.

Just 27 minutes was all that was required Monday evening to transact the business that came before the regular meeting of the City Council. There was practically no debate on any of the matters and business went along smoothly. Councilmen Bailey, Forde and Mahoney were absent.

President Hobbs granted permission for Councilman Barker and Mahoney and Councilmen Gilliat and Forde to change seats.

A venire was received for the drawing of twelve jurors. The Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Beman drew the following according to law: Thomas Swisher, Edward W. Coughlin, Henry L. Esterbrook, James Leonard, Richard E. Raycroft, Robert Finley, John D. Sutherland, Bernard F. Manning.

A communication was received from the Assistant Engineers asking for an increase in salary from $150 to $250 per year. Laid on the table until later when Councilman J. R. S. Ross offered an order for the same which was referred to joint committee on Finance and Ordinances.

A communication was received from the Mayor and City Clerk asking for $75 for Miscellaneous in the City Clerk's department. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Studley offered an order making the transfer from the appropriation for vital statistics. Adopted.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Board of Health asking for $500 for Miscellaneous and $1,200 for contagious diseases. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Craig offered orders for the same which were referred to the Finance Committee.

The City Auditor forwarded a communication stating that the order passed at the last meeting transferring $250 from Interest of Temporary Loans to City Clerk's Staff account could not be charged to that account as there were no funds. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Cunningham offered an order transferring the amount from Miscellaneous City receipts. Adopted.

A communication was received from the City Solicitor stating that the Council had authority to revoke the assessment on Tyler street if the same had been illegally assessed and reassessed. Placed on file.

A communication was received from the City Solicitor giving his opinion on the bill of George H. Brown for legal services to the School Committee in the matter of an injunction to restrain the city from selling the old Wollaston school buildings.

The City Solicitor in his opinion says: "In my opinion the bill for $25 of George H. Brown, dated Sept. 21, 1912 for services rendered to the school department as attorney, relative to a proposed petition to the Supreme Court for the purpose of enjoining the City from making a sale of the old Wollaston school house is not a legal claim against the city. The City Auditor should not approve the same."

On motion of Councilman Cunningham the bill and opinion of the City Solicitor were referred to the City Auditor.

Petitions were received from the N. E. T. & C. Co., for attachments on Crescent street, Newport avenue, Hollis avenue and Liberty street, and from the Q. E. L. & P. Co. for a relocation for poles on Old Colony avenue and Beale street. Granted.

The Committee on Fire Department reported an amendment to the order making an increase of five in the number of permanent firemen. The amendment reduces the number of call men by fifteen. Referred to the joint committee on Finance and Ordinances.

The Committee on Fire Department reported reference to the next City Council on the order for a fire alarm box on South Walnut street. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported on the following matters: Granting the New England Telephone Co., and Electric Light Co., a location for poles. Ordered to a second reading.

Reference to the next City Council on petitions to accept Winthrop street and petitions for location for poles. Accepted.

Ought not to pass on the orders for resurfacing Franklin street, accepting Saville street across the railroad tracks and changing the grade of Palmer street. The order for the widening of street was recommended and the remainder of the report was accepted.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported ought to pass on the order for $300 to purchase a lot of land near the Poor Farm. To Finance Committee.

An order for $1,000 to retube and repair boilers at the High school. Referred to Finance Committee.

Ought to pass on making certain transfers in the appropriation for Fire Department, order adopted.

The following orders in the calendar took their second reading and were passed to be ordained by roll call without any opposition. Appropriating $1,500 for Claims and Awards. Appropriating $900 for garbage.

Establishing three fire districts and rules and regulations concerning the construction of buildings. Increasing the salary of the City Solicitor from $1,400 to $1,600 per year. The order also provides that as clerk of the Finance Committee he shall receive $200 per year, making his salary practically $1,800.

Adjoined at 8.12 on motion of Councilman Sandberg until next Monday evening.

CLASS INITIATION.

A class initiation under the auspices of the Fore River Lodge, I. O. O. F. M. U., was held at Protection hall Saturday evening. Preceding the initiation a business meeting was held. H. W. Jentel of Boston, Provincial Corresponding Secretary was one of the visitors.

Degrees were conferred on 15 candidates, the work being done by the staff of the Mystic Lodge of Medford. Visitors were present from Dorchester Lodge, Boston Lodge, Merri-mac Lodge of Lowell, Prosperity Lodge of Pawtucket, R. I.

MR. CRANE REPORTS.

The report of Frank Fessenden Crane Commissioner of Water Front, Waterways and Navigation. To His Honor, Mayor Eugene R. Stone. Dear Sir: Acting under your authority as delegate to the National Rivers and Harbors Congress at Washington, D. C., December 4th, 5th, and 6th, I beg to report as follows:

Under the old method of an appropriation of approximately twenty million dollars, every alternate year for all the Rivers and Harbors of the United States, waterway improvement was naturally slow, and owing to the inadequate supervision of projects, unworthy matters occasionally received large appropriations, which brought disfavor on River and Harbors Bill.

Realizing that one of the great economic questions of the present day was that of transportation, The National Rivers and Harbors Congress was organized nine years ago under the able leadership of Senator Elect Joseph E. Ransdell of Louisiana to educate the public and the United States to a policy of improving the transportation facilities of the whole country by a systematic plan of waterway improvement under Government supervision. No projects to be allowed in Rivers and Harbors Bill that were not surveyed by the District Office and reported on favorably by him and also approved by the Board of U. S. Engineers at Washington.

The slogan of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress was A Policy and not a Project and its work has been the collection, preparation, and presentation to the Congress of the United States of such facts and statistics as will lead that body to make annual appropriations of not less than fifty millions for all the rivers and harbors of the whole country. This amount would enable all meritorious work to go on by a continuing contract system, and all unworthy projects would be eliminated by the supervision of the U. S. Engineers. While the Congress has not absolutely reached the fifty million mark, it has increased the ordinary appropriations about one hundred and fifteen million dollars since its organization and has brought about an annual River and Harbors Bill.

The Convention this year was a most notable one; the attendance unusually large and nearly every state was represented. President Taft, in making the opening speech, advocated the expenditure of fifty million dollars at once on the Mississippi Valley as the first and most important waterway project. It is needless to say that this sentiment did not meet with the approval of the Atlantic Coast Delegates.

Continuous work on reliable projects was one of the matters very strongly urged. All speakers emphasized the fact that when meritorious projects were begun they should be carried forward to completion that the people might enjoy the benefit.

The issuing of Bonds for the improvement of waterways did not meet with favor, it being the general sentiment that if the annual appropriation of waterways was limited to a rest but he took up duties of active citizenship, and in him we must recognize not only a great educator but a great example of American citizenship.

As Dr. Eliot rose to speak the club rose as one man and gave him a royal ovation. He spoke for over an hour in an even moderate tone of voice apparently without emotion of any kind. His address was an exceedingly interesting one and he was followed closely by his hearers.

In opening he said the fundamental object of his visit is to promote a sense of brotherhood and a great united public spirit. He had just been touring two great European countries where the ideas of brotherhood have never taken hold of the mass of the people. China has just got hold of the idea that the government was for the benefit of the whole people. This has come from the education of the young Chinamen. It is not the idea in China to help one another but to let a diseased and injured person run about with no public or private care for the distressed.

There are a great variety of charters for the commission form of government. In some cities they include the election of school committee and in other cities the schools are entirely separate while in others the schools are in the hands of the commission. Many questions will arise as to which is the best form for Quincy and you will have to select that which is most practical for your needs.

The fundamental principles of a commission form of government are first a short ballot. This is one thing that is needed if we are to get an efficient government. The short ballot makes bosses and machine workers. It is impossible for any citizen to intelligently use one of the long ballots unless some machine helps you, and indicates for whom you should vote. At the election in Cambridge, Dr. Eliot said that he had seen the machine help in Massachusetts (laughter).

The long ballot puts the power into the hands of the bosses and we will never escape until we get a short ballot. Another thing is that in the

FIRST PARISH CLUB.

It was a very large and representative body of men who gathered at the monthly meeting of the First Parish club at the First church this evening. In fact it was the most largely attended of any of the meetings. The subject of the evening was one in which the thinking men of Quincy are very much interested, especially at the present time when the city is confronted with the highest tax in its history with the prospect not very bright for a lower rate next year.

Among men who gathered, about the long tables in the chapel for dinner, were many prominent in the affairs of the city in the present and other years. They included Mayor Stone and ex-Mayors, Russell A. Sears, John O. Hall, Charles M. Bryn and William T. Shea. On the platform were Theophilus King, Col. Edward Anderson, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. Hudson, George E. Pfaffman, Henry M. Faxon, Hon. Charles M. Butler, Charles C. Hearn, president of the Board of Trade and Mayor Eugene R. Stone.

After an invocation by Col. Anderson the usual dinner of roast beef, creamed potatoes, string beans, rolls, celery, ice cream and jumbles was served by the boys of the Junior Oyster Club.

The dinner was over at 7.30 and after listening to the report of the secretary of the last meeting, Dr. Hudson spoke briefly in introducing the speaker.

He said that the topic was one of universal interest because of the high taxes that are not for the city but for the people. It is not for the city but for the people. It is not for the city but for the people. It is not for the city but for the people.

COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

It is the most fundamental of all forms of government to obtain for citizens, workers capable of giving effect to their own ideas. Among the struggling from incompetent men put in charge of great interests. The work to be done under the commission form is just plain business. It is like a great railroad, where they have a board of directors who simply execute. We need water supplies, sewers, police, bridges and other things. There is no question as to the policy of these things and the best way is to put the question to the people by popular vote. The question is how to get these things and have the business done straight. This is downright business with no politics in it.

All corporations have a small group of managers, or directors. These directors employ no one but experts, certified to them. The result is that under these few directors we have a group of heads of departments who are chosen managers of the city. All men under them serve during good behavior and efficiency. This is absolutely the only way discovered to produce local intelligent service.

If the citizens of Quincy are to study the question, the best way is to get the answers of these cities that have adopted the form and see what has been accomplished. Then it is necessary to study the nature of the voting body. Is the majority of the vote cast by poll tax payers or by men of property? Is it a voting body of tax payers or a voting body of property owners? The question to consider is, does any form of religion possess the majority of the vote. If you want to take up the question the first thing to do is to appoint a committee to study these methods and you will find some favor greater supervision and some less.

The great democracy to have a government so that no one man is held responsible for failure. So in our present form of government the responsibility is not fixed on any one man. The responsibility in most forms of commission forms of government can be traced to one man, for in this form each has his part of the work to do.

The speaker then touched at length on Houston Texas where much had been accomplished in the way of public improvements without creating a loan or increasing the tax rate. He had made a personal study of this city and he had learned that the secret was that the commission got the work done.

He said that the topic was one of universal interest because of the high taxes that are not for the city but for the people. It is not for the city but for the people. It is not for the city but for the people. It is not for the city but for the people.

KING-JONES.

While parents and friends were preparing for their marriage on or about Christmas Day, Miss Evelyn Temple Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jones of 52 River street, quietly left home Thursday in company with her sister Miss Ethel, her intended husband, Lovett Morton King at Boston and journeyed to Somerville where ceremony was performed by Rev. William M. Crawford. The news of the marriage was revealed by Miss Ethel Jones, the bridesmaid who returned home, and told her parents. Considerable surprise was expressed by all the members of the family at the suddenness of the marriage.

Thomas Shea of Woburn, a chum of the groom was the best man. The bride is the oldest daughter and is one of fourteen children. She is a machine operator, employed at a South Braintree factory, and is a popular Quincy Point resident.

The groom is chief engineer of the Collier Electric. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. King left on an extensive honeymoon and on their return will reside at 26 Bow street, Woburn.

CRABBE-HAMILTON.

Miss Eva Lena Hamilton and Capt. Herbert Charles Crabbe, both of St. Johns, New Brunswick, were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Carl J. Johnson of 27 Pleasant street, Tuesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. G. Potter, pastor of the Howard Avenue M. E. church of Allston.

They were unattended and the double ring service was used. Only the immediate relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride was handsomely gowned in embroidered marquisette, on train, trimmed with white satin and roses and Irish lace yoke and collar. A lovely veil was caught up with satin roses and orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of white roses.

Guests were present from Allston, Dorchester, Salem and Boston. The bride has been living in Quincy for about three months and is a dressmaker. The groom is a river captain for the St. John Steamship Co. He has many friends in the New England states, having made their acquaintances while they were touring the provinces.

Mr. and Mrs. Crabbe will make their home on Main street, Fairville. The veil was caught up with satin roses and orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of white roses. Guests were present from Allston, Dorchester, Salem and Boston. The bride has been living in Quincy for about three months and is a dressmaker. WILLIAM BRIGGS.

William Briggs died at his home 93 Appleton street, Atlantic, Dec. 21, after a brief illness of pneumonia in his 75th year. He had a large family and leaves a wife, Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Briggs, three daughters, Mrs. Frank Arthur Emery, Miss Beatrice M. Briggs, a teacher in the public schools of Milton, Miss A. Maud Briggs a teacher in Boston and two sons, George H. Briggs and Arthur Briggs of the Quincy High school of 1897.

The funeral services were held from the residence of his daughter Mrs. Frank Arthur Emery, 131 Billings street, Atlantic, Monday at 2 o'clock. Dec. 22. Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra, rector of the Episcopal church, Wollaston officiating.

The musical selections, which were very feelingly rendered, by Mrs. Mary Hastings Slade of Quincy were "Aldie with Me," "Lead Kindly Light," "Face to Face."

The body was taken to Cedar Grove Cemetery for burial.

Mr. Briggs was born in 1837 at Wyke, Yorkshire, England. He married in Leeds, England, Miss Ann Elizabeth Meek, a sister of William Todd Meek, Manager and second teacher of the famous Ruggles street church made quartette of Boston.

Commencing in 1858, and after a career of 14 years as a schoolmaster in Wyke and Leeds, England he came to America in 1872 and was immediately appointed a teacher in the Massachusetts Normal Art School, when it was first organized by Prof. Walter Smith, principal of the school and art director of Massachusetts at Wollaston.

This was the beginning of Art and Industrial Education in America.

Following a period of 11 years in this work, he went in 1883 to Fitchburg Public Schools, where as teacher of art, drawing and manual training, he made an enviable reputation as teacher for 26 years, after which he returned in 1899 at the age of 72 years.

The Class of 1909 Fitchburg High School, dedicated to Mr. Briggs its Class book as a token of esteem, giving on one page a fine large portrait of Mr. Briggs, with the following testimony:

"To our esteemed friend and teacher, Mr. William Briggs, who for 26 years has been a faithful and efficient teacher in the schools of Fitchburg, and whose ideal in his chosen profession have been of the highest. We, the class of 1909 dedicate this book."

Mr. Briggs was superintendent of the Boston Normal Art school and with Walter Smith, organized that institution. He compiled a drawing book, creating many designs, which he put together and were published by the Prang company and used for many years all over the country in the public schools.

AT ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S.

The following music will be rendered at the morning and evening services at St. Chrysostom's church, Wollaston on Sunday:

Magnificat Barnby
Nunc Dimittis Barnby
Sing On Heavens Tours
Oh Holy Night Adam
Glory To God Rotoli

The choir will be assisted by Mr. W. G. Spooner as soloist and Mr. George E. Allen baritone and Mrs. George B. Curran organist and choir director will be at the organ.

CHARTER REVISION.

The citizens committee interested in the proposed revision of the City Charter will meet in the Mayor's office at City Hall Saturday night. The object of the meeting is to draw up the petition and bill to be presented to the legislature. Several citizens have been heard to express interest in the amendments proposed and voted at the committee last Saturday evening and the general opinion seems to be that the remedy sought by reducing the number of members of the City Council will not be obtained by the proposed amendments which consist of nine members, of which each ward shall have one representative and three at large. The general opinion is that if amended, all nine members should be elected at large. Furthermore it is advisable to reduce the number of members of the City Council to five, and to have a council of nine members, of which each ward should be elected for one year, three for two years and three for three years and thereafter each year three should be elected for three years. By this method the council would always have six members who have at least one or two years experience. The chances also are that when the matter comes up for a hearing that there will be considerable opposition to the elimination of party designation.

WOLLASTON FIRE.

Passengers on the early evening train, Thursday to and from Boston saw a spectacular fire as they passed the plant of the Hall Locomotive Co. on Old Colony avenue, Wollaston. The fire started among some oil barrels on the floor of the one story building. The glass ventilators on the roof of the building were soon smashed by the heat thus furnishing a good draft for the flames.

In the building were a number of brass castings that had been made during the day as well as many valuable patterns. Just how much these are damaged, and what the loss will be is hard to tell. It is thought however that it will be heavy. The loss on the building is estimated by Chief Littlefield at $1,000.

It was after 8 o'clock before the recall was sounded.

BOYS' MEET.

The seventh annual Boys' meet will be held this afternoon at the local gymnasium. Entries from Boston, Salem, Norwood, Lynn, Cambridge, Somerville, Hyde Park, Clapp Memorial, Malden, Everett, N. Abington, Wakefield and Quincy have already been received and several other associations are expected to send in a list of names. Over 75 boys will take part in the different events which are graded according to age.

The meet has been won by Quincy four times out of the six years it has been held, Malden and Cambridge each winning the trophy once. This year it is doubtful if the local Association will carry off the honors as the best point winner of the Junior Class, Kenneth Briggs, has not sent in his name.

The first event, 15 yard dash for Class A will commence promptly at 2 o'clock.

SOUTH QUINCY

Raphael Zaccardo of 141 Quincy street is at the Quincy City Hospital where he was taken Saturday evening in the police ambulance at request of Dr. Daniel B. Reardon who was called to the house and found him suffering from alcoholic poisoning. On his arrival at the hospital he was immediately treated and this morning showed signs of complete recovery. He is now under the care of Dr. N. S. Hunting of the hospital staff. The condition of the man is said to be the result of an over indulgence of "bug juice."

One of the milk wagons of James Mattie of Braintree, driven by his son Walter Mattie was struck by the electric car from Brockton due in Quincy at 7:40, on Independence avenue, Saturday evening near the line between Braintree and Quincy. The driver of the wagon was thrown out and the car crew and passengers who rushed to his assistance volunteered to secure a physician, but he declined and said that he was all right. The wagon was but little damaged.

The lost child call at 5:32 Monday night was to summons help to search for John, the 7 year old son of Dennis McCarthy of Copeland street who had been missing since 2 o'clock. The little fellow showed up at home however soon after the alarm sounded. It seems that desiring to see what was doing in City Square on the holiday, he had wandered away from home and had a fine time in the stores. He was having a ride on the back of a wagon toward home and was at Brewer's corner when the call sounded. He recognized his box as being that near his home and jumping from the slow going wagon ran home to see the mother. When he arrived he found a crowd collected and about to go on a search for him.

The "Julietta" service was celebrated at the Swedish Baptist church at 5:30 o'clock Christmas morning under the direction of Rev. Paul Hallin, who also delivered the sermon. The church was filled with a large number of guests and music was rendered by the choir. In the evening a childrens concert was well attended.

The burglar who went to sleep could hardly be credited with being alive to the importance of his job or his safety.

According to the figures given out, one might be pardoned for a preference to being a New York banker than president of the United States.

Now that official holidays are over for a few weeks, we can settle down to something like reasonable consideration of ordinary every day events.

A western newspaper man reports that he was fattened by cannibals but escaped. The average newspaper man would make pretty hard picking for even cannibals and maybe his escape was not so much of an accident after all.

OPEN HOUSE.

The Granite City club kept open house for its members and friends the night before Christmas at its rooms in the Savings Bank building. While the storm doled down outside, the club members were in the building trying to get a train that would bring them home, there was a large attendance of members and their friends. The club dispensed its usual hospitality and made everybody welcome. From 8 to 12 o'clock the Wollaston orchestra discouraged music playing all the popular airs. All of the billiard and pool tables were in constant use and in the card room there were several tables in use by bid whist players. Others gathered in the parlor and listened to the music or watched the billiard, pool and card games that were in progress.

In the dining room there was plenty of good things to eat. Two large hams furnished the necessary accompaniment for a sandwich while, on the side tables were fruit of all kinds, crackers, cheese and hot cocoa. Everybody was made welcome and the entertainment committee did its best to see that all had a good time, and the general impression was that they had succeeded.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

At the little home on the hill, the Hospital, the unfortunate who by illness were unable to pass the day at their own fireside were made as far as possible to forget their sufferings. In the morning the choir of Christ church visited the hospital and for an hour or more sang Christmas carols. At noon those whose condition would permit were given a taste of some of the good things to eat. The rule in regard to visitors was not strictly enforced and the patients were allowed to receive all the friends they desired, unless their condition was such that it would work harm. The friends of the patients brought many gifts to lighten the hearts of those whose illness kept them from actively participating in the Christmas joys.

SALVATION ARMY.

Thirty of the more unfortunate residents of Quincy were given baskets at the Salvation Army barracks, 150 Granite street on Dec. 24, and several applications were refused after an investigation showed them to be impostors. The distribution commenced at four o'clock and while the blinding snow storm raged outside many who had come early rested in the comfortable chairs of the rooms. Collections were made during the month and the tripods with the suspended kettle and red lettered sign and a uniform attendant has been a familiar figure on Quincy streets. Chicken, averaging nine pounds with all the "fixings" were in the baskets and if the recipient was unable to bring it home it was carried for her.

AT QUINCY HOME.

Christmas was observed at the various public institutions in Quincy in the usual manner. At the Quincy Home, Overseer of the Poor, Eleck House, to it that the unfortunate had a good turkey dinner with all of the fixings and in addition to this they were provided with Christmas gifts. Some of the men received new suits of clothing, while mittens, shoes and other useful articles were given to the unfortunate so that they were made as far as possible to forget that they once had a home of their own.

REMEMBERED THE POOR.

The ladies of the Quincy Catholic club as has been their custom in other years saw to it that many poor families were remembered on Christmas. Aside from providing dinners, for many of the poor families they were included in the basket mittens for the children and other things that would gladden the hearts of parents as well as children.

FIRST CHURCH FESTIVAL.

The annual Christmas festival of the Sunday school of the First church was held Tuesday evening and there was a good attendance of the pupils and their friends in spite of the bad weather. The school gathered at 6:30 and for half an hour sang Christmas carols. Then there was a brief Christmas entertainment at the conclusion of which Santa Claus made his appearance and was hailed with delight by the pupils. The doors on the platform was thrown aside disclosing a large Christmas tree loaded down with good things. Santa Claus was kept busy for some time distributing the gifts and every member of the Sunday school received some remembrance.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The entertainment of the Wollaston Congregational Sunday school was held Christmas afternoon and opened with carol singing. Sung Chuan Li, a Harvard graduate appeared in native costume and performed many American and Chinese tricks of legerdemain and sleight of hand. His oriental grace combined with his skillful manipulation made the performance an interesting one. Santa Claus, in the person of F. J. Hamel appeared at the close of the entertainment and made all of the children happy with candy and other good things.

MOORE-FLEMING.

Miss Jennie Fleming of Bethlehem Pa. and William Moore were married Christmas eve by Rev. J. A. Matheson. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gillis of 93 North street.

Miss Jennie Kerr, a niece of the bride was her attendant. William Sheriff was the best man. The bride was dressed in white silk, with pearls, and carried brides roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in a white embroidered gown and carried carnations.

A wedding supper was served and a large number of guests were present. Many pretty presents were given the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore will live at 3 Broadway.

TRAINER-LOWE.

A very pretty home wedding took place in the presence of the immediate families on Christmas night when Miss Norma Cutler Lowe and James Lewis Trainer were married at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Lowe of 246 Washington street, Quincy.

The bride is a teacher in the Commercial Department of the Quincy High school and graduated from there in 1899. The groom is a manufacturer of Weymouth and well known in the city.

Two old families of the Bay State were united by the ceremony as the bride is a descendant of Admiral John Lowe of Governor Endicott's Colonial fleet and the groom is a descendant of Peregrine White, the first of the Pilgrims to land on Plymouth Rock.

Rev. Rufus Dix of the Universalist Church of Weymouth performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her father and her sister Miss Dorothy Parker Lowe was her attendant. Russell E. Nash of Weymouth was the best man.

As the bridal party entered the room the Mendelssohn wedding march was played by the groom's niece, Miss Sarah Trainer. After the ceremony the couple were assisted in receiving by the groom's mother, Mrs. Adelaide Phillips Trainer of Weymouth and Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Lowe.

The bride was dressed in a blue broadcloth travelling suit. Mr. and Mrs. Trainer left for a honeymoon trip after a Christmas supper was served. They will be at home at 19 Sterling street, Weymouth, after Mar. 1, 1913.

HINGHAM-LEA.

Miss Annie Lea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lea of 41 Broadway and Harry Hingham of Fall River were married at the home of the bride's parents on Christmas day by Rev. C. P. Marshall of the Church of the Pilgrimage of Plymouth and formerly pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church.

The ceremony was attended only by the immediate relatives and friends of the family. A short reception followed, after which a Christmas dinner was served.

The bride has been employed as a clerk at the Thorp and Martin Co., Boston, and the groom is a weaver and lives at Fall River where they will reside. Mr. and Mrs. Hingham were both born in England.

The Wilson cabinet makers are still on the job.

CONSTABLE-ELLSWORTH.

Miss Fanny Ellsworth of Quincy and Howard Constable of New York city were married in the presence of the immediate families at the home of the bride, 18 Russell Park, Christmas day. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward E. Anderson.

Miss Ellsworth was attended by her sister, Mrs. Max Blau and her brother Dr. S. W. Ellsworth. The bride is a prominent Quincy resident and is the daughter of the late Rev. Alfred A. Ellsworth. The groom is an architect.

ITALIAN COUPLE MARRIED.

At the St. John's parochial residence Christmas night, Miss Clementina Argea Barsanti and Mr. Jacopo Iacconi were married by Rev. John J. Coan. Miss Jennie Barsanti, a sister of the bride was her attendant and Otterino Barsanti was the best man. Following the ceremony there was a reception at their home on 22 Plymouth street. The groom is a shoemaker, employed at a South Braintree factory and well known in South Quincy.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE.

The dancing party in aid of the Quincy Day Nursery at Alpha hall, Monday evening proved to be a most delightful affair. About 70 couple of younger people attended and enjoyed dancing until 11 o'clock. Music by Wilson's orchestra.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mr. Paul Blackmur and Mrs. William H. Doble.

The following young men were usherers:

Maurice Blackmur, John Pfmann, Kenneth Edward, William Edwards, Kenneth Doble, Winslow Sears, Starr White, Bruce Saville, Albert Parker, Gordon Jameson, Henry Safford, Carlton Smith, Eric Patch, Ryder Gay and Donald Crane.

The success of the party was due to committee which consisted Mrs. John H. Johnson, Mrs. George E. Pfmann and Mrs. E. E. Jameson.

BATES REUNION.

The eighth annual reunion of the Charles F. Bates family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Albee, Highland avenue Christmas day. After the dinner was enjoyed, the eight grandchildren and all welcomed the arrival of Santa Claus, who came on runners for the first time in years, and distributed the gifts at the Christmas tree. Present at the dinner were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bates, Miss M. Elizabeth Bates of Providence, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bates and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Horace F. Bates and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Albee, Elizabeth and Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll E. Bates, Dorothy and Eleanor, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Gallagher, Carolyn and baby William, and Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Tenney. Mr. Amos D. Albee and Miss Isabel Albee were present at the Christmas tree.

The beautiful lighting fixtures, comprising the new exquisite glass, including ceiling fixtures and floor lamps, with silk and art shades, over six hundred styles, shown by McKenney & Waterbury Co., No. 181 Franklin, corner Congress street, Boston, made a most unusual holiday remembrance.

METHODIST ANNIVERSARY.

The Anniversary Committee of the Hall Place M. E. Church has decided to observe the 45th, 40th and 35th Anniversaries, Wednesday, Jan. 1st, from 6 to 10 o'clock.

It is the 45th anniversary of the organization of the Sunday school, the 40th anniversary of the formation of the church and the first sermon preached under Methodist auspices and the 35th anniversary of the dedication of the church. These anniversaries occur on different dates but as they cover a period of time it has been decided to celebrate them all on this date as it was on Jan. 1st, 1873 that the Sunday School, then under the control of the Congregational Church of Quincy, voted to go over to the Methodist Church.

The celebration will commence at 6 P. M. with a banquet. Only five of the former pastors of the church are living at the present time and have been invited to attend. Invitations have also been sent to all those who were connected with the Sunday School at that time. Several persons who were teachers in the Sunday School at the time it was placed in the care of the Methodist church are still residents of Quincy and are expected to be present that night. The pastor of the Bethany Congregational church has been invited as the Sunday school was under their charge.

The repairs on the church are not yet completed but as it would be impossible to finish them before Jan. 1st the committee will strive to make it as attractive and pleasant as possible for all.

A pleasant, profitable and enjoyable evening is expected.

About one half of the membership of the Hall Place M. E. Sunday school were present at the annual Christmas tree celebration Tuesday evening. Santa Claus was present and distributed gifts to all.

Robert Newcomb was presented with a purse of money as an expression of thanks for the many hours of faithful work he has put in on the church.

The Ladies Aid presented the pastor with a fountain pen and ink eraser.

Paul Martin acted as Santa Claus. Three dozen chairs were received as a Christmas present from manufacturing friends of the Pastor at a former pastorate. One dozen of these chairs were presented to the choir, each chair bearing the name of the member of the choir to whom the chair belongs so long as they shall remain a member. The other two dozen are for the Primary department.

All members not present at the Christmas tree may secure their presents by calling at the Parsonage or they will be given out in Sunday School, Sunday.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

A large number attended the Christmas services at St. John's Catholic church. Special music was rendered by the choir. Regular masses were celebrated at 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10:30.

The last mass, a solemn high was celebrated by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan. Rev. Fr. John J. Casey was deacon and Rev. Fr. P. J. Scannell was sub deacon. They also officiated at the solemn high vespers in the evening. The first mass was a high mass and at the eight o'clock mass the children of the church rendered Christmas hymns.

AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

"Jack" Mason, has again conquered the Boston theatregoing public and his return to the Hollis Street Theatre with his new play "The Attack" awakened a demonstrative response from his legion of admirers. Boston has surrendered to "The Attack" as unconditionally as New York did. The play is probably the most powerful drama in which John Mason has ever appeared. Any play from the pen of Henri Bernstein, one of the foremost dramatists of France is sure to command attention, if only for the hope that once again Bernstein may turn out as splendid and human a drama as "The Thief." It is not too much to say that "The Attack" equals if not surpasses Bernstein's previous great success.

But it was "Jack" Mason that Bostonians wanted to acclaim, when he crowded the Hollis Street Theatre on Mr. Mason's opening night. Large audiences, representative of fashion and culture have thronged the Hollis on every subsequent night, and it is a source of regret that his engagement cannot be prolonged beyond the time set for it and the farewell performance of his present visit must therefore take place on Saturday, January 4th.

Mr. Mason appears in the character of a man of fame and wealth, a widower of fifty-three, one of the leaders of political France. He is so eminent that envy seeks to pull him down. A scandal-mongering sheet accuses him of having stolen money when a youth. He is compelled to sue the author of the report for libel. He wins his suit. But the story was true, and he confesses this to the young girl who has given him her love. He puts himself on trial before the judgment of this young and trusting creature whose faith in him is perfect, and for the sake of his love he has to be a holy being.

Although Mr. Mason carries the burden of the play on his staunch shoulders, he has the artistic co-operation of a very fine company. The young Swedish actress, Martha Hedman, a discovery of Charles Frohman, is one of the most charming and beautiful ingenues seen here this season. Matinees on New Year's day and Saturday.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

For the first week of the New Year at B. F. Keith's Theatre, a surpassing array of brilliant star attractions has been engaged. Joe Welch, perhaps the most famous Hebrew comedian on the American stage, and without question one of the greatest delineators of the Hebrew character that ever trod the boards, will appear in his latest act, "A Study From Real Life." Mr. Welch does not burlesque the Hebrew, he rather depicts him just as one meets him on the street, and his impersonation is a vivid and realistic picture. Mr. Welch comes to B. F. Keith's Theatre with a brand-new fund of experience, and all who visit Keith's next week may rest assured the week will be Homer Land, former chair of the Metropolitan and Henry W. Savage Opera Company, who will appear in a musical playlet in three scenes "The Opera Singer." This comedy deals with life behind the scenes, and Mr. Lind appears as a broken down operatic singer who has been obliged to play the cheaper theatres to eke out a precarious living. He is supported by a capable company. Ralph Smalley, America's greatest cellist, formerly of the Boston Symphony orchestra, will return after a long absence, and other big features will be Klutznig's Animal Entertainers, a wonderful troupe of dogs, cats, rabbits and pigeons; Wood and Wide, two newcomers with something good; Canon and Herbert, comedy acrobats; Warren and Conley in a dainty vaudeville mixture; Lena Pantzer, queen of the wire, and many others.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"The Gingerbread Man" has made a hit at the Castle Square. Its second week begins on Monday, and the coming week will be crowded with the past week. The school children have been having the time of their lives, it being vacation, and the matinee performances especially have been crowded with them. They have heartily applauded and laughed over their favorite Mother Goose personages as they are seen on the stage, and the glimpses of fairy land disclosed by the beautiful scenery has been the cause of no end of delight.

There are novelties to "The Gingerbread Man" in plenty. In addition to the play itself and its music, there are two interpolated scenes that are causing an immense amount of laughter. The first is called "Preparing Madame X for the Axe," and its return will be appreciated by all who saw Mr. Craig's production of "Madame X" a few weeks ago. Mabel Colcord appears in a burlesque interpretation of Madame X, and she is assisted by Henrietta McManuel, Sylvia Bladen and George Trader. Following this scene "Othello up to Date," with Mr. Meek as the Moor, and Al Roberts as Mrs. Othello.

Next week there will be an added feature in the appearance of Miss Virginia Tannier in her famous Egyptian dances. Mr. Meek is making a hit in the title role, and with Mary Young as Jack Horner, Florence Shiras as Margery Daw, Lauret Browne as Mazie Bon Bon, Walter Walker as Santa Claus Carney, Christie as Simon Simple and Wilson Melrose, the cast is one of the best ever given a holiday production at the Castle Square.

BUFFALO JONES.

After an absence of a year from Boston, Buffalo Jones returns Monday, appearing at Tremont Temple, Boston every afternoon and evening for the entire week. He has had a long and wide experience as a hunter and tamer of wild animals, and as keeper of Yellowstone Park, he has had the charge and care of almost every variety of beast known on the American continent. Col. Jones is not a slayer of animals; he teaches kindness in their treatment, and in the course of his lecture at Tremont Temple he will give many anecdotes of his experiences both among the Rocky Mountains and in Africa. During his expeditions he has taken many wonderful motion pictures and these will be displayed and used to illustrate the principal points of his lecture, which will be given at 2:30 in the afternoon and 8:15 in the evening.

SUFFRAGETTES PARTY.

The dancing party of Suffragettes at Electa hall Christmas eve was the means of distributing gifts between well known Scotch and English families of Quincy Point. Many were present and enjoyed dancing until the wee hours of Christmas morn. The committee in charge was Mrs. Edith McClellan, Mrs. Alice Newson, Mrs. Margaret Newson, Mrs. Margaret Nicol, Mrs. Margaret Winslip and Charles Best.

ITALIAN BALL.

The annual dance of the Italian Mutual Relief society was held at St. Mary's hall, Thursday evening, and an unusually large number of guests were present from Boston, Braintree, Dorchester, Weymouth, Milford, N. H., and Barre Vt.

Dancing was enjoyed until early morn, and music was furnished by the orchestra of Carmine Mazzola. Refreshments were served in the lower hall.

The committee consisted of Peter Josephine, Angelo Fontoni, Daniel DiBona, Carmine DiLucca, Frank DiBona, Alessio DiBona, Joseph Fontoni, Ernest Ferrazzo, Leonardo Colombi, Joseph DiBona.
